

WE often speak of the University of Arkansas as a "community", and correctly so. It embraces the common interests and the divergent viewpoints characteristic of every community. It finds continuity of purpose in the desire for knowledge and the striving for excellence. Its interests are broad in aspect, reaching into every portion of Arkansas and embracing all phases of our educational, economic and cultural life. It is a part of the vast community of Arkansas. It should reflect the best in organized living as a leavening process in the larger community which it exists to serve.

PROGRESS UNITES

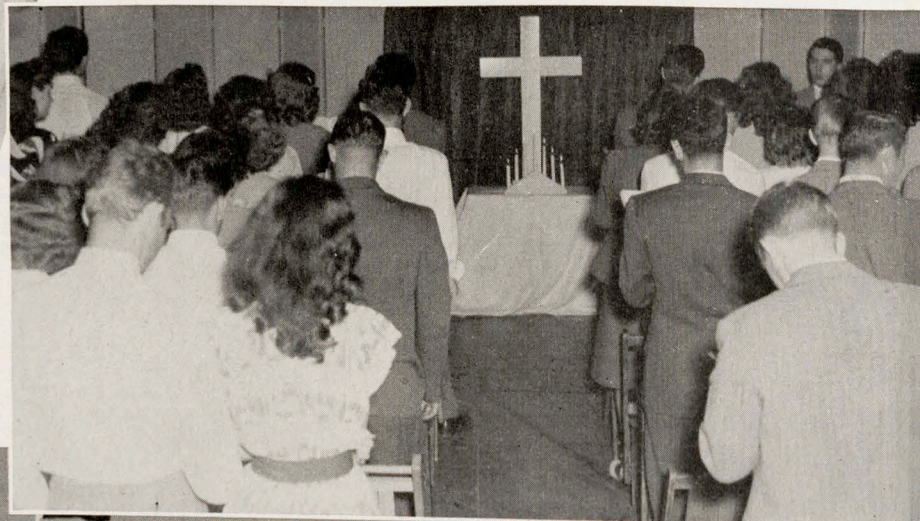

WITH TRADITION

TO FORM OUR

HERE at the University of Arkansas, we have our own community, one which has much in common with the state's other communities—with its villages, towns and cities. In the greater community of Arkansas, our campus is the home of the student, the scientist, the poet, and the businessman, lawyer and farmer, each preparing to take his place in our forward-striding state. We function as a community: we have our own student government, we issue our own publications, we produce our own entertainments. Strengthened by the traditions of democracy and intellectual freedom, we meet the everyday problems of our small community as students and citizens building for a better state and nation.

COLLEGIATE COMMUNITY

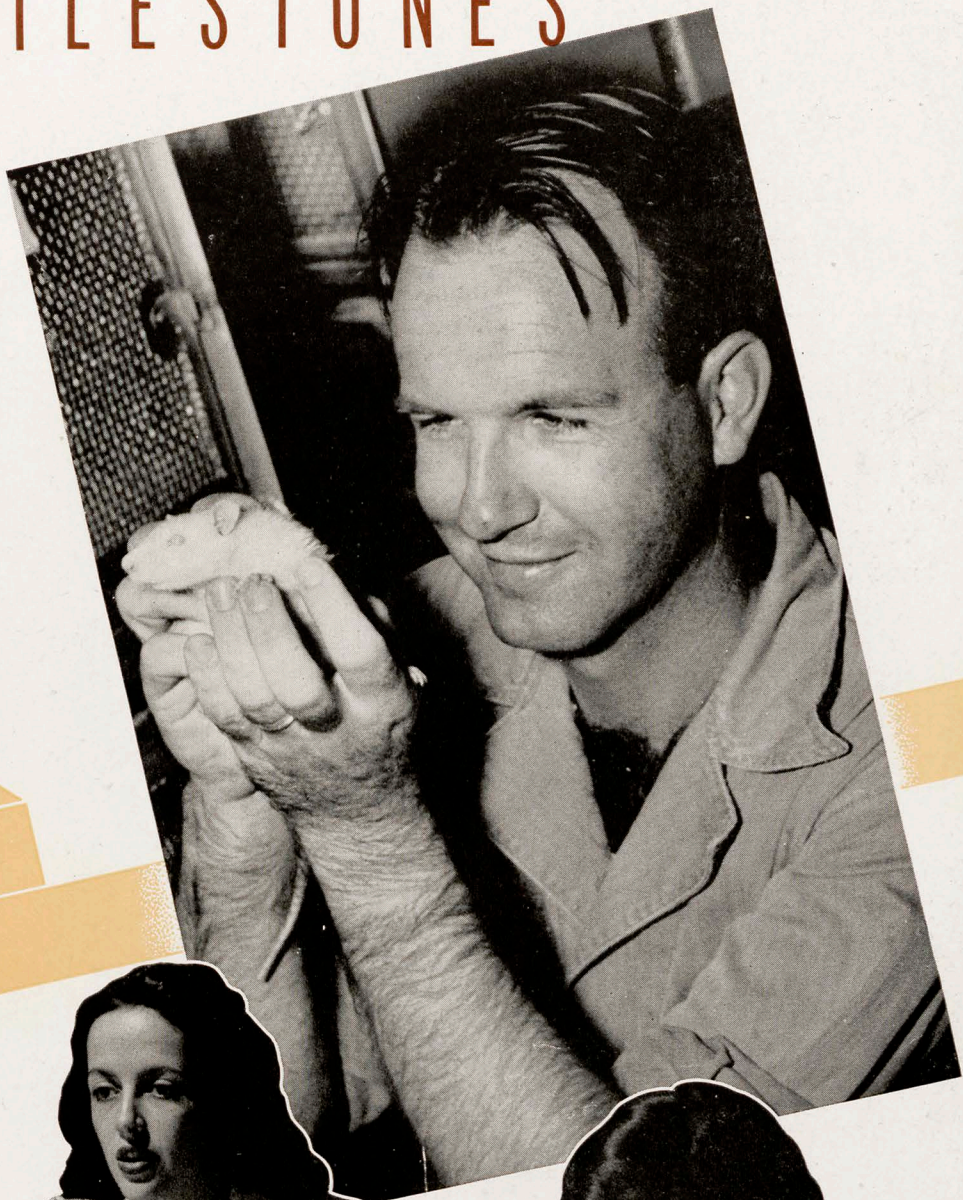

ERECTING NEW

ACADEMIC MILESTONES

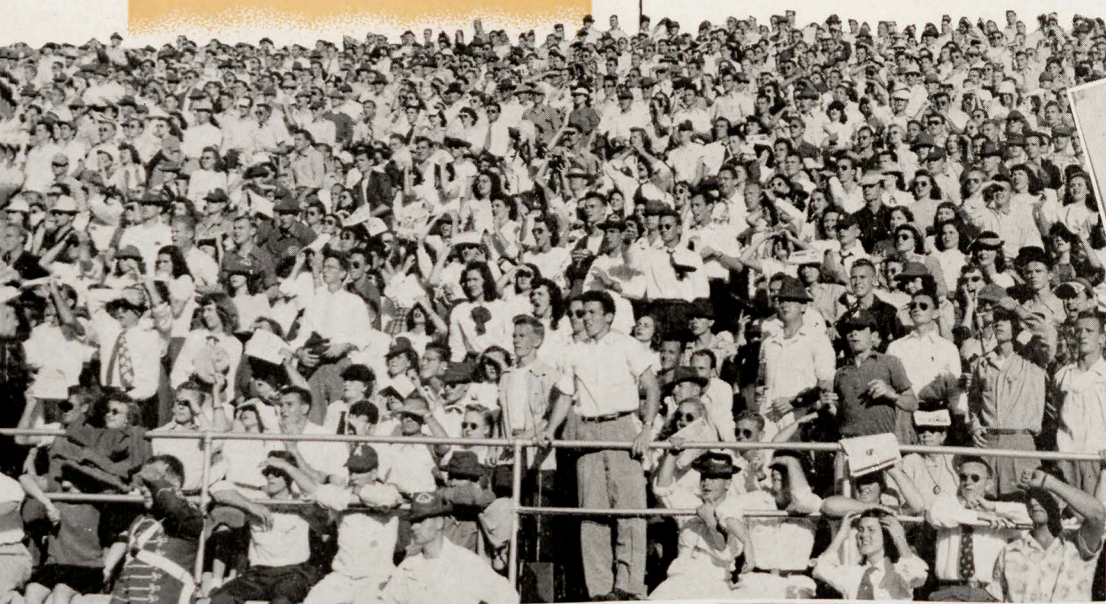

THE 47-48 year saw the University of Arkansas blossom into an even finer academic institution. President Jones set the pace as he toured the state proclaiming the virtues of general education. A new graduate program in science was begun under the guidance of Dr. Grigorieff. Dr. Barnett Sure received nation-wide prominence when he made new discoveries in the nutrition field. Many new faculty appointments added stature to an already imposing array of teaching talent. The new annex to the Business Administration building was completed and furnished facilities for many more students. Possibly the greatest impetus to the erection of new academic milestones was given by the returning GI's. They made all of us toe the mark.

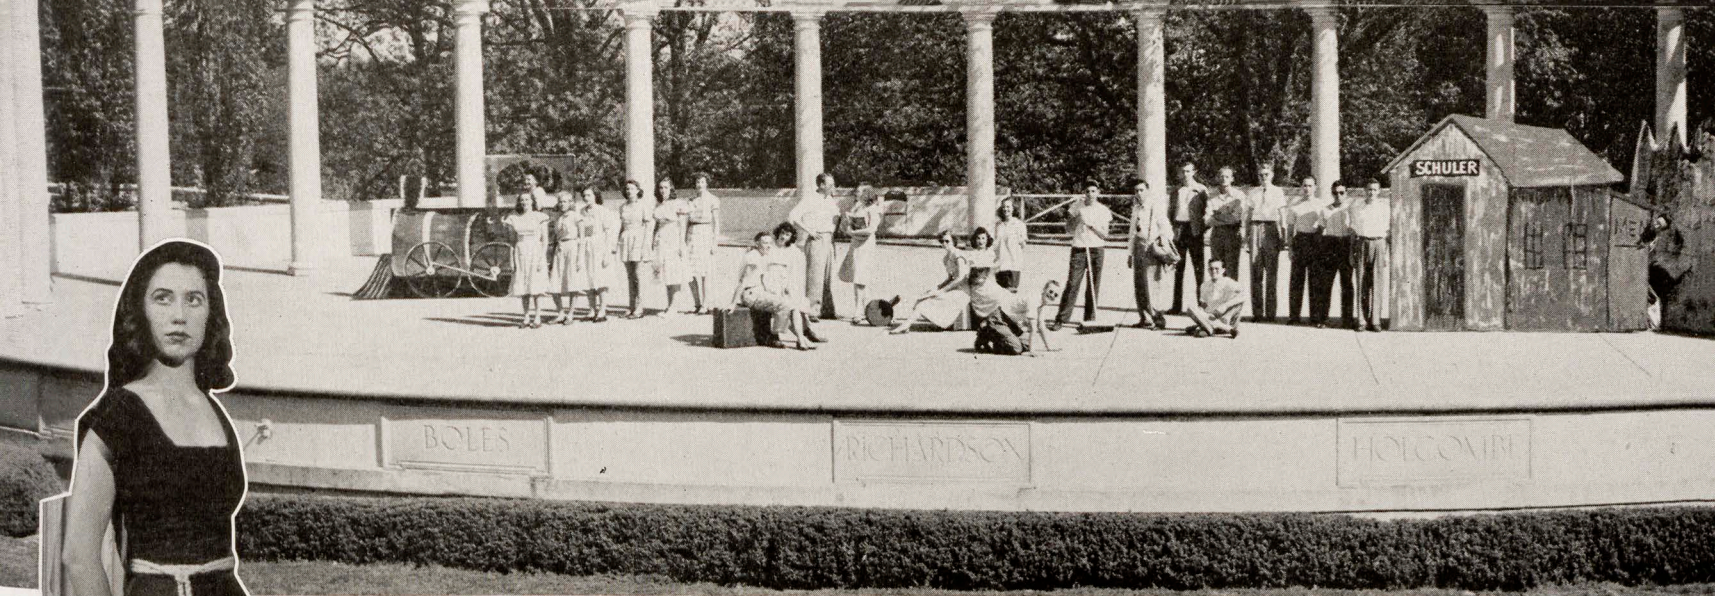

ANOTHER MILE
MCMXLVIII

PAUSING FOR PLAY

WEEKENDS offered our community a brief but joyous respite from books and classrooms, as students joined in on the fun. Parties, plays, cheek to cheek dancing, and football all helped to break up the grind of studying into a more palatable diet. Some paused to play so long that soon they were pausing only momentarily to work. A very interesting arrangement, but not too practical.

WITH NEW WORDS AND MUSIC

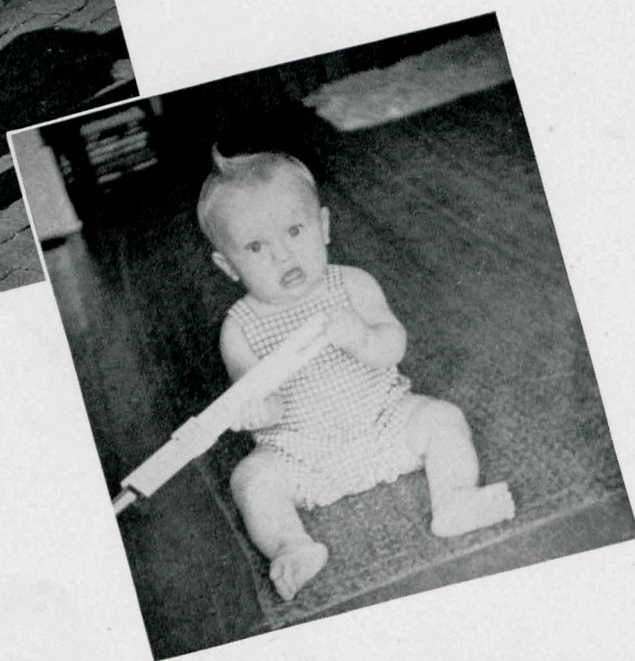

THE music was sweet and the dialogue was classic as Bitsy and William Shakespeare combined talents to fit the motif of the new words and music pattern at the University of Arkansas. Such was the diversified fare offered to all of us during the departed year. The year was replete with entertainment from the freshman orientation dance through the student production of State of the Union and right down to the last note of the Gaebale hop.

AS A NEW ERA

THE new era at the University meant many things. It meant the eventful inauguration of President Jones and his shaping of our academic future and the community idea at the University. It meant the new athletic program directed by John Barnhill and the bowl-bound football teams which have made the Razorbacks feared all over the Southwest. The new era meant the largest student body in the history of the University. Students from many states and foreign nations now attend our school. Coeds sported the new look and this fashion inaugural gave the campus a changed appearance. Another new development was the presence of proud parents wheeling their baby carriages past the beaming towers of Old Main.

THE COMMUNITY AT WORK

THE community at work manifested itself in many ways during this post-war year. There seemed to be a genuine desire to make our little democracy function properly. Students went to the polls in record numbers to install their leaders in office. President Jones sounded our community call for a greater university and a greater state when he called together leaders of science, business and industry for a coordination of the resources of the Wonder State.

THE community went to work on the current bugaboo—the high cost of living—and we built our own cooperative grocery. Faculty and students alike pitched in and made it a success. Another fine example of the community at work in the 47-48 year was evidenced when sorority and independent girls graciously minded babies when the mothers and dads of the suburban university projects sponsored a Vets-Terry-Village dance in the fall. The community at work was a definite reality this year.

ARTHUR M. HARDING

The community of the University of Arkansas lost one of its most able and well beloved leaders when Dr. Arthur M. Harding passed away. A native of Arkansas, Dr. Harding was connected with the University of Arkansas for forty-eight years. He graduated from the University of Arkansas in 1904 and a year later, he joined the faculty as an instructor of mathematics. He became, in turn, the Registrar and head of the Extension Department. He climaxed his success story by becoming President of the University in 1941. Dr. Harding saw the University grow into a powerful institution as he moved through many administrative and teaching posts and to him goes credit for much of that growth.

THE PRESIDENT

The leader of our collegiate community is President Lewis Webster Jones. An ardent advocate of the community idea, Dr. Jones has done much this past year to put that idea into operation here on the University of Arkansas campus. In fact, to him goes credit for the basic theme of the 1948 RAZORBACK, the University as a community

When we dropped over to the president's office to interview him for the material on this page, Dr. Jones told us he was born in Nebraska but left there at the tender age of three months to move to Oregon. It was at Reed College in Portland, Oregon, that he first became interested in the field of education. As Dr. Jones put it, Reed College was reformist and buzzing with ideas, encouraging its students to apply constructive methods to teaching and such. "Of course, I had read William James in high school," Dr. Jones added, in explaining how he chose the educational profession.

However, Dr. Jones did not become an educator at once. He did graduate work at Columbia, was a research economist and traveled through England, France, Germany and Switzerland. Then after a brief period of handling publications and working in general affairs, Dr. Jones became president of a progressive young college, Bennington, in Vermont.

"Bennington was only a girls' college by accident, you know," said Dr. Jones. "We wanted the best students possible for our experiment in progressive education and since Harvard and Yale had priorities on the better men students, that left the women." Here, Dr. Jones explained, the students were encouraged to participate in the town activities and by doing this they not only aided the town and college, but also prepared themselves for their later responsibilities in their own communities.

Dr. Jones disclosed the fact that the celebrated Miss Hush, Martha Graham, had taught at Bennington College. In fact, Dr. Jones appointed her to the faculty as an instructor of dance.

This modest man with the deliberate speech and studious air looks philosophically at the occasional tiffs between town and students. He claims it is a common college problem, but is less of a problem here because it is out in the open.

Dr. Jones' first statement upon coming to the University was, "The call from Arkansas presents a challenge which any educator would welcome." Students, faculty and citizens of the state are more than convinced that President Jones has met that challenge.

LEWIS WEBSTER JONES

President Lewis Webster Jones in his first year at the University has done much for University and state. Major accomplishments were: plans for development of a State Medical Center at Little Rock, greater expansion of University research program, advancement of extension work, careful study of University academic program with emphasis on general education along with scientific and technical education.

The Head of the Entire Community is GOVERNOR BEN LANEY

Governor Ben Laney directs the destiny of the entire community of Arkansas. His progressive administration has been an invaluable asset in the building of a greater Arkansas and a greater University. Always a firm believer in state pride, Governor Laney has done much in his term of office to make us rightfully proud of Arkansas.

Governor Laney was born in 1896 on a farm that his grandfather settled in the southern part of Arkansas. He went to Hendrix College until he entered the armed forces during the first World War. After returning from the war, he attended State Teachers College at Conway where he received his A.B. degree.

One of our finest governors, Mr. Laney's departure from the state capitol will be a definite loss to the state and University.

The Board of Trustees is the Community Council, and, in this capacity, the prominent business and professional leaders who make up the membership of this board decide the policies of our University Community.

Heading the list of important actions of the Board of Trustees was the inauguration of President Lewis Webster Jones. Then, nearly a year later in the spring of '48, the board took another tremendous stride forward by its authorization of the construction of a million dollar Fine Arts Building.

Further milestones to the trusteeship were: the establishment of a Medical Center around the nucleus of the Medical School in Little Rock, the decision to erect two badly needed dormitories, and the granting of permission to students to build a co-op grocery store.

VICE-PRESIDENT CARLSON

BUSINESS OFFICE- REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

The growth of the University of Arkansas is reflected in the expansion of the Business Office. In 1923, when the Business Office was organized, only three people were required to handle all the business.

During the past year, Financial Vice-President T. C. Carlson and his assistants, who include Mr. Jacob Sharp, Controller in the main office; Mr. George Stubblefield, Assistant Treasurer; Mr. Bunn Bell, Chief Accountant; Mr. K. W. Newman, Administrator of the School of Medicine and the University Hospital; Mr. Elwood Walker, Controller of the School of Medicine and the Hospital; and Mr. Perry Mason, Business Manager of the Agricultural Extension Service, have directed a large staff of employees in the apportionment of a budget totaling around four million dollars.

The Business Office controls the finances of the University at Fayetteville, the School of Medicine and the Hospital at Little Rock, the various agricultural experiment stations over the state, and the Agricultural Extension Service at Little Rock.

The Registrar's Office is another important administrative office. Mr. Fred L. Kerr is the Registrar and Mr. Carter Short is the Assistant Registrar. A large staff of assistants keeps files on a record enrollment with the aid of IBM machines.

Duties of the Registrar's Office include keeping records of students' work, issuing transcripts to other universities, recording grades, and determining a student's eligibility to participate in certain activities.

The work has been simplified to a great extent by the installation of IBM machines during the second semester to take care of the enormous amount of records. The necessity of typing transcripts has been eliminated by the use of photostatic copies.

Special examinations are given by the Registrar's Office for students who are privileged to try for higher grades after receiving conditional grades, and for students who are trying for advanced standing credit.

COLLEGE OF ARTS and SCIENCES

The College of Arts and Sciences, through its varied curriculum, offers a broad general education and can also give its students specialized training in one field. Practically every student in the University is reached through the work of the departments included in this college. English, ancient and modern languages, art, history, chemistry, journalism, mathematics, sociology, and zoology are a few of the many courses offered.

Under the expert guidance of Dean Guerdon David Nichols, the College of Arts and Sciences has helped many of us to understand the hold of the past and the hope of the future, found in the classic and the modern.

Dean Nichols was born in Iowa Falls, Iowa, and received his B.A. degree from the University of Iowa. He received both his master's and his doctor's degrees from the University of Nebraska. Before coming to the University of Arkansas in 1927, Dean Nichols taught at the Colorado School of Mines.

When the dean is not involved with the many and varied duties of his office, he can usually be found on his twenty-acre farm, where he raises a garden and keeps livestock. His honors include membership in Sigma Psi, national honor society for graduate students in the sciences. Dean Nichols is also a member of the American Mathematical Society.

The college offers curricula leading to degrees of Bachelor of Arts (B.A.), Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Bachelor of Music (B.M.), and Bachelor of Science in Social Welfare (B.S. in S.W.). Besides these, there are two-year curricula which will give Certificates of Associate in Arts and Associate in Science.

The scholastic honor society for the College of Arts and Sciences is Phi Beta Kappa. The chapter here was established in 1931. Each year, faculty members of the chapter elect to membership students from the upper ten per cent of the senior class of the College. The basis of election to this society is good moral character and high scholarship.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

In this modern world the operation of a successful farm is the job of an educated person. With this in mind, the College of Agriculture attempts to give its students the diversified knowledge which will permit them to operate any sort of farm.

Dean Lippert S. Ellis is head of the College of Agriculture. He was born on a farm near Bridgeport, Michigan, and he spent his early childhood in that locality. Upon finishing high school, he did a short stint in the army. In 1923, Dean Ellis received his B.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin and his Ph.D. at the same institution three years later. Shipyard worker and landscape gardener were among his varied occupations.

After holding various positions in the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Wisconsin, Dr. Ellis was appointed regional agricultural analyst for the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, with headquarters in Little Rock. From this position he came to the University.

Under the supervision of Dean Ellis, educational opportunities in both agriculture and home economics are offered by the College of Agriculture. The College not only offers classroom education, but it also aids in the state-wide development of agriculture and home economics through its agricultural extension service, experiment stations, and the secondary schools.

Since sooner or later in the life of almost every woman the management of a home will be her chief responsibility, the College of Agriculture in its Home Economics department offers many practical courses pertaining to successful home-making.

An annual fixture on the University campus is Agri Day. This year, the Agris promised to spend a sane and sensible Agri Day—no painting of white feet—no fighting with Engineers.. Students who remembered past years had to see it to believe it. The Agri Day Association is the group which handles all the details for this traditional holiday.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

War and post-war conditions have had world shaking effects on our economic system and have made necessary trained leaders in business and public life. Just ahead of Arkansas and the South lies a great period of prosperity. To meet this period, the state must have informed, well educated leaders. The College of Business Administration is providing our state and community with these leaders in annually increasing numbers.

Chaotic economic conditions make it extremely difficult for this department to keep abreast of the times, but textbooks and teaching methods are very modern and compare favorably with the best in the country.

Dean of the College of Business Administration and a native Arkansan is Paul W. Milam. Dean Milam received his bachelor's degree at State College, San Marcos, Texas. His master's degree is from the University of Texas, and his doctor's degree from New York University. Dr. Milam was made dean of the College of Business Administration in 1934.

Dean Milam was responsible for the inauguration of the special two-year curriculum which was designed to meet the need of returning veterans. In addition to this innovation, the College is continuing its regular program designed to give each student the essential training for a business career.

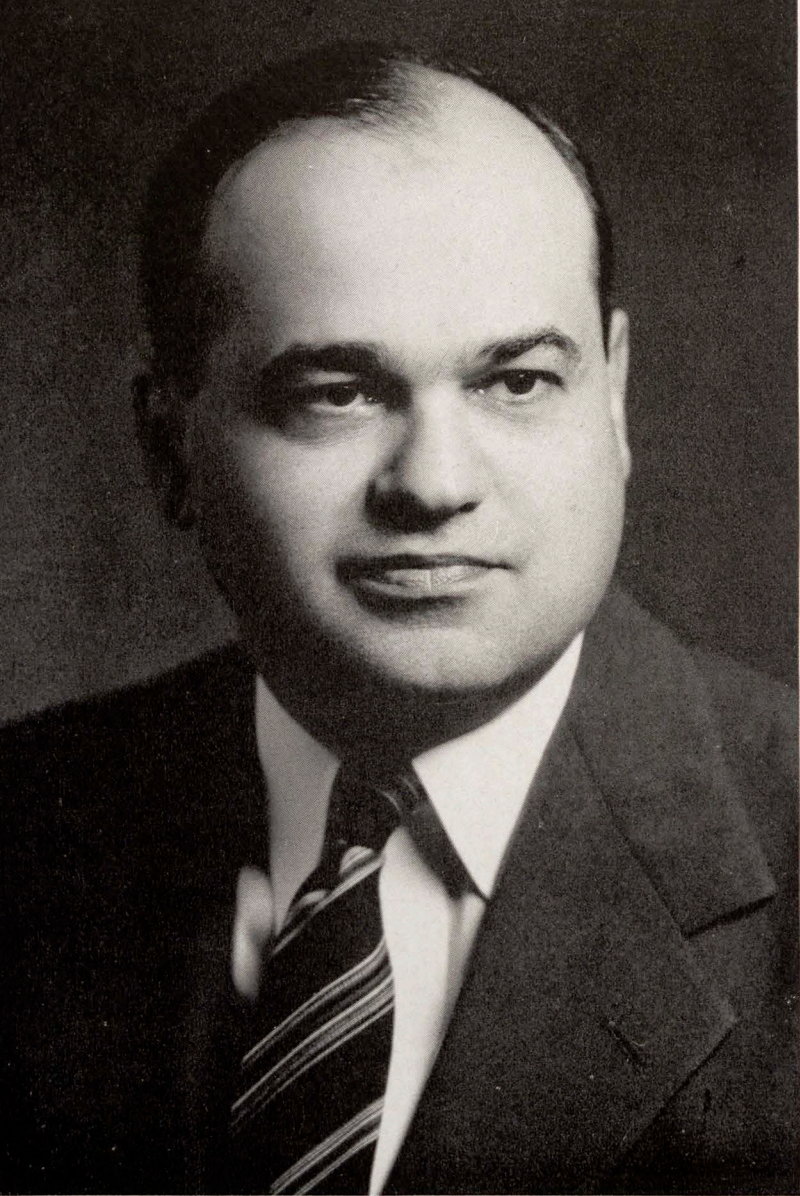

In the realm of four-year curricula, more than fifty specialized courses are offered in addition to the basic sophomore and freshman classes. A few of them are: auditing, cost accounting, transportation, labor problems, consumer economics, money and banking, investments, sales management, and field work in marketing.

The Business Library is part of the general University library, and has approximately 20,000 volumes on business and economics. It is one of the best equipped business libraries in this region. Students poring over the many periodicals received at the library will attest to that fact.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The field of education at the present is undergoing a major test, and only time will tell the results. We are experiencing one of the worst teacher shortages in the history of the United States, and it is this problem which the education colleges must solve. The College of Education at the University, under the leadership of Dean Henry Kronenberg, is devoting much time to this problem, and is trying to make the education branch of training a more lucrative one—one that can compete with other fields on the wage scale.

Dean Kronenberg was born in South Haven, Minnesota, received his high school education in Pine River, Minnesota, then went to Illinois College where he received his bachelor's degree in 1926. He won a scholarship to the University of Illinois, and received his master's degree there in 1929. Dr. Kronenberg finished his graduate work at the University of Minnesota, where he secured his doctor's degree. He came to the University of Arkansas in 1935.

The College of Education is now divided into three main divisions: General education, physical education, and vocational education. The general education branch is concerned with preparing teachers for work in elementary and high schools. The vocational education school trains teachers in agriculture, commercial education, home economics, industrial education, and distributive occupations.

The third division, physical education, serves a double purpose: It trains teachers in physical education and coaches in secondary and elementary schools, and at the same time offers students courses in physical education which are usually required by other schools.

The College is approved by the State Board of Education as a vocational teacher educational institution. The College maintains a Teachers' Placement Bureau for the purpose of filling vacancies with suitable teachers. This service has been a great aid to recent graduates.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering has a three-fold purpose: to train men for professional engineering, for the industries, and for citizenship. To accomplish this purpose, the college offers a general course of study along scientific lines and technical training in the fields of engineering.

Supervising the training of the engineering students is Dean George Patrick Stocker. The dean is a native of Wisconsin. He received his master's degree from Iowa State College, and his graduate work was completed at Cornell. Before he came to the University of Arkansas, he taught at New Mexico State College, at Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, and at Swarthmore College, where he was head of the department of civil engineering.

During his long educational career, the dean has become a member of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, and of the American Society of Engineering Education.

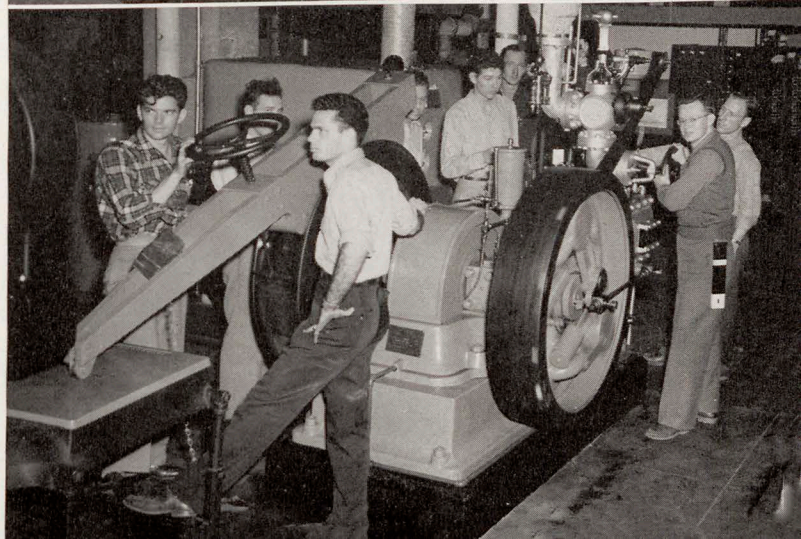

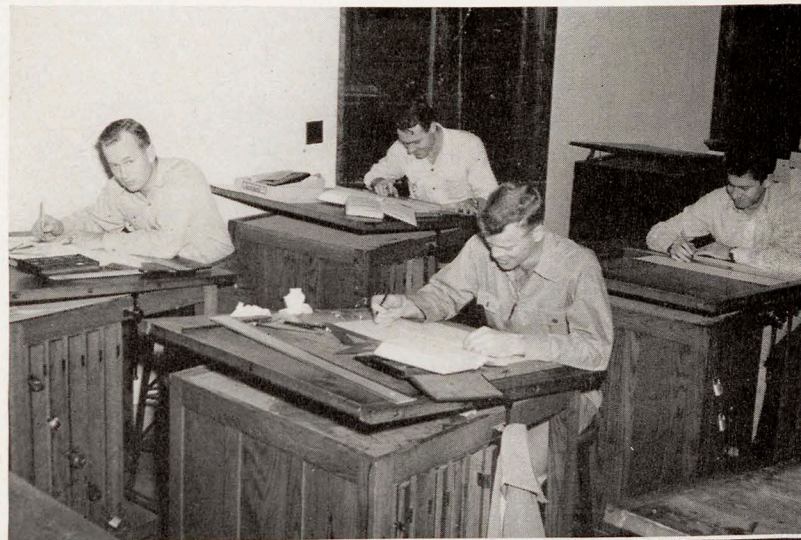

Dean Stocker's office has a unique feature in what he calls his Rogues Gallery. Individual pictures of all engineering students are kept in an open file in the office of the dean's secretary. The dean prides himself on his ability to recognize students in his college.

Under Dean Stocker's supervision, the College of Engineering offers four fields of study to the Bachelor of Science degree in the respective fields, namely: Chemical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, and Mechanical Engineering. Professional degrees of Chemical Engineer, Civil Engineer, Electrical Engineer, and Mechanical Engineer are granted to students who meet certain high requirements.

The publication of The Arkansas Engineer is an activity of the Students of the College of Engineering. It is published four times during each school year and contains articles of interest not only to students of the College, but to practicing engineers over the state. This year saw the publication of many interesting articles.

DEAN STOCKER

DEAN JORDAN

GRADUATE SCHOOL

The Graduate School contributes a great deal to the welfare of the state. In its important function of offering specialization opportunities to those who wish to delve deeper into their particular field, the Graduate School does much to supply the entire community of Arkansas with expert and intelligent citizens.

The Graduate School has three planks in its platform for the betterment of the individual and Arkansas. First, it provides an advanced student with some opportunity for increased information in his field of specialization. Second, it introduces him to the methods of advanced study and research. Third, it prepares some of its most capable students for continuing in their careers of scholarship toward the doctorate in any of the large graduate schools in the country. Under the leadership of Dean John Clark Jordan, this program has become a real benefit to the state.

Dr. Jordan has shaped the policy of the Graduate School since 1927 when he organized the school and became its director. He first came to the University of Arkansas in 1918 as a professor of English. A year after his arrival he became University Examiner, in charge of special examinations and of transferred credit. In 1925 he became Dean of the College of Arts and Science, and held that position for two years. Dr. Jordan is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma, and many other honorary organizations. He has been national president of Blue Key National Honor fraternity since 1934, and is to serve in that position for three more years, having been re-elected at the recent national convention.

Dean Jordan has many hobbies. His interest in music led him to promote that popular Student Union function, the Musical Coffee Hour. He has never lost interest in speech and play production, and he usually plays a prominent part in the Community Theater productions here in town. In line with his teaching of English, Dr. Jordan spends much time on one of his fondest hobbies, the identification of characters in Shakespeare's history plays.

LAW SCHOOL

From a small handful of students who were the nucleus of the first law college of U of A in 1924, the law school of the University has grown to 210 students.

Basic fundamentals of the legal profession from Blackstone to Brandeis are stressed, but purposes of the law school have broadened considerably since its meager beginning.

Headed by an admirable faculty and equipped with one of the best law libraries in the Southwest, students supplement classwork by assisting in publishing the Arkansas Law Review, conducting moot courts, participating in a Student Bar Association, and haggling over minor points at quasi-permanent bull sessions in the basement "salon."

The Arkansas Law Review first appeared in the winter of '46. It is published four times yearly, and goals of the more illustrious students are to have case notes or short articles on legal research printed therein, bearing their respective John Hancock. The Review stresses Arkansas law, as does all legal work in the school.

A pre-law society was formed this year to help students prepare themselves more adequately for their entrance to law school.

Moot courts are held throughout the year. Various stages of trial work are carried on by student-attorneys, with faculty members serving as "honorable judges."

The year 1948 saw the admittance of the first Negro in law school.

Heading the Ship of State is Dean Robert A. Leflar, U of A alumnus, with Harvard L.B. and S.J.D. degrees. He holds membership in the Arkansas Bar Association (as do all students of the school upon graduation), the American Bar Association and Phi Beta Kappa.

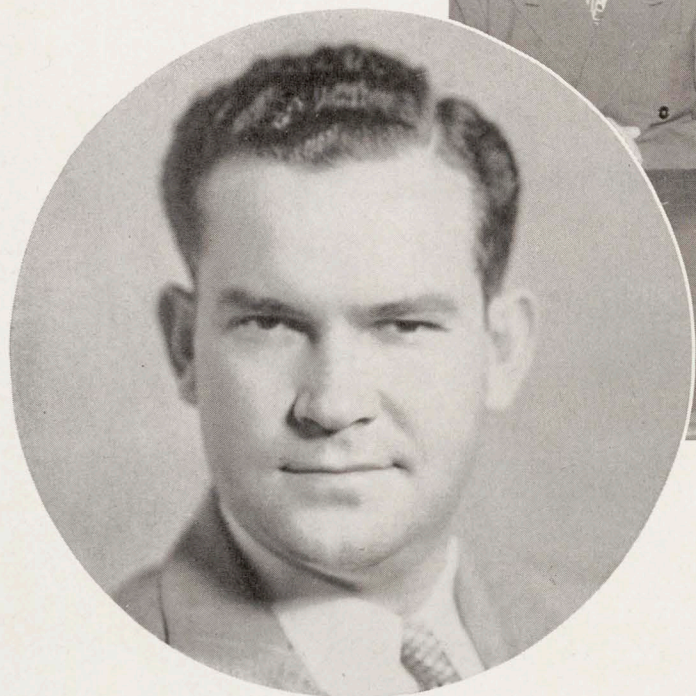

The law school is approved by the A.B.A. It trains future attorneys in fundamental legal principles and reasoning. The case book system of study, widely approved, is used.

THEY GOVERN

Student Body Officers: In circle: President Lloyd A. Henry.
Seated at table: Treasurer John G. Phillips, Secretary Nancy Daggett, Vice-President Marie Browner, Majority Leader Vernon L. Kimball.

The 1947-48 Student Senate fashioned a fine record and in the process gave the student body one of the most efficient administrations that the campus has seen for at least a decade. Their work seemed to fit well into the birth of a new era in the University's history—an era whose beginning was marked by a new President, a dynamic athletic setup, a general postwar regeneration of the community spirit, and active participation in the problems of the scholastic community.

Despite the fact that the Independent Party held a majority in the Senate, party differences were soon forgotten and both groups worked hand in hand on the problems that confronted them.

The election battle which saw the Independent Party come into office was furious from the standpoint of interest and activity. It brought out a vote of nearly 3000 students to set an all-time record. The Independent Party was swept into power by an overwhelming majority in all but a few offices. Many outside observers agreed that the campaigns of last spring's election matched those of most Arkansas cities in intensity, ballyhoo and significance. It was a red letter year that proved our students take their school politics seriously.

In Lloyd Henry, third year law student from Augusta, the student government had a leader who bulldozed his way through problems that were tough all year round. To Lloyd must go credit for many victories in the interest of the students. The perseverance, ability and integrity shown by Lloyd in his President's post will make him a well-remembered University personality for years to come.

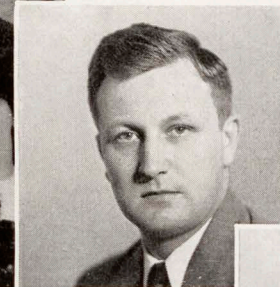

As for the accomplishments of the 1947-48 Student Senate, after somewhat of a struggle they secured a general fund with which to meet the expenses of the student government. This fund was also available to various organizations whose activities were sponsored for the general welfare of the student body.

One of the first undertakings of the Student Senate was the publication of the A book. This book was a general information handbook printed for the purpose of informing new students of the various phases of University life. The expenses of publishing the A book came from the Student Senate general fund.

During the summer of 1947, the Senate voted to have the University of Arkansas join the National Students Association, and sent delegates to the national convention at the University of Wisconsin.

The Social Committee of the Senate did a fine job in bringing outstanding name bands to the campus for concerts and dances. These included: Del Courtney, Hal McIntyre, Elliot Lawrence, Buddy Moreno and Sam Donohue. The Student Senate also furnished the leadership and finances for the second Gaebale celebration.

The Student Directory was published by the Senate and distributed free to the students.

The Senate went to bat for the students in such matters as opposing a rent increase in the Veterans housing units, working out student complaints over a local theater problem, campus beautification and a definite program to solve the parking situation.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of the Senate was that of securing a three-day Thanksgiving holiday for the first time in University of Arkansas history.

The Senate named a committee to draw up a new constitution that would insure the student body its proper voice in school affairs. This committee worked hard with a faculty committee chosen by President Lewis Webster Jones, and near the end of the spring semester they completed a document that insured the students a good legal framework to guide them in their activities and conduct.

In any other year, the excellent administrative work of the 1947-48 Student Senate might have been pointed out with pride by the firmly entrenched Independent Party and viewed with alarm by the outnumbered New Deal Party, but in line with the coming of age of politics at the University, both parties did a grand job and all concerned can be equally proud of their concerted efforts for a better community government.

Through the channels of the Association of Women Students, the women students of our community have an opportunity to assume the responsibility of self-government. Every under-graduate woman who enrolls in the University is a member of this organization which has as its aims the promotion of good fellowship among the women students and the upholding of the highest standards of loyalty to the University.

Sue Baran was president of this important organization during the past year and under her leadership AWS sponsored festivals, teas, luncheons, dances and a career conference in the spring of '48. Mortar Board members were tapped at the AWS Spring Festival of '47, which featured a buffet supper in the amphitheatre and a fashion show called "Through the Ages."

AWS assumed the responsibility of sponsoring the Sophomore Council and in addition gave a listening party and a weiner party for the councilors. Then in mid-fall AWS had its annual Fashion Show and the new look took over the spotlight as many models sported the latest in dress fashions.

When Christmas time rolled around, AWS got around to the pleasant business of picking a Santa Claus for the AWS Vice-versa

Christmas Dance. At this event the girls turned the tables on the boys and escorted them to and from the dance.

During the past year AWS was responsible for many improvements on the campus. AWS committees worked diligently and successfully on two vital community needs; namely, new parking regulations and compulsory fire-drills for organized houses.

Dean Scudder played a great part in the smooth functioning of this organization. Vitrally interested in AWS affairs, she was one of the keynote speakers at the Career Conference held at the University of Texas in the spring.

Ann Jordan, vice-president of AWS this past year, arranged for our own Career Conference held here March 15, at which time ten outstanding women representatives of different professions—medicine, science, journalism and other fields—were featured speakers.

In March of '48 an election for new officers was held and Ernestine Gipson took over the position of president for the '49 year. Other executive positions were filled by Nan Hoppper, vice-president; Jean Ann Kight, secretary; Betty Ragan, treasurer.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

PRESIDENT WARREN BASS

Furnishing recreational facilities for our community was the job of the Social Committee. After being selected by the Student Senate, this committee discovered that it had quite a job on its hands.

The Committee was not too baffled by the problem of granting dates to the various campus organizations, but the problem of where to hold the various functions was really a headache. According to Chairman Warren Bass, it seemed as if every organization on the campus wanted to get together on the same night and pitch a large celebration.

The problem was relieved somewhat, however, by the completion of the U-Ark Bowl. This new location gave the Committee another spot to assign for the many dances and banquets.

The Student Union Ballroom received no rest and it carried the greatest social load in history. In addition to the many formals, Engineers and Agri functions, the Beaux Arts and Vets-Terry Village dances were inaugurated and held in the Ballroom.

Another popular recreational spot during the 1947-48 year was the Field House and the Social Committee arranged for many big name bands to appear there. Buddy Moreno, Sam Donohue, Elliot Lawrence, Hal McIntyre all brought their troupes into the Field House to play concerts and dances. The finest Sigma Nu Sadie Hawkins Dance in history was held in the Field House before a notable collection of Dogpatchers. Leon McAuliffe and his band furnished the music for this affair.

All was not smooth sailing for the Social Committee. They had to take the rap when Del Courtney and his band members did not show up for a pep rally in the Field House. It seems that somebody forgot to call the boys at a hotel down town and they slept right through the pep rally but awakened in time for the dance later, so everybody was happy, including the blameless Social Committee.

The 1947-48 year was one of the many accomplishments for this hard working group. Possibly the greatest tipoff on the merit of their work can be discovered from the fact that even though every organization granted a date by the Committee has the privilege of making complaints to the Student Union Board if they are dissatisfied in any way, at the time we went to press not one group had filed a complaint with that body. We think this is a fine indication of the Social Committee's work.

DEAN ANDERSON

DEAN of STUDENTS

As coordinating factor in the life of the University community, the Dean of Students is responsible for many activities outside of the classroom. Dr. John P. Anderson, a native of Arkansas, came to the University in June, 1946, to take up his duties in this capacity.

Directly responsible for the Student Union and its activities, Dean Anderson helped bring about the purchase of a projection machine by the Union, and the creation of a Student Union Board.

Dean Anderson carries on an extensive activity in the way of counseling. He is instrumental in helping students work out their own problems and in bringing about adjustments that constantly need to be made in a complex university life.

The dean is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, and the American Psychology Association. He is also active in the local Blue Key chapter.

DEAN SCUDDER

DEAN of WOMEN

As Dean of Women, Miss Jeannette Scudder is entrusted with the well-being of all women students in the University community. She is responsible for the maintenance of the high standards of their living quarters.

She helps many girls in their adjustments to life on the campus and aids them in meeting many situations they have not previously encountered. She is an understanding woman in a position that requires much of that virtue.

A graduate of Purdue University, she majored in English and psychology. She later received her master's degree at Teachers College, Columbia University, where she held a Grace H. Dodge fellowship. Her graduate major was personnel administration. Miss Scudder came to the University of Arkansas in 1940.

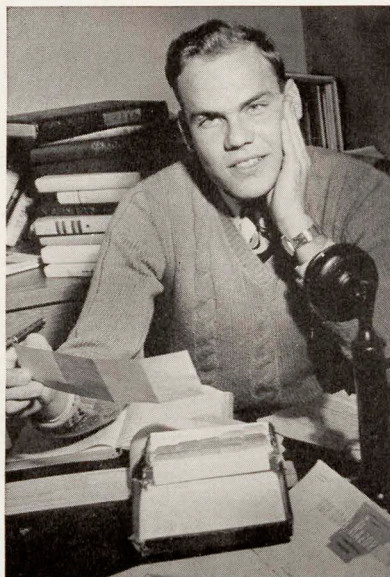

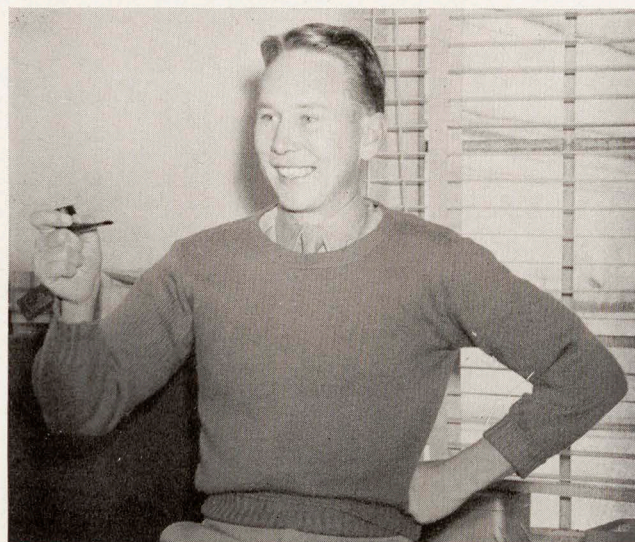

PUBLICATIONS

The 1948 RAZORBACK

Official Yearbook

BOB LINTON

WARREN THEIS

The job of RAZORBACK Editor was a challenging one right from the beginning. Your editor first realized this last spring when he was campaigning for this position. In his endeavors to get out the family vote, he put up a picture of his wife and baby on his campaign poster. He returned the next day to find a mustache painted on the baby's picture. Such was the beginning of the headaches and heartaches which have continued right on through to the writing of this copy, which is the last, thank heavens! Not that the job has been completely thankless—the experience and creative satisfaction gained have been very valuable. We had our troubles but, in the final analysis, we enjoyed our work.

Last summer when we were making plans for the 1948 RAZORBACK we thought that perhaps we were giving ourselves undue prominence by placing our RAZORBACK pages at the beginning of the Community at Work section, but after a year of backbreaking labor we feel that we definitely rate this position. We have published the largest yearbook in the history of the University of Arkansas and more copies have been printed than ever before. That takes care of the quantity; as for the quality, well, that decision rests with the individual reader.

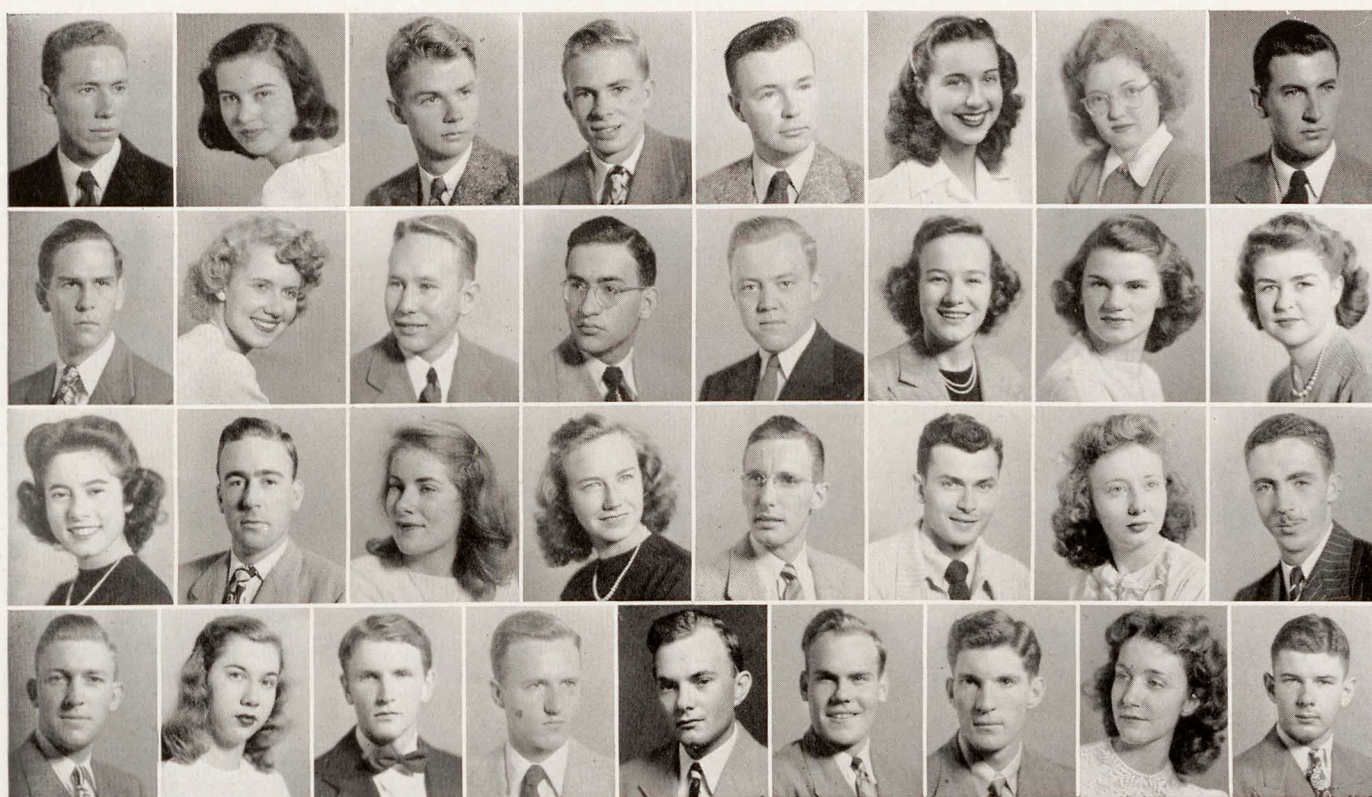

We worked out our theme, the Community at Work, at Home and at Play, because we felt that our growing University has taken the form of a typical community. We have tried by pictures and copy to show those features of the campus which best portray our community life. We did not plan to make our yearbook too documentary and we feel that throughout our theme there still exists the happy atmosphere connected with college life.

We will admit that we have approached our theme in an idealistic manner and have glossed over those aspects of the community which are not so exemplary. We felt that a yearbook should contain the more optimistic phases of our community and since we had no particular ax to grind, we felt that it was the duty of the Traveler and not the RAZORBACK to show any of the less unified segments of our campus life.

Our main difficulty was that in a book this size it was impossible to get too many students and organizations into the features. By the same token, our job was made more difficult by the fact that the community has grown so large that it is hard to capture the individual personality of the school and student. For that reason, we have felt that a yearbook representing the community as a whole would suffice.

The line separating the Business Manager and the Editor has been a formidable one in recent years but this year we were fortunate to have a Business Manager like Warren Theis who handled his advertising section excellently and helped us with our work upon many occasions. Also, Warren dressed up his advertising section with a few features in order to give our advertisers a better deal.

We can't thank Mr. Thalheimer too much for his kindness in helping us over the rougher obstacles that came up during the year. His technical advice gave to the book the little polish it may have. Phil Fry did an excellent job of making many of the layouts for the book and he was a tower of strength all year long. Ralph Riley and his hardworking organizations staff took care of the overwhelming amount of clerical work which gave the editor more opportunity to work on the creative end of the book. Bill Waller and Pat Sullivan were also a great help during the year as were the printer and engraver.

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER

Campus Newspaper

WANDA WASSNER

DOROTHY WILLIAMS

Editor Wassner started crusading from the opening bell and beat out a merry, semi-weekly assault on the powers-that-be, both in and out of our community. Throughout the year, Wanda wheeled around in her Traveler editorial chair and fired blasts at all and sundry in an attempt to improve the lot of the students and the University. To some, the crusading got old after a time, but to many, Wanda's was one of the articulate voices on the campus.

An insight into the Wassner personality can be gathered from the fact that when Wanda entered the campaign for election last spring, she minced no words in explaining to the Independent hands that were feeding her that she would bite them if they expected her to pay back any patronage. Wanda was and is a very independent Independent. She was determined not to straddle the fence on any issue but to draw the line and battle firmly for what she considered right. She did so.

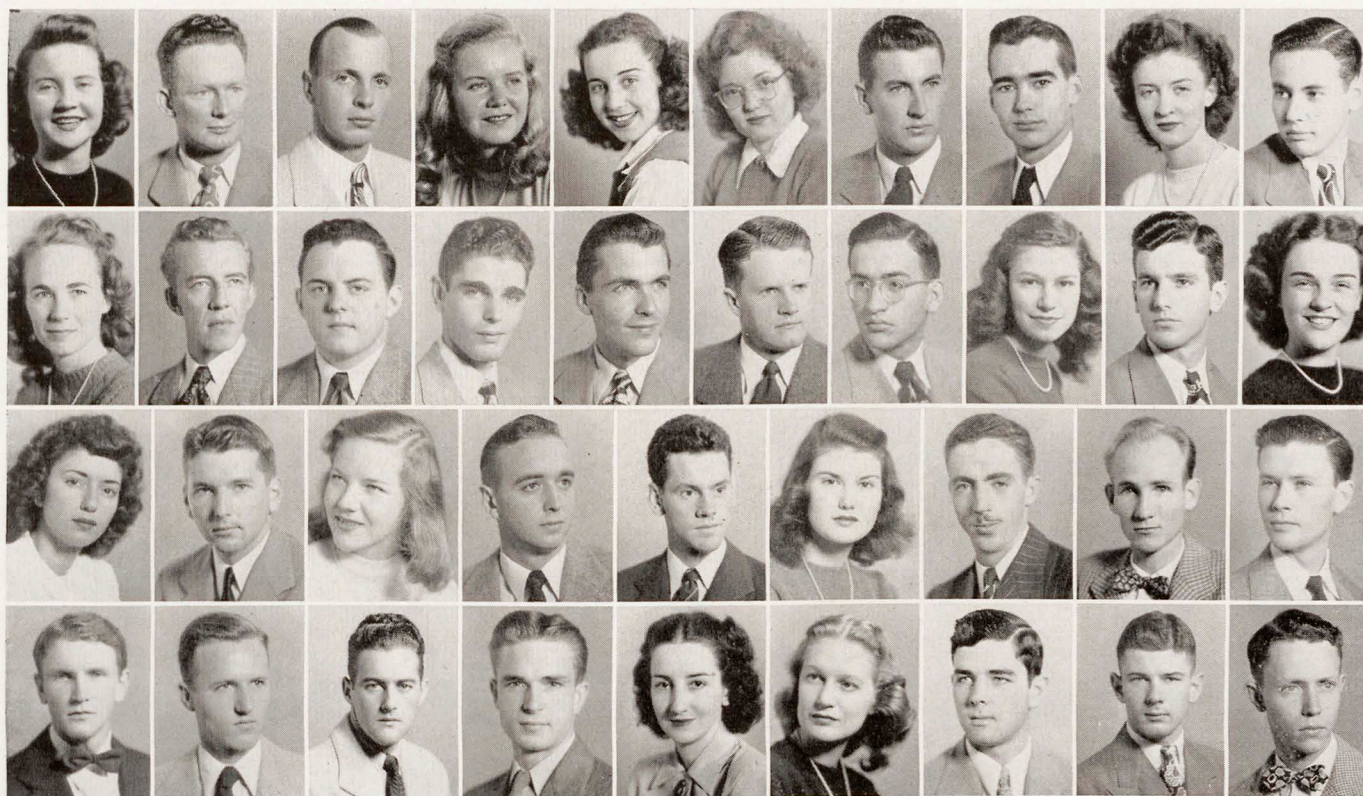

Operating on the theory that one picture is worth a thousand words, Wanda brought more pictures to the Traveler than students had seen there in recent years. She was ably abetted in this project by the fine work of Bob McCord who snapped the shutter on many a newsworthy item. Though the Traveler was far from a tabloid, it did manage to present the pictorial highlights of the week.

Wanda inaugurated a fine idea in student publications when she canvassed the student body to get student opinion on really important community problems. The survey concerning reaction of students to the admittance of the first Negro to the University since reconstruction days was particularly enlightening and did much to bring that controversial subject out into the open where it belonged. Wanda and her staff received many compliments from interested organizations all over the United States for the intelligent handling of this item.

No Traveler would be complete without a running commentary on the activities of a certain theater magnate in town and the 1947-48 Traveler was no exception, but this year, through the efforts of Student Senate committees and the Traveler staff, there seemed to be a more grown-up approach to the problem. Of course, there was the usual amount of diatribes hurled on both sides but factions from both camps did get together and attempt a solution for the benefit of the community at large.

In past years, RAZORBACK editors have filled in many lines of copy with an account of the "borrowing" that goes on between the Traveler and RAZORBACK staffs. According to reports, anything which is not nailed down has come to be legitimate prey for the hard-up editors who sometimes need a stray typewriter or two. The RAZORBACK staff borrowed half of Wanda's workshop all during the spring semester because we just "grewed" out of our office and Wanda never batted an eye. In the event that we missed a feature picture in the difficult task of trying to cover as many student functions as possible, Wanda was only too happy to retaliate with same. Publications Row was a harmonious place with Wanda around.

The Traveler increased circulation three times during the year, proving that whether or not students liked it, they were still reading it at every opportunity.

THE GUILD TICKER

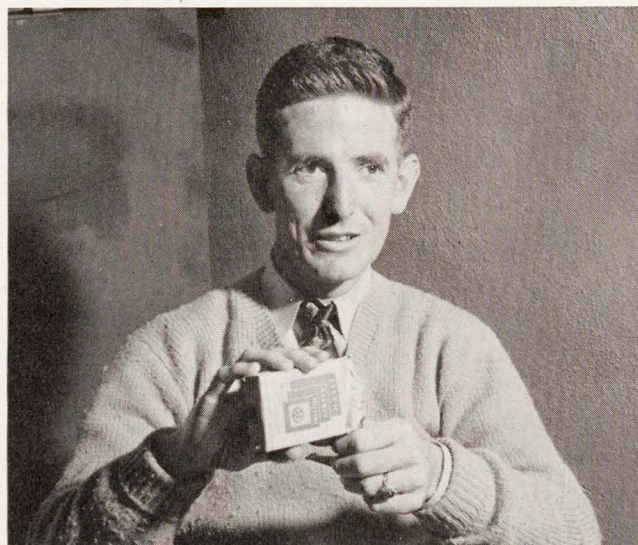

Business Publication

Faced with the task of turning out two editions of the Guild Ticker, and with only a few other hold-overs from the staff of the 1946-47 Guild Ticker back in the fold, Editor Jim Stallworth and Business Manager Arthur Holiman took their typewriter, a dozen sheets of dim carbon paper, gathered around them a staff of neophyte journalists, and brought a "new look" to the group of newspapers, magazines, and yearbooks which grow out of the offices along publications row on the second floor of the Student Union.

The fall edition of the Guild Ticker was different from any other which had ever been published at the University of Arkansas, and the policy was continued in the spring edition with another entirely different setup being employed. The first edition, which came out in January, saw a return to the traditional commerce blue on the cover after a succession of pastel-hued numbers in the preceding issues. The spring edition sported a silver metallic-colored cover for the first time. Other innovations in style included a new design for the masthead.

Imbued with the belief that the Guild Ticker is primarily a business publication, planned for the consumption of business students and businessmen, Editor Stallworth proceeded to deviate from the previous editorial policies of the Ticker. The trend was away from business as viewed from an academic standpoint and toward a tie-in of academic conditions with current conditions and personalities.

JIM STALLWORTH

The first edition carried articles on such controversial issues as the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, the question of regulation for Arkansas insurance agents, and the international bank. The Ticker attempted to present these subjects to the student with an impartial coverage of both sides of the question, and to acquaint the student with the problems without editorializing in favor of either faction.

Another feature appearing in the fall edition of the Ticker for the first time was the biographical sketch of a well-known Arkansas businessman, in this case, that of Jay Fulbright, former business and civic leader of Fayetteville. The short biographies will continue to be regular features according to present plans.

An altercation of minor proportions grew out of Editor Stallworth's decision to omit the joke page, "Ticker Ticklers," but still strong in his convictions of editing a business publication for businessmen, Jim breasted a wave of protests and set up both editions, sans joke page. The editor was not a man entirely without humor, however, and the cartoons of Phil Fry and Ruth McIntyre escaped the censorial shears.

The critical position of financing the Ticker fell to the business manager and his staff, but a natural tenacity coupled with the "foot-in-the-door" technique gained on last year's business staff enabled "Huckster" Holiman to sell enough advertising copy in Fayetteville and surrounding provinces to put out both editions of the Ticker without forcing any undue frugality on the editor in the matter of expenses.

Now another school year is over. Both editions of the Guild Ticker are out of the way, the students have been briefed on all the latest business developments and trends, the advertisers are satisfied, and the members of the Ticker staff, with no more deadlines hanging over them, have had a good time and gained invaluable experience.

THE AGRICULTURIST

College of Agriculture Publication

DENVER HUTSON

W. SMITH GRIEG

The Agriculturist, official publication of the College of Agriculture, retained its ranking position among the other college publications this year. Since 1924 this monthly magazine has served as a mouth-piece for the students and faculty of the Agri college.

This year the reins of responsibility fell into the hands of Denver Hutson, editor; Troy Cox, associate editor; and Smith Greig, business manager. It was through efficient organization of the editorial and business staffs that these men were able to come through with flying colors.

News about campus organizations, editorials, technical reports on recent scientific developments in agriculture, and bits of gossip are of particular interest to Agri students. A live and expressive pride in the college is apparent in all the writings of the staff.

"Variety" was the slogan of the editor this year, and many schemes in make-up and cover pictures were used. Cartoons, an added attraction, and more pictures of student activity met with wide approval. More and shorter articles took the place of fewer and longer ones. While planning the contents of the various issues, the editor and business manager recognized the need for a larger magazine, but high printing costs and limited finances held the size of the monthly publication to a minimum.

In each issue Dean Lippert S. Ellis wrote an article on some timely subject which was applicable to Agri students, and Dr. G. T. Hudson, assistant dean, presented timely remarks concerning student problems.

One of the most popular and most thoroughly read pages in the Agriculturist was "Grunts and Squeals," a joke page where all the chuckles currently circulating around Agri college were concentrated. The jokes were frowned upon by some students and faculty members, but this style of column has been proven popular with the Agris, and that popularity was, after all, the only thing necessary to keep the editor publishing it.

Betty Lamp, strictly the home economics section of the magazine, was edited this year by Mary Frances Follett. This is the first year that Home Ec. school has been given a complete section in the Agriculturist. Various departments in home economics and news of general interest were featured in each issue.

Outstanding articles written by students during the year were "Dairy Improvement in Arkansas" by M. H. O'Bryant, "Anhydrous Ammonia as a Fertilizer" by Carl D. Harris, "Breeding for the Ideal Broiler" by Mary Cornelius, and "Greener Pastures for Arkansas" by Winford Hoover. Of course, editorials were popular features.

The traditional pink-cover issue of the Agriculturist, published in April, was the biggest and most important issue of the year and highlighted the thirty-third anniversary of Agri Day. This issue was devoted to pages about organizations in the college and Agri Day activities. It also featured the Agri Queen, Sue Hawley, and "Seniors' Who's Who in Agri School." The staff went all out for this edition, and the business manager almost sold "Grunts and Squeals" page for ads.

The Agriculturist is financed by both national and local ads plus a proportion of ADA dues. It not only serves the students of the College of Agriculture, but is sent to other colleges, high schools throughout the state, extension agents, and farmers and other agri workers.

THE ENGINEER

Engineers' Magazine

NOLAN ALLISON

RALPH STEWART

When the regular spring election of the College of Engineering came around last year and candidates for the positions of Editor and Business Manager were flouting their qualifications to anyone who would listen, two aspirants stood out head and shoulders above the rest. Early predictions hinted that they might run away with the race for their respective offices, and on election day, as many people had prophesied, they were swept into office by one of the most overwhelming majorities ever polled at the University of Arkansas.

Although the one-sided victory was somewhat tempered by the fact that they were the only candidates in the race for the offices, it does not alter the fact that Editor Nolan Allison and Business Manager Ralph Stewart have published the prescribed number of Arkansas Engineers, and have done no mean job of it.

The first issue, although it drained the bank account, turned out to be the largest issue ever published, and unwilling to revert to mediocrity after such an auspicious beginning, each ensuing issue was of the same size as the first.

Editing such a publication was not without its problems, however. Allison's biggest headache was getting copy in, and Stewart's biggest problem was getting Allison to get his copy. Cuts for each issue also posed a problem. They were nearly always late in getting back from the engravers, and as each deadline drew near, the staff laid by reserve stores of editorial material in the event of a pictureless edition. The worst blow fell on the special Engineers' Day issue. With less than twenty-four hours before issue time, the engravings had not been received. Hampered by the year's record snowfall, the staff hurriedly dispatched dogteams and men an snowshoes in various directions, but the engravings arrived on the morning on which the Engineer was due to be published, and no serious damage was wrought.

Highlight of the year for the Editor and Business Manager was a trip to Ann Arbor, Michigan, for the annual convention of the Engineering College Magazines Associated. The purpose of this trip was to bring the various editors and business managers of magazines from schools all over the United States together to discuss their mutual problems and ways and means of working them out. The Arkansas Engineer was so thoroughly worked out in its early days of existence, however, that little has been left for the present staff to worry about.

A big change was made on the cover of the Engineer this year by changing from the usual two color to a full color spread and by using a new masthead design. New features which were added were an alumni section, Open Forum, and Hawg Waller (humor page), and others. Cracked Retorts, the joke page, still stands as the number one page to all engineers, however. Professor Wray used his red pencil overtime in censoring the jokes used on this page.

This year the Engineer has started a drive to re-establish contact with every alumnus of the College of Engineering of the University of Arkansas. This project has met with considerable success in the few weeks since it has gone into effect, and promises to be of much interest to the student body of the School of Engineering.

THE LAW REVIEW

Lawyers' Magazine

WILLIAM A. ECKERT

MAURICE BEDWELL

Although the Arkansas Law Review is the youngest publication on the campus, already the staff, as well as the law students and practicing lawyers over the state of Arkansas like to think of it as the "outstanding scholarly publication in the state."

The Review was organized in the spring of 1946, and the first issue was published and distributed to the lawyers of the state in January of 1947. During the summer of 1947 a group of prominent lawyers in the state representing the Arkansas Bar Association, formed a corporation to publish the journal. With the summer issue of 1947 the format of the publication was changed to the Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal, and during the past year the publication has been a joint enterprise of the Bar Association and the faculty and students of the law school. Distribution of the Review is made to students of the law school, members of the Bar Association throughout the state, and to a large number of other law schools throughout the country.

Patterned after the publications of older law schools, the Review consists of critical legal writing on topics of current interest to Arkansas lawyers. Full length articles written by the faculty, outstanding lawyers, or authorities from outside the state make up the bulk of the publication. Contributions of the student staff to each issue include comments on current legal problems and brief case notes on recent significant decisions by the courts throughout the country. During the past year the statutes passed by the 1947 Arkansas legislature were reviewed and commented upon by the student board and faculty of the law school.

In the fall of this year the Review found a permanent "home". A large office, complete with library, was provided in the basement of the Law School. Here, surrounded by the volumes of ancient legal lore, the student staff read the decisions of the higher courts, attempted to screen the significant from the ordinary, wrote and rewrote the short articles that were finally published, and enjoyed the entire process immensely. Work on an issue began about six months before the final publication date, yet the four printer's deadlines always hung like a dark cloud on the otherwise sunny horizon of the Law Review office.

First row: Nancy Daggett, William A. Eckert, Jr., William H. Enfield, J. W. Gallman, William P. Hamilton, Robert L. Jones, James E. Lester.

Second row: Homer E. McEwen, John Mann, Lawrence S. Morgan, Joe F. Nowlin, Ed Penick, Floyd L. Reed.

The staff was selected from those in the student body of the law school having a grade point of over four. In addition to this requirement, at least two publishable articles were necessary for a student's name to be carried on the masthead.

Law Review work is considered invaluable training for a law student inasmuch as it affords an opportunity to do original research on legal problems such as the practicing attorney must do. Articles written for publication are considered and criticized by the Student Board, thus providing experience for the Board members. The writers should profit by having defects in their work pointed out. Dean Leflar has repeatedly pointed to the high educational value of both writing for the Arkansas Law Review and in acting as a Board member.

Extracurricular activities of the staff included the supervision of having Volume One of the Law Review bound in book form, and an annual breakfast for all past staff members at the State Bar Association meeting in Hot Springs.

BOARD of PUBLICATIONS

First row: Brown, Bell, Hendrickson, Thalheimer.
Second row: Tipton, Greig, McHugh, Good.

As the RAZORBACK went to press, it looked as though the Publications Board system of former years was going to sing its swan song. For late in the spring, the Student Senate submitted a Constitution for student approval which called for an entirely different system of selecting publications officers. This was no reflection upon the personnel of this year's Publications Board who did a fine job, but it was felt that a new system would provide an even fairer and more impartial plan for student participation in publications.

According to the newly planned set-up, the student members of the board would be selected by: the Editor of the Traveler, who was to be Chairman; the Editor of the RAZORBACK; the President of the Press Club; two students selected by the President of the University from the editors and business managers of official student publications; and a Junior or a Senior selected by the President of the Associated Students. The faculty membership was to be made up of a member of the Journalism faculty and of the Business Office staff, both to be appointed by the President of the University, and one other member who was to be selected by the Senate and approved by the University President. This board was to make the final selection on all publications candidates.

No longer would candidates have to go before the student body in the regular spring election after being nominated by the board. The reasons for this change were obvious. The Senate wished to avert the political pitfalls of the past in choosing Editors and Business Managers. They reasoned that publications officers should be picked by publications and student leaders rather than by the student body who were never quite sure which candidates were really qualified.

Alpha Epsilon Delta is a national pre-medical fraternity founded at the University of Alabama on April 28, 1926. The fraternity now comprises 38 active chapters throughout the United States. It is an affiliated society, and is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Association of College Honor Societies.

The objects of A. E. D. are to encourage excellence in pre-medical work by furnishing a goal which the student may strive for during the early semesters of his pre-medical career and to bind together similarly interested students.

This year the Arkansas Alpha chapter of A. E. D. had its largest initiation in its nine year history. After the impressive initiation ceremonies, the entire group had a steak dinner. Members are chosen by grade point, at least 3.5 accumulatively and four-point in the individual's major, character, personality, and deportment.

Alpha Lambda Delta was founded at the University of Illinois in the spring of 1924 by Maria Leonard, Dean of Women there. Its primary purpose was to recognize freshman women with a high grade point and to encourage them to continue superior scholarship and high standards of learning. It is the sister organization to Phi Eta Sigma.

The Arkansas chapter was installed in 1924 by Dean Alice Lloyd of the University of Michigan. The requirement for membership is a five-point grade average in an average number of hours at an institution where a chapter is located.

A member initiated her freshman year serves as an active her sophomore year, and if she maintains a five-point cumulated average may also remain active during her junior year. Charmian Sure was chosen senior advisor this year, and Mary Lou Campbell was chosen junior advisor. Mrs. Edwin O'Kelly is faculty sponsor.

Each fall Alpha Lambda Delta gives a rush tea for freshman girls who make high grades on the university entrance examinations. The local chapter also awards annually the senior girl with the highest cumulative grade point for four years in college. The national organization sponsors a fellowship for graduate work at an accredited college for some former member of the society.

Beta Gamma Sigma, the national honorary fraternity of the college of Business Administration, was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1932. It is the only scholarship honor society in the field of commerce and business that is recognized by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1907, Beta Gamma Sigma has as its purpose the encouragement of scholarship, research, and high standards in the field of business administration.

To be a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, a student must be elected from among the members of the upper ten per cent of the senior class or the upper three per cent of the junior class. This year, a junior, Penelope Higginbottom was elected to membership. She is the third junior in the history of the Arkansas chapter to have been so honored.

It has been the custom during the past years for Beta Gamma Sigma to choose prominent businessmen of the state for honorary membership in this organization. Honorary memberships have been conferred upon the following: J. H. Penick, president of the Worthen Bank and Trust Company, Little Rock; P. F. Watzek, vice-president of the Crossett Lumber Company, Crossett; the late Harvey Couch, former president of the Arkansas Power and Light Company, Pine Bluff; and others of prominence in business.

This organization, the Phi Beta Kappa of the Business School, reached new heights of scholarship and leadership during the 1947-48 term.

The purpose of the organization is to encourage high intellectual and scholastic standards among education students and to recognize outstanding contributions to education. To this end, Kappa Delta Pi invites to membership those persons who exhibit commendable personal qualities and worthy education ideals. Thus, the the club endeavors to maintain a high degree of professional growth by honoring achievement in education work. Other qualifications for membership are junior or senior standing, twelve hours of education, and a four-point grade average.

The meetings are composed of roundtable discussions of current educational problems in Arkansas and at some of the meetings the members themselves present the programs. Each year the fraternity offers a scholarship award based on scholarship, character, and professional interest to the outstanding student in the College of Education.

Lambda Tau, honorary English fraternity, has as its prime function the publication of Preview, a literary magazine. This is the first literary magazine published on this campus since publication of the Arkansan was suspended in 1920. This magazine, published as a supplement to the Traveler, contains short stories, essays, and poems written by students.

The aim of Lambda Tau is to create and foster a greater interest in literary activity by association together, by giving recognition to those who have literary ability, and to encourage further literary endeavor. Requirements for membership are a grade point of four in twelve hours of English, and a cumulative grade point of three point five. Pledges are required to submit a piece of creative writing before they are initiated.

Each year Lambda Tau sponsors a contest open to the entire student body for creative writing. The two best selections are awarded cash prizes. This year for the first time, Lambda Tau is sponsoring a similar contest in the Fayetteville High School.

At bi-monthly meetings, topics of literary interest are discussed.

Phi Alpha Delta, founded in Chicago, Illinois, in 1902, is the national honorary fraternity for law students. An outgrowth of a law fraternity known as Lambda Epsilon, the local chapter, named for Augustus H. Garland, was established here in 1919.

Requirements for membership are a grade point of three for the first semester and a high scholastic rating while a law student. Membership is limited to students of accredited law schools where chapters are located. However, members of the legal profession who have attained distinction, upon approval of the national executive board, are eligible for honorary membership.

Regular meetings are held in the form of weekly coffee hours. Two of the speakers this year were Judge John Butt and Oliver Clegg, a graduate. An initiation banquet was held in March at Mary Maestri's in Tontitown.

Joe Nowlin and William Riley represented Garland Chapter at the National Convention held in Los Angeles this year, and Joe Nowlin attended the Regional Convention in Kansas City.

Phi Alpha Theta was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1921. Since that time the organization has grown into national significance among honor fraternities. Chapters may now be found at fifty-one of the leading schools throughout the nation.

Membership requirements include twelve hours of history or political science with a grade average of 4.00, plus a 3.50 grade average in all other subjects.

At the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Meeting of the National Organization in New York in 1946, Alpha chapter of Arkansas was presented a plaque commemorating the founding of Phi Alpha Theta. The plaque is now on the west wall of the North Reserve Reading Room.

Round-table discussions on the Marshall Plan and its effect on American economy and on the various aspects of the Civil Rights Program proved very interesting to the members.

Phi Beta Kappa is the pre-eminent honor fraternity, the one upon which all others are modeled. Alpha chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas in 1932. The purpose of the society is to recognize and encourage scholarship, friendship, and cultural interest.

Membership is limited to ten per cent of the candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, or Bachelor of Science, in the College of Arts and Sciences. Candidates are chosen on the basis of outstanding character, attainments, and scholarship. A minimum grade average of 4.00 is prescribed, but very few elections occur at that level.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1776 at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. The society thus had its founding in the early days of the Republic, and its history parallels that of the nation. Since its founding, election to this fraternity has been regarded as a recognition of the highest intellectual capacities.

Coveted awards are not limited to seniors . . . freshmen, too, can wear honorary keys, and one of the most outstanding of these is the Phi Eta Sigma key. Before a man is initiated in Phi Eta Sigma, he must make a five-point average for the first semester of his freshman year or a cumulative five-point for the freshman year.

Phi Eta Sigma is a national honorary fraternity for freshman men. It was founded in 1923 at the University of Illinois; its purpose is to encourage scholarship among freshmen. The Arkansas Chapter was founded in 1931 by the late Dean Ripley, this chapter making the twenty-fourth chapter in the United States. Professor Allan S. Humphreys is the faculty advisor.

An outstanding event of Phi Eta Sigma is the annual smoker held in the fall. Those men making the highest grades on the psychological entrance examination are invited to this. Initiation ceremonies are held in November and in March.

Psi Chi, national honorary society in psychology, was founded in 1929, the University of Arkansas chapter being a charter member. Previously, a local honor fraternity, also called Psi Chi, functioned in the place of the national organization.

The purpose of Psi Chi is to stimulate interest in psychology as an academic and professional field of work. In accordance with this aim, the local chapter has sponsored monthly lectures, movies, and demonstrations dealing with topics of interest to psychology, such as conditioning, psychomatic medicine, and hypnosis.

Psi Chi recognizes four classes of members: active, associate, honorary, and alumni. Active members must have completed twelve hours of psychology with a grade of B or above and a C in all other courses. Associate members must have completed nine hours with a B, and have a C in all other courses, but they may not vote on questions of national policy, hold office, or wear the Psi Chi key. Honorary members must be approved by the national council, and alumni members are those no longer affiliated with the local chapter.

Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honor fraternity, was founded at Lehigh University in 1885 by Dr. E. H. Williams, Jr., to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni. The local chapter, Alpha of Arkansas, was formed December 14, 1914.

Membership in Tau Beta Pi is the highest honor that can come to an engineer. Men are selected from those whose scholastic average is in the upper fifth of the senior class or the upper eighth of the junior class. After scholarship, selection is based on integrity, breadth of interest both inside and outside of engineering, adaptability, and unselfish activity. The local chapter annually offers a slide rule to the freshman engineer who makes the highest grade point during his first semester. Highlight of the chapter's activities is a banquet held in March to honor new initiates. The national association supports a fellowship fund to assist worthy students in graduate work.

Tau Kappa Alpha is a national honorary forensic society whose purpose is to award suitable recognition for excellence in public speaking and debate, and to develop and promote interest in forensics among the general public, especially among the students of colleges and universities.

The University of Arkansas chapter is a member of the national organization, which has over a hundred chapters located on the campuses of many of the best universities and colleges in the United States.

Debate activities this year, in cooperation with the University General Extension Department, included: the Savage Forensic Tournament at Durant, Oklahoma; the Arkansas Association of Teachers of Speech Tournament at Conway; the Mid-South Forensic Tournament at Arkadelphia; tournaments at Ada, Oklahoma; and the Missouri Valley Forensic Tournament at the University of Kansas.

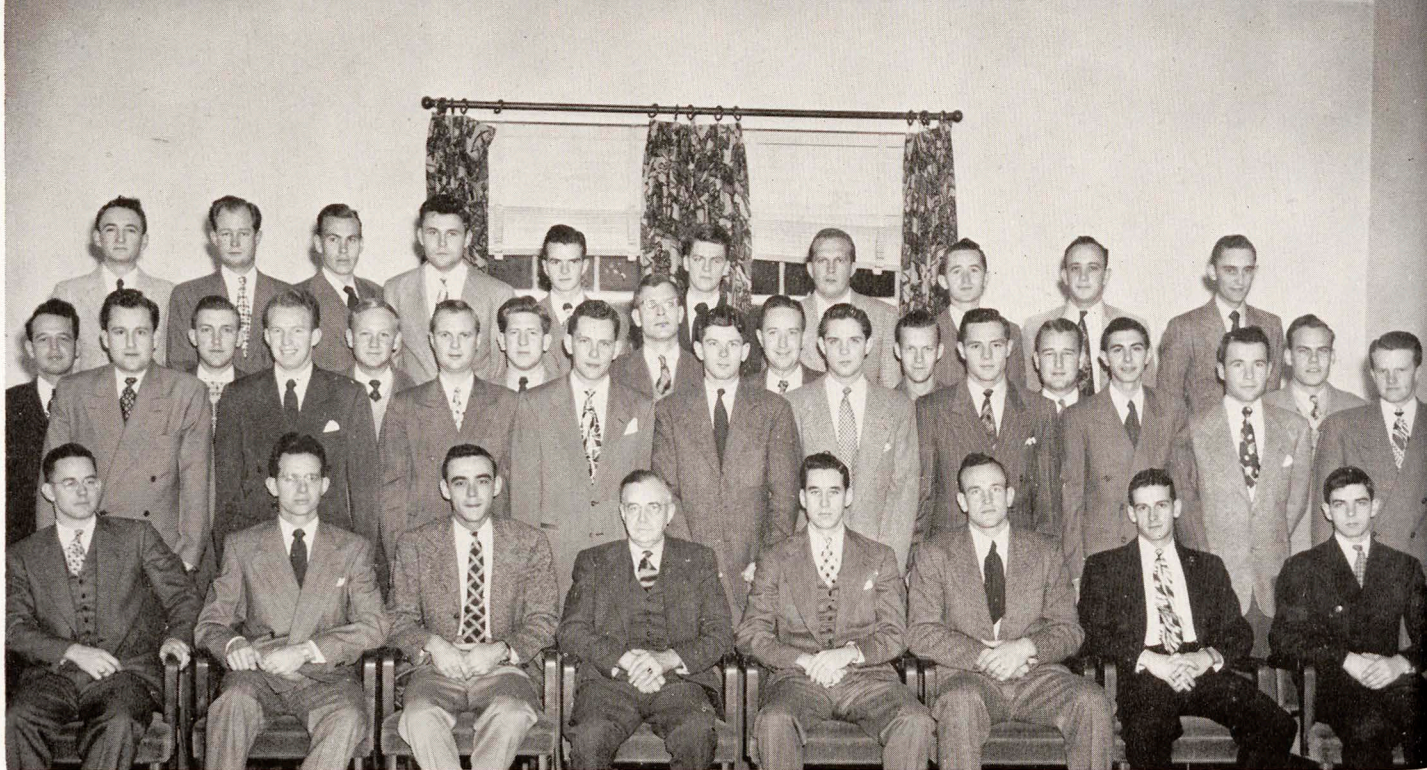

Arkansas won top honors in the State Tournament in Arkadelphia in both junior and senior divisions, and one Arkansas team tied for top honors in the Missouri Valley Tournament, held here in Arkansas last year.

Dr. Charles H. Brough, former professor at the University of Arkansas and one-time governor of the state, was for many years president of the national organization. Other prominent members of the Arkansas chapter are: Hon. Clyde T. Ellis, former United States Congressman, and Hon. J. W. Fulbright, United States Senator.

Blue Key is a national honor fraternity for the recognition of leadership among college men. The local chapter developed out of a group called The Marble Arch and became affiliated with Blue Key in 1929 as the forty-second chapter. There are now seventy-eight chapters located in American colleges and universities.

The Arkansas chapter of Blue Key feels particularly fortunate in having Dean John Clark Jordan, national president of Blue Key since 1934, as its faculty advisor.

Among the various activities the fraternity has sponsored this year are speeches made in state high schools to create interest in the University.

Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society for junior and senior men, was founded at Washington and Lee University in 1914, the local Beta Beta Circle being installed here in 1939. The purpose of ODK is to confer the distinction for high achievement upon its student and faculty members, to foster the spirit of liberal culture, to encourage mental development, to associate outstanding leaders of the society in the art of democratic living, and to stimulate worthy attitudes for the improvement of the general welfare of the institution.

Eligibility for membership is based on character, scholarship, and eminence in athletics, publications, forensic, and social leadership.

Mortar Board is an honorary society for outstanding senior women. It originated from an earlier organization known as Octagon, composed of eight senior women. This group was formed in 1929 by Dean Martha Reid, then dean of women, for the avowed purpose of bringing Mortar Board to this campus.

The purpose of Mortar Board is to provide for the cooperation between societies, to maintain a high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman. The qualifications for membership are service, scholarship, and leadership.

This year Mortar Board began its activities with a school for officers on October 16. Eighty-four students attended the school which was open to all major officers of campus organizations.

Feeling the need on this campus for more aid to worthy students, Mortar Board launched a sale of University of Arkansas calendars in December to establish a scholarship fund. The scholarship is to be awarded on the bases similar to those on which Mortar Board members are chosen.

In conjunction with Sophomore Council, the members sponsored two nurseries for veterans' children on the night of the Veterans' Dance.

MILITARY

COLONEL O'DAY

nal Corps students from Arkansas took a six-weeks training course along with students from colleges and universities all over the country. At Camp Hood, where the doughboys trained, Arkansas ROTC students acquitted themselves nobly. Training with their fellow infantrymen from Oklahoma, Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico, the Arkansas boys displayed their mettle in fine fashion and came up with some outstanding honors. Selected as outstanding cadet among the five hundred trainees was Joyce Pipkin of the University of Arkansas. Third in the selection was Fred Wilmot, who served more than a year as Cadet Colonel of the Razorback Regiment. Besides Wilmot and Pipkin, there were five Arkansans included among the top nine men in the battalion. They were: Stacy Looney, James C. Fritz and Cadet Colonel Douglas C. Jones.

At Fort Sam Houston where the Air Corps trained, Cadet Colonel George Johnston was selected as the outstanding man in the summer camp. Johnston was given the honor of leading the group in camp graduation ceremonies.

The Cadet Corps this year was divided into two companies of Infantry and Signal Corps and two flights of Air Corps with a combined staff of the three branches in charge of the Regiment.

This year two graduation ceremonies were held, one for interim students who fin-

ROTC PROGRAM

Under the leadership of Colonel Ray M. O'Day, the University of Arkansas ROTC program was the finest in history. Approximately two hundred cadets, the first post-war advanced group, received their Second Lieutenant's bars in the Infantry, Air Corps and Signal Corps. The Cadet Corps itself expanded to better than pre-war strength as the non-veterans again filled the freshman and sophomore classes.

To the veterans as well as the non-vets, the advanced ROTC program was lucrative. This was evidenced by a large number of veterans who took advantage of the program to receive their reserve commissions.

Last summer, for the first time since the war, the summer training camps were renewed and the Infantry, Air Corps and Sig-ished their two years of advanced military art at mid-term, and one for the regular senior group who completed their second year of advanced work in June.

Highlight of the year's activities was the annual Military Ball which was held in the spring semester. Features of the Ball were the crowning of the Queen, marching and manual of arms by the Pershing Rifles and pledging of Scabbard and Blade prospects.

Another high spot in the year's activities was the annual Federal Inspection conducted by the War Department. This year's inspection covered all phases of student training, administration, drill, leadership and instruction. At this important ceremony, the University of Arkansas Cadet Corps makes a habit of receiving an EXCELLENT A rating. Last year the Corps also participated in a number of presentation and retreat ceremonies.

Elementary ROTC is required of all able-bodied male, non-veteran students under the age of twenty-five. Advanced ROTC, completion of which leads to a commission as a reserve officer, is open to veterans or students who are graduates of elementary ROTC. If selected by PMS&T, these students enter the course to train five hours weekly and attend one six-weeks summer camp. Training in leadership, tactics, map reading, administration and other army subjects is conducted and upon successful completion of the course the student is awarded a reserve commission. Upon being awarded the commission in the reserve, the student may choose to compete for a regular army commission or he may pursue a civilian career and keep in close contact with the army by taking periodic courses and correspondence work.

tion of the course the student is awarded a reserve commission. Upon being awarded the commission in the reserve, the student may choose to compete for a regular army commission or he may pursue a civilian career and keep in close contact with the army by taking periodic courses and correspondence work.

The University of Arkansas ROTC began in 1917, and it is estimated that approximately one thousand reserve officers have received commissions here. Among those have been Maurice Britt and the late Buck Lloyd, Congressional Medal of Honor winners; Neil Martin, killed in action while fighting with the Flying Tigers, and Leroy Pond, for whom Camp Leroy Pond was named.

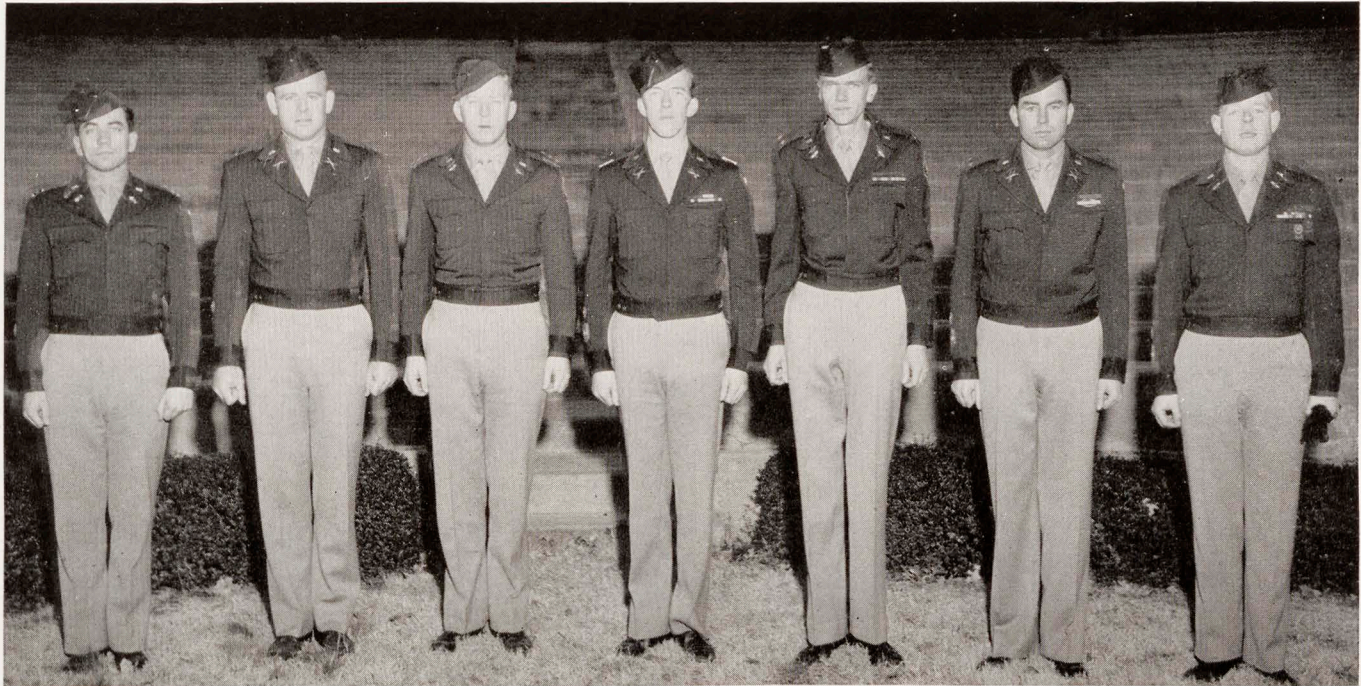

Lieutenant Colonel Joe H. Crakes is in charge of the Air Force group here at the University and Major Rudolph G. Winckler is in charge of the Signal Corps unit and also has command of the Army group of the Unit.

ROTC Faculty Staff: Seated: Captain Horace D. Wood, Captain Robert H. Evans, Colonel Ray M. O'Day, Lieutenant-Colonel Joe H. Crakes, Major Rudolph G. Winckler, Captain William S. O'Conner. Standing: Captain Clifford A. Worby, Captain James W. Sargent, Major Dwight B. Dickson, Captain Frederick F. Hollier, Jr., Major Grover C. Driver, Jr. These are the men who decide and regulate the policies of the ROTC program here at the University of Arkansas. Greatly experienced, tried and proven war-time leaders, these officers train the future officers of the Army.

Non-commissioned Staff Officers: Seated: 1st Sergeant Roger E. Mitchell, Master Sergeant Roger C. Tibbets, Master Sergeant Wayne W. Condon, Master Sergeant Franklin D. Reneau. Back row: Staff Sergeant John E. Helm, Master Sergeant James H. Vanlandingham, Technical Sergeant Welson Umphress, Technical Sergeant Kenneth H. Truitt, Master Sergeant Ralph F. Doran. Under the direction of the officers' staff, these are the men who handle the vast amount of records and supplies that are so vital in the smooth functioning of an ROTC unit.

PERSHING RIFLES

The top men among the basic drill students can be found in Pershing Rifles, honor organization for adept men who like to drill.

Early in the school year, tryouts begin for this Pershing Rifle group, being held after drill hours for several weeks until best steppers are determined and bids for membership are issued.

The group holds its meetings after drill hours, and spends its time practicing the finer points in military drilling. High points in the year's activities of Pershing Rifles are the annual Military Ball and the Federal Inspection, at which times the members of this honor drill group are given a chance to strut their stuff with an audience.

Pershing Rifles is an organization formed for the purpose of promoting good citizenship by General John J. Pershing after World War I. The Arkansas chapter was begun in 1932, but was made inactive during the recent war. It was reactivated last year. Members, besides being good drill students, must also demonstrate scholastic efficiency and leadership.

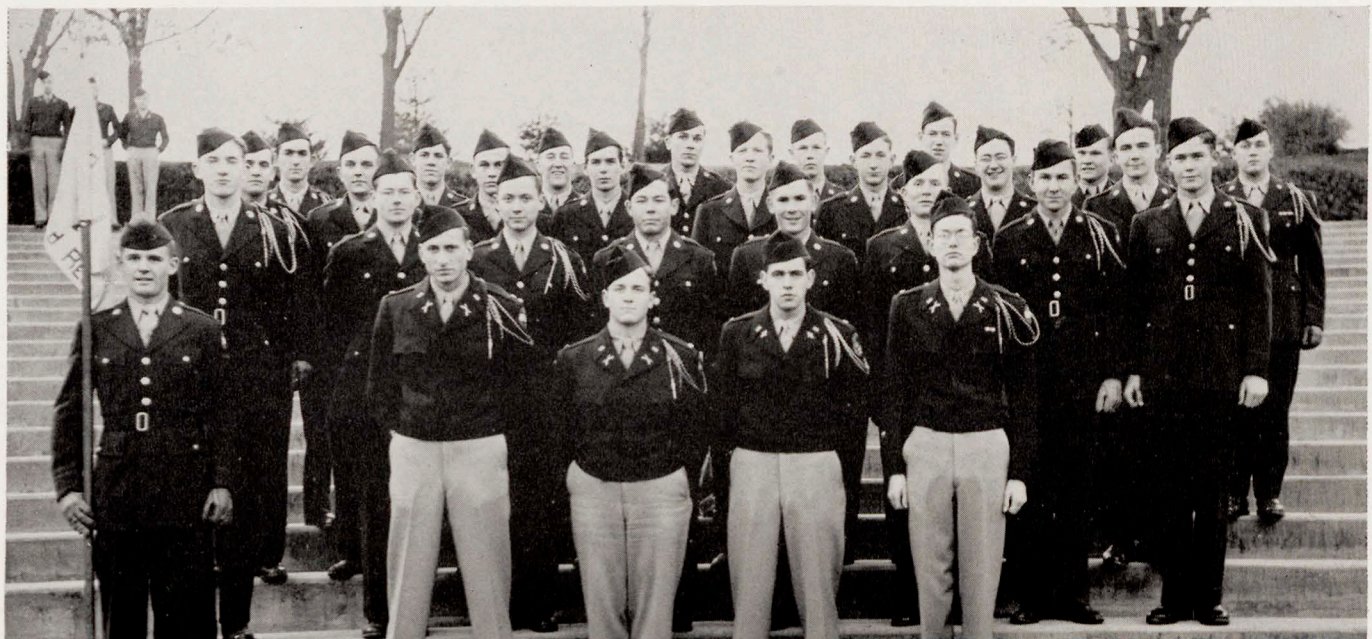

Captain of this year's Pershing Rifles group was Bill Moore, while Robert Bartholomew, Ben Talbot and J. E. Stice served as first lieutenants.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Top men in the advanced military classes have an opportunity to become members of Scabbard and Blade, national honor society for cadet officers.

Company "B", Second Regiment, which is the local unit of Scabbard and Blade, was formed on the University of Arkansas campus in 1916. The installing officer was T. C. Carlson, now vice-president of the University. A member of the organization at the University of Minnesota, Carlson was delegated by national headquarters to officiate at the installation ceremonies. This unit was the seventeenth in the nation to be formed.

Highlighting the fall activities of Scabbard and Blade was a luncheon meeting on national Scabbard and Blade day in October, when Colonel Ray M. O'Day, PMS&T, was guest speaker. Initiation ceremonies were held in the fall and spring semesters, with the second semester neophytes receiving their pledge ribbons at the annual Military Ball.

Two of the charter members of the first company are J. W. Trimble, now United States Congressman from Arkansas, and Scott Hamilton, secretary-manager of the Greater Little Rock Chamber of Commerce.

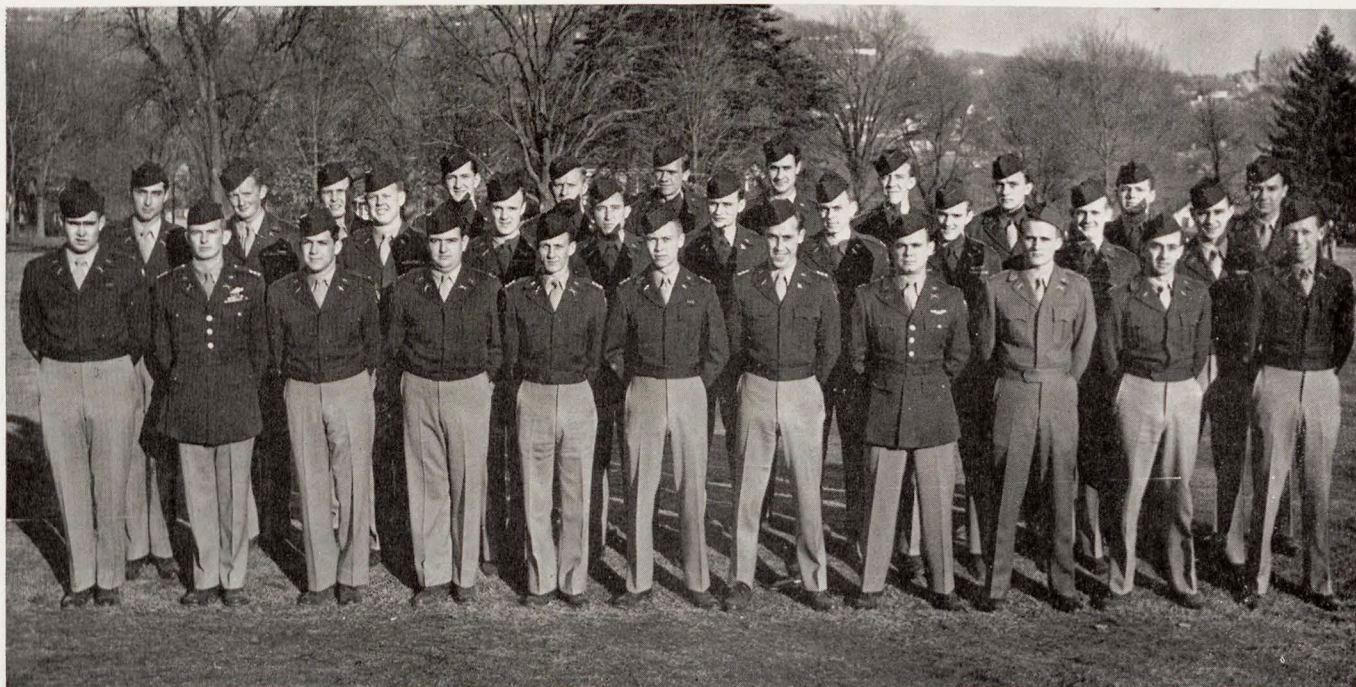

From its activation in April, 1916, to 1943, Scabbard and Blade was active on the campus. It was inactivated in 1943, because the war necessitated a discontinuance of advanced ROTC. It was reactivated in the spring of 1947.

Membership in Scabbard and Blade is limited to advanced ROTC students selected on a basis of military proficiency, leadership qualities and scholastic standing.

ROTC BAND

This year for the first time the ROTC and Razorback bands were separated. The ROTC band consists chiefly of ROTC students who prefer to play music while they march. Directed by Mervyn S. Zahrt, the band members substitute rehearsals for drill in preparation for special ROTC ceremonies.

Some of the occasions at which the band strutted its stuff this year included the homecoming parade, turnover ceremonies, federal inspection, and graduation exercises.

BOOK TWO

THE COMMUNITY AT HOME

A BUILDING boom flourished at the University of Arkansas during the past year. Administration officials not only had to solve the problem of fitting a record enrollment of students into the already crowded classrooms but they also had the added responsibility of finding homes for many an incoming student and faculty member. The result was that new dormitories mushroomed all over the campus as we attempted to deal a body blow to the critical housing shortage. Double-decked beds reared their ugly heads in many organized and independent houses.

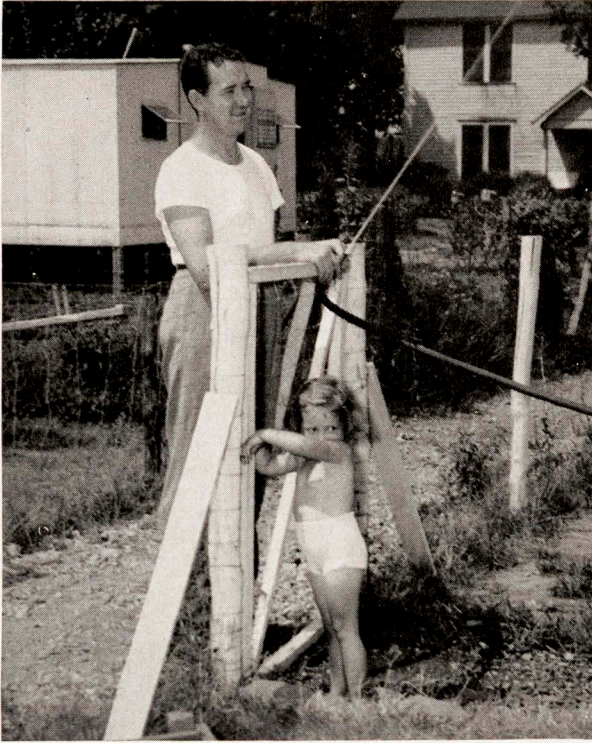

RUSH week opened the community at home season for fraternities and sororities as hundreds of pledges swarmed into their new abodes. The independents' arrival wasn't quite as organized but they made themselves right at home. In the University suburbs of Leroy Pond, Lloyd Halls and Terry and Vets Village, single and married students went right to work on shelves and lawn details to brighten up their new homes. From the ring of the alarm in the early dawn until lights are out, our community life successfully rounded out our stay on the campus.

Upper left: Bob Tipton waters the garden. Upper right: The boys at the PiKA house have a song-fest. Center: Dot Branting and her Tri Delt girls try some of the same. Lower left: Don Jones sulks and the younger generation says goo and gass while listening to a ball game.

From Rah Rah to Da Da

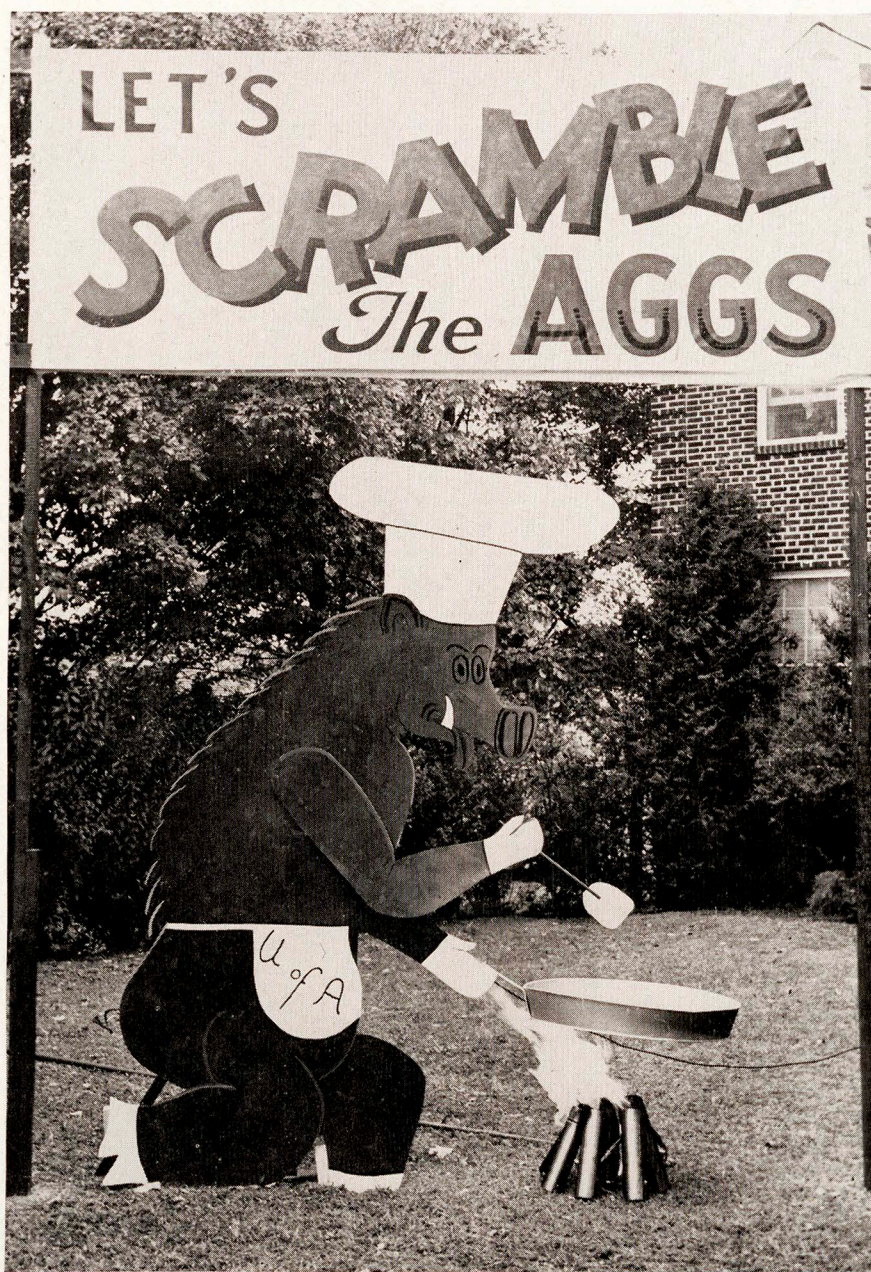

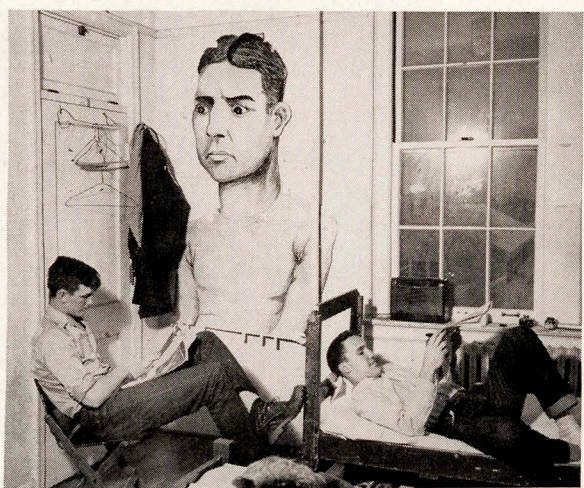

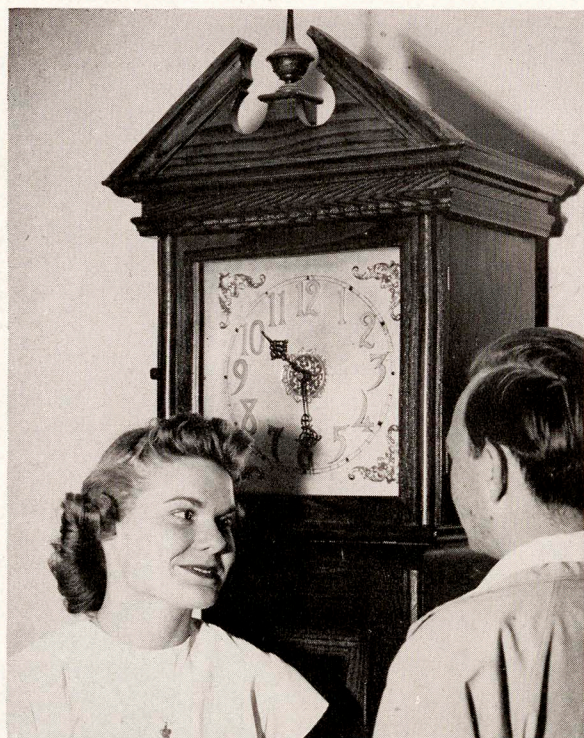

Upper left: Dr. Ward Morton explains the historical significance of Tootles to his young daughter. Upper right: Carnall ironing room does a big business if these girls are any indication. Center: Chio Prexy Betsy Aycock pauses and Sid Phillips wraps her up for the evening. Lower left: These two Kappa Sigs are all set to jump out of their period piece sack and meet the world.

A Cook's Tour of Our Homes

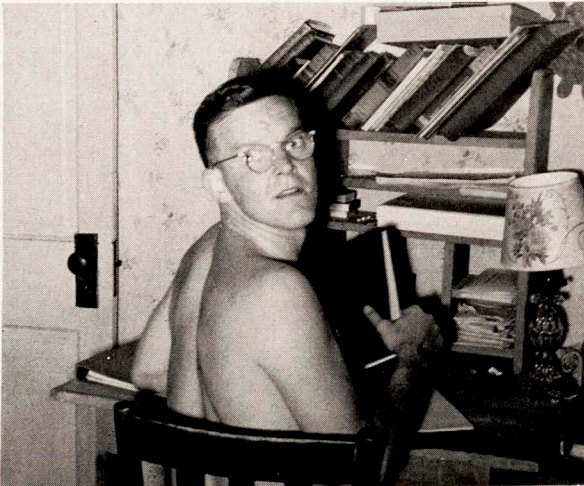

Upper left: Sue Baran discusses the time of night with Neil Terrell, who never knows when to go home anyway. Upper right: The prize-winning Chi Omega house display provided an almost true prediction for the Homecoming game. Center: At home or away, by night or day, Mr. Barnhill looks after his boys. Lower left: Farmers Johnson, Anders, Barnes, Carter and Douglas proudly display a huge watermelon.

Above: There isn't any privacy here as a phone call draws a crowd. Joan Herrera is first in line. Center: A Pi Phi tableau during rush week with Stuck as a Greek, McIntyre as an Arabian, Reagan as a Spartan, Tomlinson as Eve, Strelt as a squaw, Harlan as a Hindu, Wilkinson as Scarlett, and Rhodes as Babs Fritchie. Below: Marie Jones watches her two room-mates knit and coke for relaxation.

Pictorial Glimpses of Home

Psi Chapter

Chi Omega's fifty-third year was a big one for Psi, its mother chapter. Chi Omegas have always taken an active part in the social and scholastic life on the campus, and this year has been no exception.

Homecoming is always a big event, and this year it was especially big for the Chios. Nancy Attwood was chosen as a maid to the Homecoming Queen and Jane Griffith a maid to Miss Texas A. and M. Chios' pride was increased when they were awarded first place for yard decorations.

The party that was a favorite of the girls was the Idiot's Delight party, given in November. Mrs. Bennie Alexander, or "Mother B", was quite a coed in her sweater, skirt, and bobby-sox!

Chi Omega's two big dances, the Christmas formal and the Plantation Party, were high spots in the social whirl.

Chios discovered that they had scored high by winning top honors in scholarship for the preceding spring semester.

The Chios received their share of honors this year. The president, Betsy Aycock, also served as president of Pan Hellenic, vice-president of her class, and was a member of Mortar Board, as was Sue Pattillo. George Anna Hurst and Ann Tillman are members of Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary society.

Joyce Carroll was president of YWCA, and Betsy and Joyce served on AWS Executive Board. Ged Canby and Betty Gibson were cheerleaders. Marie Parker was chosen to represent the University at the Maid of Cotton contest.

Cupid had a field day at the Chio house and fraternity pins were quite in evidence. Betty Robins and Ann Burns wore Kappa Sig pins; Joy Freeman, Mary Stockley and "Bea" Robertson were Sig Alph girls; and Betsy Aycock, B. J. Coleman, Marie Parker, Nancy Vance, "Sister" McCoy, Harriett McGee, Judy Gilliam, and Peggy St. John wore Sigma Chi pins.

Chi Omega colors are cardinal and straw, and the flower is the white carnation. The national publication is the Eleusis, which is issued quarterly.

Each year Chi Omega sponsors the national achievement award, which is presented to outstanding women in the field of public affairs, education, religion, or arts and letters.

Psi chapter of Chi Omega takes particular pride in their Greek amphitheater, which was built in 1930 in memory of the five founders. Since that time, it has been the scene of many University activities, including pep rallies and commencement.

Delta Iota Chapter

Delta Delta Delta, whose home at the University is the large, buff, English style house, known as the Delta Shelter, had its origin at Boston University in 1888. It was established on this campus as Delta Iota chapter in 1913, and Mrs. Jack Reed of Fayetteville, a founder of the chapter, serves as alumni advisor.

Striving for unity among its members and friendship with all students, Delta Iota has become active in all phases of campus life. Elaine Barham received the Pfeiffer scholarship offered each year to a capable business student; JoAnn Swayze, vice-president, served as president of Orchesis; Suzanne Allison was vice-president of Alpha Lambda Delta; Sally Rand was tapped by Mortar Board; and Mary Scurlock was elected junior senator and president of the Major-Minor Club.

On October 5 the Sigma Chis presented the Sweetheart Cup to Janie Branerd; and Margaret Laird, Tri Delt house manager, reigned as Dreamgirl of PiKA.

During football season Sally Bethel and Sara Hope West served as Maids to football queens, and every week-end Tri Delt's doors were thrown open for alumnae, friends, and families. After the Homecoming parade, Delta girls were thrilled to learn that their float had won first prize.

Among other Tri Delts active on the campus were Clela Sue Bennett, secretary of the Sophomore Council and treasurer of Rootin' Rubes; Carolyn Ripley, freshman class vice-president; Sara Hope West, Home Ec Club secretary; Judy Price, secretary, and Carol Shofner, freshman representative in the Commerce Guild. Mil Johnson and Judy Price were given bids to Sigma Alpha Iota and Alpha Lambda Delta, respectively.

A pine-scented ballroom was the scene of the first fall formal, the Tri Delta dinner-dance. Soon everyone was excited and busy getting ready to go home for Christmas, but the Tri Delts couldn't leave without their annual visit from Saint Nick, so Roger Mears, PiKA, came over to hand out the gifts at the Christmas party.

March 5 was the night of the gay spring formal. All of these functions, and many others less traditional but lots of fun, could never have been successful without the capable management of Mrs. Alice Perrin, house-mother, who was always the perfect hostess.

At Christmas time Jane Kinkade became Mrs. Harry Ivy; Kappy Sayle and Fuzzy Griffin, and Sally Bethel and Bill Ferguson became engaged; and numerous others went steady and were pinned.

Alpha Omega Chapter

Let's take a look at the Delta Gamma house way down at the end of sorority row.

The outstanding personality in the DG house, according to the girls, is their house-mother, Mrs. Ruth Wayne.

The Delta Gammas have had a very successful year. Donna Canfield was picked for one of the Razorback beauties, and was a maid to Miss Arkansas at Homecoming. Bette Jane Drilling was Miss Texas at the Memphis game. Margaret Ann Godt was maid to Miss Arkansas at that game. Mary Bob Cross was historian of Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary society for freshman women, and also served on the AWS Executive Board. Rosemary Rucker was on the Sophomore Council. Demetra Bradshaw, DG president, was elected to the Student Senate. Libbey Walker served as business manager for the second annual Gaebale varsity show, and Rosemary Rucker was publicity manager for that same show.

The Christmas dinner party, December 5, was the biggest social function for the fall semester for the Delta Gammas. Jack Deryn proved to be a good Saint Nick and distributed toys to the guests. Later in the evening the toys were collected and sent to the under-privileged children in Fayetteville.

The DG's started the spring semester with a bang when they had their Valentine Dance, February 6. Another big social event was the spring formal, May 7.

Cupid had a field day at the home of the Anchor girls this year. Those who are pinned include Jean Standefer and Charles Elslander, Kappa Sigma Nu; Frances Dale and Buck Gause, Sig Alph; Betty Ann Eustice and Ted Riley, Sigma Nu; Carolyn Hammond and Joe Brewer, Sigma Nu; Katy Horner and Louis Strickland, Kappa Alpha; Jeanne Kurtz and Jack Harman, Kappa Sig; Marilyn Britt and Jack Coleman, Kappa Sig; Helen Whistle and Fuzzy Osborne, PiKA; Helen Wynn and Fred Wilmot, Sigma Chi. Mary Lou Hampton returned from the vacation with a diamond from Jack Lyon.

The official publication of Delta Gamma is the Anchora and the flower is the cream-colored rose. The colors are bronze, pink, and blue.

Delta Gamma was founded at the University of Mississippi in 1873, the first women's national fraternity to be founded in the south. It has since become international with chapters in Canada. Alpha Omega chapter was installed on this campus in 1930.

Delta Gamma provides a $60,000 student loan fund to assist worthwhile undergraduates in colleges all over the U. S.

Gamma Nu Chapter

The big white house on the corner across from the Student Union building was full to brimming over this year with congenial Kappas, laughing, studying, winning honors, and loving the university life in general.

The Kappas can boast of having one of the most versatile groups on the campus. Their abilities range from scholastic honors to Homecoming queen.

For two consecutive years Kappa has been the only group on the campus to have as many as three girls tapped for Mortar Board. Mary Frank Nicholson, Mary Pat O'Kelly, and Sybil Ellis were tapped in the spring.

Mary Jeannette Wood was selected to reign as queen in the University's twenty-sixth annual Homecoming. Other football royalty included June Westmoreland, who was chosen as a maid to Miss Texas in the game at Memphis.

President of Kappa, Mary Frank Nicholson, was a member of Mortar Board, Kappa Delta Pi, Senior Senator, and member of the Pan-Hellenic Council. She has her finger in almost every pie on the campus.

On the Commerce Guild Executive Council was Jean Calloway, who served as secretary for the council. Jean was also a Senior Senator.

Kappa was well represented in YWCA work by Barbara Rose, who was vice-president of the organization. Barbara was also vice-president of the junior class. Mary Louise Ingram found time from her other activities to serve as treasurer of YWCA and also served on the AWS judicial board.

The Kappas are justly proud of their new housemother, Mrs. Laura B. Jennings, who has become the favorite of every girl in the house.

Jeanne Kerwin served as president of Alpha Lambda Delta; Martha Ann Moore was elected secretary of the sophomore class and was president of Sophomore Council. Maisie Lackey, Jean Garrett, Mary Ingram, and Jeanne Kerwin were members of Sophomore Council. In the cheerleading section was Maisie again.

Mary Pat O'Kelly was president of Lambda Tau, honorary English fraternity.

The entire football team was entertained this year by the Blue and Blue girls with a dessert party and special program.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded in 1870 at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill. The flower is the fleur-de-lis, the colors are light and dark blue, and the publication is The Key.

Arkansas Alpha Chapter

The big news of the year for the Pi Phis came when they learned that they were third-time winners of the Balfour Cup, which is awarded on the basis of scholarship, campus service and leadership, cooperation with campus authorities and fraternity officers, and financial condition. The local chapter won over ninety chapters located in the United States and Canada. The cup becomes the personal property of the local chapter at the end of the year.

Among those selected for Mortar Board were Ann Jordan, past editor of the RAZORBACK, Phi Beta Kappa, and vice-president of AWS; and Jean Ahlemeyer, president of the chapter, member of Psi Chi, honorary psychology fraternity, freshman queen, and Gaebale queen last year.

Mary Ann Haley and Ruth Faulkner were chosen as Razorback beauties for the year, and Patty Mosley was elected one of the maids for Miss Arkansas at the Texas game. Emily Gregg was maid to Agri Queen.

Outstanding among the social events was the Pi Phi Winter Wonderland Ball, held at Fount Allen's Bowl.

Mrs. Mildred Sale, province president, honored the chapter with a visit in December, and a faculty tea was held in her honor. Mrs. Marianna Reid Wild, vice-president of Grand Council, visited the Pi Phis in February.

Among well-known Pi Phi personalities on the campus is Carolyn Cherry, who has been prominent in work with Blackfriars. Carolyn was one of the charter members of the National Collegiate Players. She also is a representative on the YWCA cabinet.

In speaking of Pi Phi, one cannot fail to mention Mother Clifton, a Pi Phi herself, and loved by everyone. She is equal to every occasion and makes a gracious and charming hostess for the social functions of the group. This is her eleventh year here.

This year there seems to be a predominance of Sig Alph pins at the Pi Phi house. Wear-the pins of SAE are: Liz Humphries, Mary Ann Haley, Becky Jordan, Patsy Buzbee, Fran Tomlinson, Matlida McFaddin, Marilyn Hoag, Polly Cole, Martha Birdsong, and Ruth Faulkner. Sigma Chi pins appeared on Ruth McIntyre, Carolyn Alexander, Nan Hopper, and Betsy Benton. Barbara Dyess wears a Kappa Sig pin. June Dickerson has received an engagement ring from Bobby Duck, SAE.

Pi Beta Phi, the first national women's fraternity, founded in 1867, has the colors wine and blue. The flower is the wine carnation.

Epsilon Chapter

Noted for their friendliness, the Zetas started things right this year when Dorothy Ashley was elected freshman queen. When football season got into full swing, Zeta Tau Alpha was well represented. Marilyn Mathis reigned as Miss Texas A. and M. at Homecoming, with Luella Barnes and Marcia Cunkel as maids, and Ann Bess Jones was a maid to Miss Texas at Memphis.

More honors were added by Louise Bourgeois, past president of Epsilon chapter, who was a cheerleader, and Jean King, president of Rootin' Rubes. On the scholarship side, Zeta Tau Alpha claims Eloise Boone, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and Irene Batten, president of Mortar Board. Virginia Holmes won acclaim when she was elected to serve on the College Board of Mademoiselle magazine. Frances Benton had the feminine lead in "State of the Union" and is a charter member of the newly organized chapter of the National Collegiate Players, national honorary dramatics fraternity. An outstanding personality at the Zeta house is Aase Olav, daughter of the Norwegian consul in Washington, D. C.

Outstanding in campus activities are Jean Ann Knight, secretary of Rootin' Rubes and of AWS, and Sue Hawley, president of Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity.

The social calendar was crammed to capacity for Zetas this year with the annual Founders' Day Banquet, followed by a hayride and dance at Lake Wedington, a bedtime party given by the pledges for initiates, the Christmas party, the Mardi Gras Ball, and the faculty tea.

No Zeta event would be complete without Mrs. Frank Bittles—known affectionately as Mother Bitty. Also vital to each Zeta function is Alice Keefe, president of Epsilon chapter.

Cupid shot quite a few arrows into Zeta hearts this year. Joining the married crowd were Mary Jane Hamilton and Sam King, AGR; Mary Lynn Wooley and Jim Combs, SX; Betty Hope Hammond and George Lenox, KS; and Aloyise "Easy" Ferguson and Dale Hart, Lambda Chi. On the pinned list were Ann Bess Jones, Frances Benton, and Marilyn Causey, while engaged gals included Joyce Bledsoe, Martha Beard, Betty Ferguson, Jean King, and Ann Crain.

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded at Virginia State Normal College, Farmville, Va., October 15, 1898. The first women's fraternity to be chartered by a special act of a state legislature, Zeta has expanded until it is now an international organization. Epsilon, the oldest active chapter, was installed on this campus December 18, 1903.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Second row: Frances Benton, Virginia Lee, Paula Reagan, Betty Boyd Izard, Katherine Harrel, Frances Shouse.

Today on every campus where there are two or more National Panhellenic Fraternity chapters, a local college Panhellenic must be established to carry out the Purposes, Creed, Standards of Ethical Conduct, Panhellenic Compact, and other tangibles of fraternity as set up by the National Conference.

On the University of Arkansas campus there are six such groups: Delta Gamma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha. Each of these groups has two delegates to the University Panhellenic group.

Experience has taught that a real spirit of Panhellenism, based upon co-operation rather than competition, is essential for the prosperity of the fraternity system and for each group. Panhellenic, this year, has tried to establish this co-operative spirit more firmly on the University of Arkansas campus.

The main program carried on this year has been that of statewide publicity. In having healthy groups on the campus, it is necessary for the people to know and understand the workings of these groups—their requirements, rules and regulations, and also who sets up the rules.

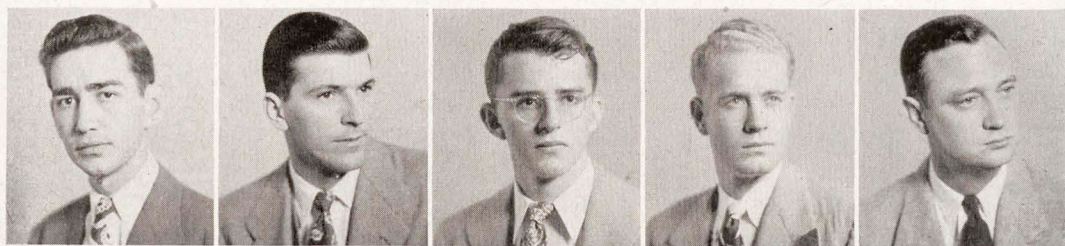

Panhellenic is striving to set up rush rules that may be maintained for a longer period of time than from year to year, as has been the case in the past. With standard rules and regulations, better understanding of the fraternity system can be reached.

Panhellenic officers include: Betsy Aycock, president; Louise Bourgeois, secretary; Jean Ahlemeyer, treasurer; Diane Wilcox, standards chairman; Mary Frank Nicholson, social chairman; and Demetra Bradshaw, handbook chairman. The Council did a fine job for the girls of our community.

DELTA THETA

Delta Theta was founded in September of 1946 as a local colony at the University of Arkansas in order to petition Phi Delta Theta for a national charter. Its aims are to mutually create and enjoy a spirit of brotherhood. The fraternity colors are blue and white and the flower is the white carnation. Dr. Charles Cross is the faculty member of Delta Theta.

Yo ho ho and a bottle of rum, fifteen men on a dead man's chest and Delta Theta's spring formal was under way with a full crew to man the Pirate Ship. Both invitations and decorations helped to carry out the theme and the "A" Club furnished the music.

Commenting on the woes of the house managers on the campus, Delta Theta says the greatest problem their house manager faces is finding a house to manage. Since Delta Theta has not been able to secure a house, monthly meetings are held at either the Country Club or the Blue Mill. Zest and spice are added to these meetings by the antics of Paul Hollenbeck at the piano and John Thomas, sketch artist.

Ralph Smith, president of Delta Theta besides being on the staff of Guild Ticker, a member of Alpha Kappa Psi and ABC and secretary of Interfraternity Council, was elected All-Star center on the All-Star intramural team.

Delta Theta's homecoming float took first prize in the Homecoming Parade, but the boys did not spend all their time this fall building floats. No siree, they still found time to pull down this fall's highest grade point, a 2.88, for organized men on the campus.

Delta Theta will be represented this year at the Centennial Celebration of Phi Delta Theta at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Delta Theta is well represented in all campus organizations and activities. J. P. Bird, at the present time president of Blue Key, was secretary of the freshman class as well as a member of Alpha Kappa Psi. James Stallworth, editor of the Guild Ticker; Ralph Smith and David Piper, Guild Ticker staff; John Thomas, Traveler and RAZORBACK staffs; Maurice and Edward Bedwell, Law Review staff; and Edward Tidwell and Glen Hodges, Traveler staff, all show the abundance of journalistic material in Delta Theta. In the field of fine arts there is equally as good a representation. Wayne Boyce and Paul Hollenbeck are members of the Blackfriars and the musical honors are upheld by David Hamilton in the "A" Club Orchestra and Glen Hodges in the University Band. ODK, Phi Eta Sigma, Delta Theta Phi, Gamma Delta, and Blue Key are only a few of the organizations in which Delta Thetas have taken active parts in this year.

On the romantic side, the Delta Thetas were also well represented. Jack Grober married Dorothy Bigger of Randolph Macon, and Bill Kennedy did the pinning honors with Jeanne Markwell.

At the National Phi Delta Theta Convention which the University of Arkansas Delta Thetas will attend this summer, a petition will be presented for entry into the national organization. If the petition is approved, the Delta Thetas will have an installation in the fall. Chief Justice Fred Vinson of the Supreme Court is a prominent Phi Delta Theta and he will be one of the guest speakers at the summer convention. Ex-Secretary of War Robert Patterson is also expected to attend. He, too, is a Phi Delta Theta.

KAPPA ALPHA

Kappa Alpha is the third new fraternity to be established on the University of Arkansas campus. Crimson and gold are their colors and unlike other fraternities, they have two official flowers—the magnolia, typical of the south, and the red rose. The order now boasts 68 chapters and 30,000 members in their far flung group.

Alpha Omicron Chapter

Even with renting a house about the first of November the KA's haven't solved their housing problem, but until they can carry through their plans for a new house, the situation is greatly alleviated. So far KA has been unable to secure a housemother, but arrangements are being made for the remainder of the term.

Kappa Alpha order was founded on December 21, 1865, at Washington College, which now is known as Washington and Lee University. The founders looked to Robert E. Lee, who at that time was president of Washington College, as their ideal. KA has chapters in southern states only and its aims are to foster and maintain the manners, customs, and ideals of the old colonial South.

Being strictly a southern fraternity, KA is led by Dale Dunn, a good south Arkansas boy who hails from Hampton. Dale originally was a student at Tulsa University, but after returning from the Navy he came to the University and with thirteen other KA veterans helped re-instate Kappa Alpha here. KA's have come back in an individually big way, too. Right and left facing for the military, George Johnson was Cadet Colonel in the ROTC, Richard McEven was president of the Future Air Reserve Officers Club, and Bill Gooch made the rifle team. Important political posts were held by V. L. Kimball,

KA also placed two men, Jim Stepness and Charles Obee, on the Student Union Dance Committee; while Bob Maurer was vice-president of Alpha Pi.

Real talent popped up in the house this year. Besides the impromptu singing, Bob Orgain and "Birdog" King have provided off-the-record skits for the entertainment and enlightenment of the brothers.

Besides the regularly featured stag luncheons on every other Wednesday at the Blue Mill, the pledges entertained the initiates with a stag party at the Razorback—and according to reports, such a good time was had by all that neither pledges nor initiates felt like making classes the next day. But all social affairs weren't stag by any means. Kappa Alpha order held its dinner-dance in the new U-Ark Bowl. Another prominent occasion in the social calendar was an Alumni Banquet held February 7 at the Washington Hotel which brought prominent alumni from all over the state.

On the social side, too, Bill Franklin, star Razorback guard, married Nancy Atwood, Chi Omega. Also taking the vows was A. G. Blanks, who married Bann Thompson, Pi Beta Phi. Several KA pins found their way about, too, and engaged were Lou Strickland and Katy Horner, Delta Gamma.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Service and fraternity are the aims of Lambda Chi Alpha. The national fraternity was first founded at the University of Boston, Boston, Massachusetts, in November of 1909. Its colors are purple, green and gold and its flower is the Fleur de Lise. Gamma Chi Zeta chapter was founded in November, 1923.

Gamma Chi Zeta Chapter

The boys at 340 Arkansas Avenue will tell you that Lambda Chi Alpha's twenty-third year on the campus was one of their most memorable. Some thirty-five initiates returned to find the little white house with its face lifted, or more correctly, its interior. But with the addition of thirty-five pledges through the fall, the house was bulging at its seams as never before.

Socially speaking, Lambda Chi was far from being cramped. In October, after recuperating from rush week, pledges and initiates and their dates made hay while the crescent moon shone, so to speak, on their Hart Pond hayride. Came November and Homecoming, with the traditional buffet for alumni at the chapter house following the game. Later in the month, a really authentic reproduction of Gay 90's atmosphere prevailed at a bang-up costume party in the women's gym. Gaily costumed beaux and belles outdid themselves with handlebar mustaches, derby hats, and rustling bustles.

In the rush of winter formals, Lambda Chi shared honors with Kappa Sigma; undoubtedly more tuxedos and formals were donned that night than ever before here on the campus. Lambda Chi pledges who decorated the Union ballroom were very grateful to the SAE's who left their huge Christmas tree and greenery from their own formal the week before. And Lambda Chi in turn was pleased that their own additions were used by AWS the night following. In fact, all Lambda Chis were elated with success, especially after orchid corsages ordered from California arrived just in the nick of time.

The annual Black and White formal held in March was of more than mere social significance. Climaxing the fraternity's Founders' Day celebration, the ball observed the beginning of a youthful yet vigorous national fraternity. Organized in 1909 at Boston University, Lambda Chi Alpha today boasts 125 active chapters, a commanding lead over its nearest rival. In honors, Lambda Chi was liberally represented. English major Jim Terrell, winner of the Jobelle Holcombe scholarship, made Phi Beta Kappa and graduated at the head of his class with honors. But Thompson added membership in Blue Key to his string of honorary groups on the campus. Dale Hart kept himself busy in Blackfriars' "The State of the Union." Bob Gardener and Bill Searcy played for the Red League in the all-star game.

Lambda Chi Alpha's national office publishes a pledge manual and officers manual booklet entitled Dynamic Youth.

SIGMA PI

Sigma Pi fraternity was founded at Vincennes University, Vincennes, Indiana, in 1897. Sigma Pi's colors are lavender and white and their flower is the lavender orchid. Their aims are to establish and maintain an aristocracy of learning and to establish a brotherhood. Sigma Pi is the only fraternity using the old Greek cross for its emblem.

Alpha Sigma Chapter

The year saw several new fraternities established on the University campus and Sigma Pi was one of these. In May, a group of interested students and two members of the faculty decided to try to found a Sigma Pi chapter. Bob Sutton was elected president of the group and Jack De Good was elected to serve as secretary-treasurer. After considerable correspondence with the National Headquarters, the go-ahead signal was given and plans for the initiation of the members were made more definite. An initiation team from the Missouri School of Mines came to the campus on June 6 and initiated nineteen men into the University of Arkansas Sigma Pi Colony. This brought the total number of Sigma Pis on the campus to twenty-one, including L. I. Iversen and John Mattson, both members of the faculty, and William A. Eckert, part time instructor in Law School.

A special convention was held in September commemorating the 50th anniversary of the founding of Sigma Pi at Vincennes University on February 26, 1897. L. I. Iversen and John Mattson represented the colony at the convention.

In September the Sigma Pis moved into their new home at 919 W. Dickson. Steve Harman, Sigma Pi's national traveling secretary, came down to help establish the group in the new home.

The first official act after moving into the house was to elect officers and to begin the search for a housemother. Here Sigma Pi was very fortunate in securing "Mother D", but when she has to be really formal, Mrs. D. E. Smyer. She moved into the house the week of Homecoming and added the homey touch to the new frat.

On October 11, twenty-one members and pledges traveled to Rolla, Missouri, where at the Missouri School of Mines, eleven pledges were initiated.

Lake Wedington was the scene of the Sigma Pi hayride and everyone said, "What's a little rain?" Even the dates didn't seem to mind as they joined into the spirit of things and made the hayride a social success. The colony's first open house held after the homecoming game was more successful when ten visiting Sigma Pis tramped into the house. Even at this late time dates were found and everyone went to the game. After the Homecoming Dance, a stag party was held at the chapter house.

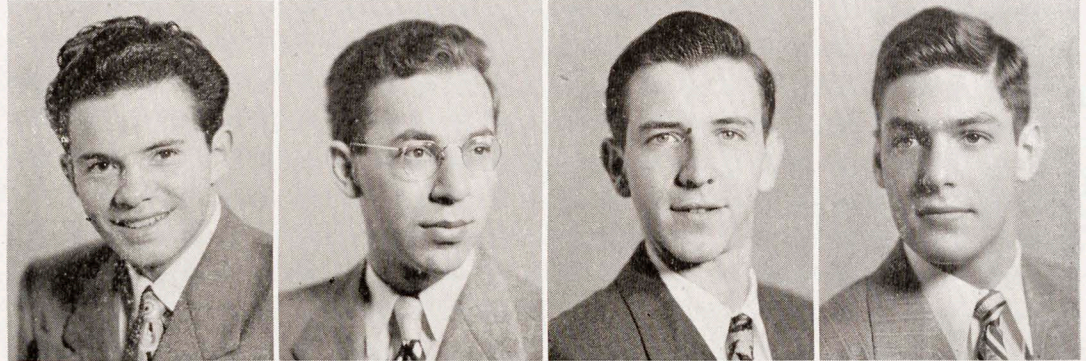

The women's gym was fairly jumping on the night of December 5, when the Sigma Pis staged their first Christmas formal. The next day members began their plans for the annual Orchid Dance which took place May 15.

On April 2, the official installation of the chapter was held in the Student Union. Following this ceremony, the chapter held its installation banquet.

BETA TAU

Beta Tau, local colony of Zeta Beta Tau, was organized at the University of Arkansas in November, 1946. The Beetees have no house but regular meetings are held once a week and once a month a dinner meeting is held. Their pin is a simple gold recognition pin consisting of the Greek letters Beta Tau arranged in echelon fashion. Many of the Beetees are active in school. Irving Saphirstein, Sy Syna, Donald Cohen, Burt Feinsmith, Ed Hirsch, Stanley Elson and Peter Ronai are just a few who have distinguished themselves on the campus. This year Beta Tau built a float for Homecoming which placed high in the judging.

Inter-Fraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council is composed of representatives from all recognized Greek men's groups on the campus. It functions not only to give mutual aid to Greek societies and mediate any questions that may arise between them, but also acts to coordinate and regulate relations between the University and the fraternities.

This year one of the major projects of the council was to draw up a constitution which embodies many new, as well as old practices. In view of the fact of so many new groups coming on the campus, one of the new provisions this year is that a fraternity coming on the campus must receive the approval of the Interfraternity Council before organizing as a local group and then again before petitioning their national for a charter.

Following in the same provision is that for the first semester after organization the group is allowed to have representatives on the council but is not allowed to vote. Then after the first semester, if the group is again approved, they are allowed a vote.

The Interfraternity Council sent three delegates to the Regional Interfraternity Council which was held at the University of Oklahoma this year. The delegates, Vim X. Rye, Dick Miller, and Ed Staten, seemed to have enjoyed the conference as well as returning with many new and useful ideas.

The interfraternity dance was held on April 14 and an Interfraternity Queen was selected from nominees from all the fraternities.

Sam Stuckey, Pi Kappa Alpha, headed the Interfraternity Council during the first half of the year. New officers elected at mid-term: Russell Reinmiller, president; Calvin Ellis, vice-president; Bill Carroll, secretary; and Bill Block, treasurer.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

Essentially an agricultural fraternity, Alpha Gamma Rho was founded at the University of Illinois April 4, 1908. The small group of select agricultural students who formed the organization that day chose as its colors green and gold, and as its flower the pink rose. University chapter is Alpha Iota.

Alpha Gamma Rho brought "Rooster Day" into its own this year. Imported from an unknown hamlet in Oklahoma, it was originally a day for picking, or rather selecting, the rooster of the year. Brought to Arkansas by Wallace Nickols and Hal Coe, two AGR alumni, it was expanded this year to include all Agri students and members of the Agri faculty. The time selected for "Rooster Day" was right after mid-term exams and the results were very promising. It looks as if the University has another real Agri tradition.

The AGR boys pulled down last spring's top grades for organized men's houses with a 2.85; however, this didn't stop them from developing some top-notch domino players. Seems as if the game really caught on and there were some really hot domino duels.

Composed of at least 80 per cent membership in the College of Agriculture, AGR had three men, John Day, Charles Weems, and Charles Dewett, to win Sears scholarships this year. The Burpee scholarship went to another member, Delma Dockins, for being the outstanding student in horticulture.

Although this was Mother McRae's first year with Alpha Gamma Rho, she is no stranger to the U. of A. campus, having been a housemother here for twenty-five years. When an alumnus observed this year that he hadn't missed an Arkansas Homecoming in the last twenty-five years, Mother McRae pointed out that she hadn't missed an Arkansas home game for the last twenty-five years. Led by Robert Rice of Lonoke, the AGR's were looking to the future when they purchased a lot for building a new fraternity house. Having remodeled and refurnished their living room during the summer, the AGR's are still aiming at bigger and better things.

Commemorating their fortieth year since their founding as a national fraternity, Alpha Gamma Rho had its Founder's Day Banquet in Little Rock on April 8. Founded in 1908, the Green and Gold of Alpha Gamma Rho first came to the University of Arkansas in 1934. Active since then in nearly all campus activities, AGR has been especially active in YMCA, Men's Bible Class, Alpha Zeta and Gamma Iota. AGR politician John C. Day was elected president of the freshman class this year.

During the football season AGR had a series of listening parties for AGR's and dates. These were followed by a house party and during Homecoming an Open House was held for the alumni. The lodge at Lake Wedington was the scene for the AGR Christmas Party. Rooster Day furnished a welcome addition to the mid-term lag and to round out a full year of social activity the annual spring formal came on April 17.

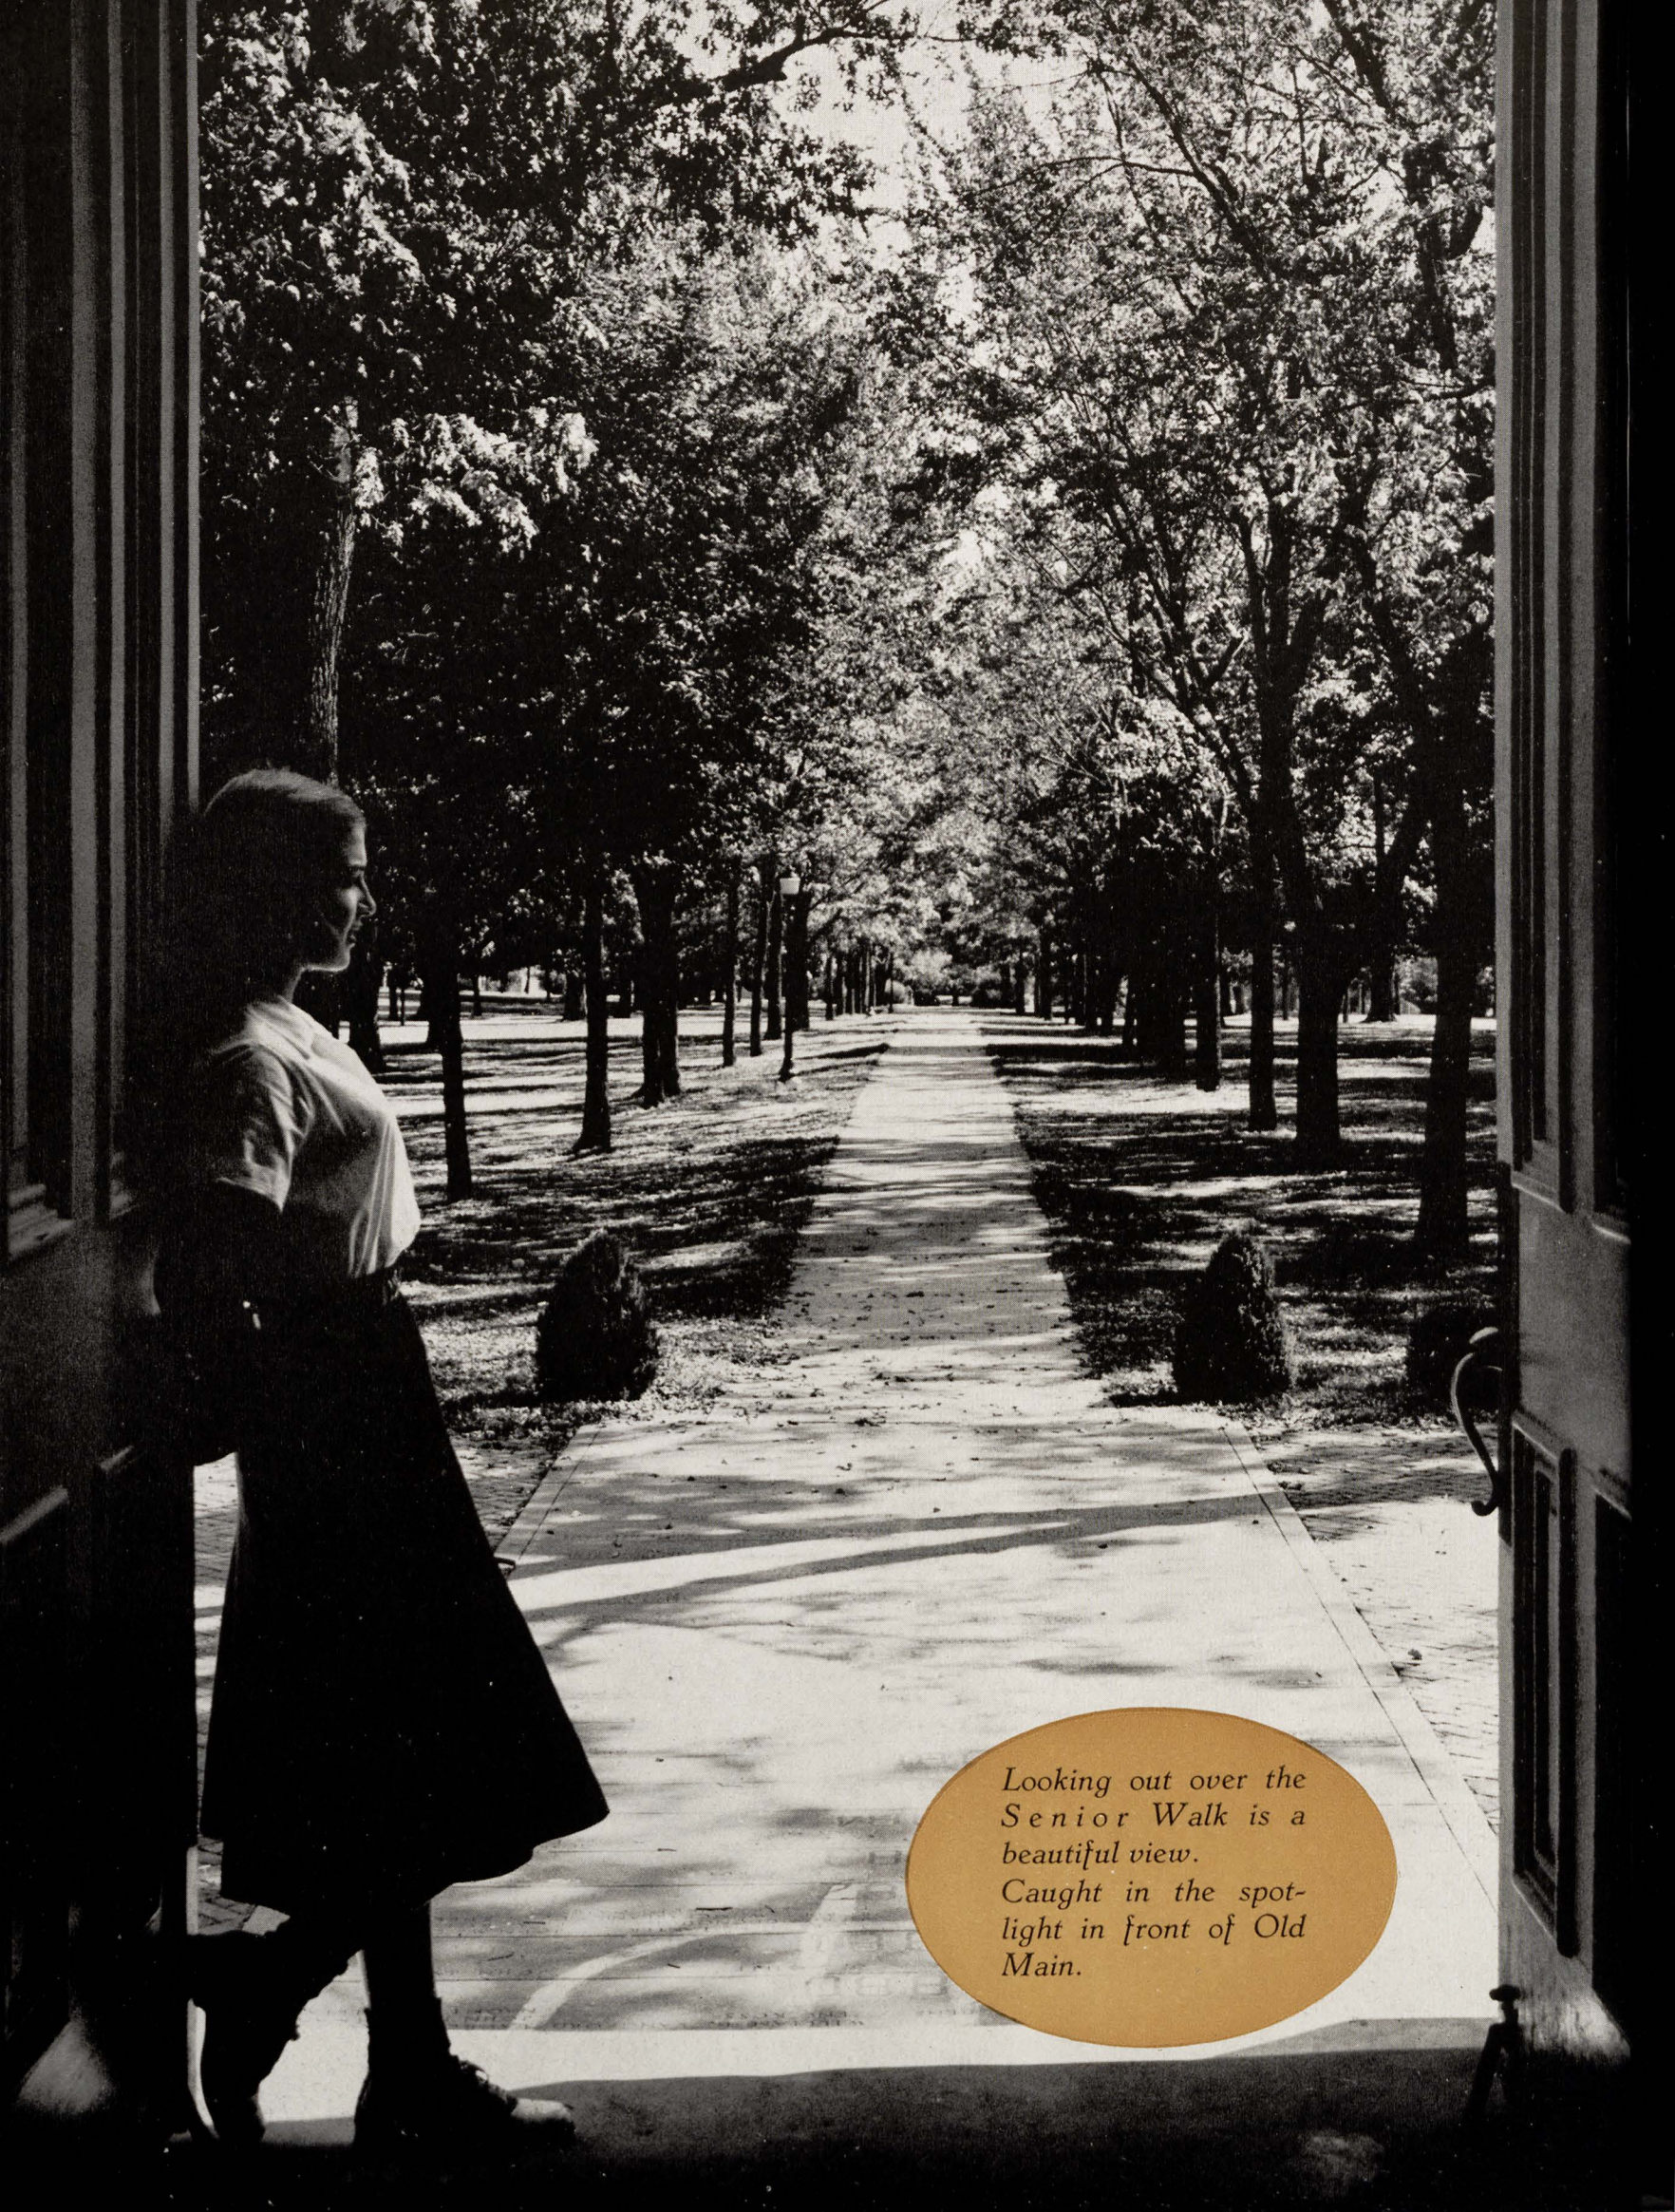

Pinned were Jack Hazelbaker to Jane Rucker, Zeta, and Matthew Meacham to Mona Lee Morris. Sam King was married to Mary Jane Hamilton, Zeta.

BAKER HOUSE

Baker House is a refuge for approximately twenty-nine male University, if you will pardon the expression, students. It was organized in the fall of 1943 by Mrs. C. A. Baker, who is the housemother. It is located at 326 Rollston Street, which is right in the heart of Schuler Town, exactly 237 paces from Bill's Snooker Parlor.

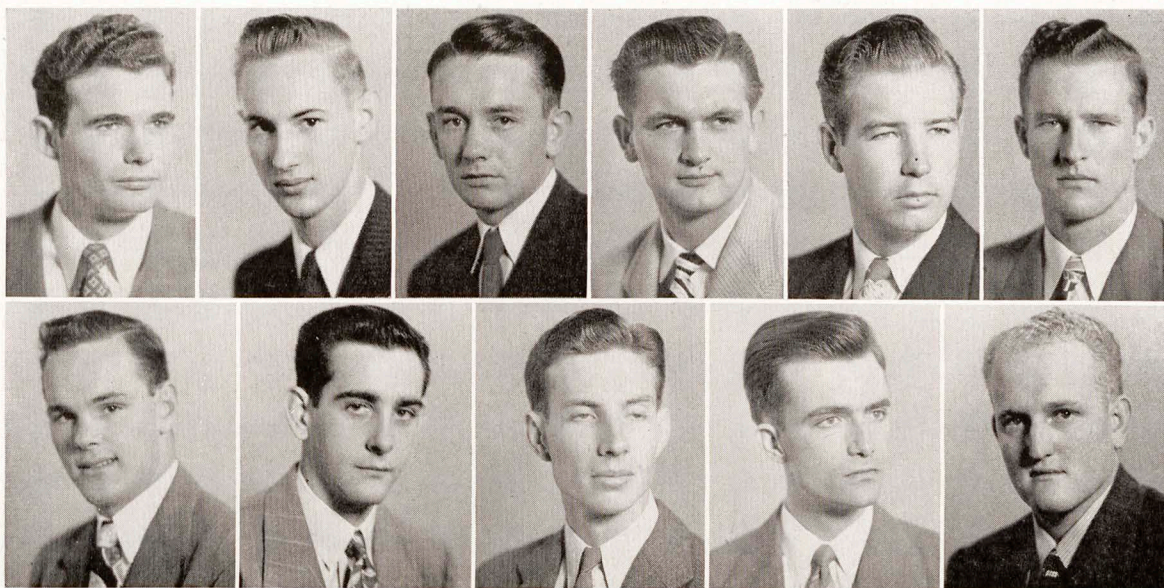

As a result of the increased enrollment at the U. of A., an annex was added to Baker House in the spring of 1946, located at 206 West Dickson. Fourteen of the twenty-nine Baker House residents are housed at the annex.

Baker House has a good cross-section of University students. With the exception of Graduate and Law schools, each school in the University is represented at Baker House. However, as in most places, the engineers and business student numbers overshadow the rest of the crop. Latest addition is an exchange student from the Republic of Texas.

The activities at Baker House are devoted primarily to bull sessions and frequent trips to the "Deluxe" for coffee and more bull sessions, studying being a secondary feature of the establishment. High man on the totem of tall tales and extemporaneous humor is "Ditty" Johnston, who has that certain touch.

The recreational facilities at Baker House are very extensive, consisting of one radio and two decks of cards for every thirty feet of floor space. With pinochle and pitch being most frequently played, the cards don't get in the way too much but the radios complicate things. If you keep both ears open you can always listen to at least two programs, but doing that and getting lessons, too, gets a little rough on Baker House's two bonafide six pointers. Of course, all this is varied with frequent trips to the aforementioned William's Old Snooker Emporium.

Baker House participation in intramural sports was limited to basketball this year and, although they did not drag down any top places, they proved a credit to Baker House with their display of great sportsmanship. Handicapped to some extent in intramurals, the boys from Baker House haven't let it interfere with their social activities. In addition to the informal get-togethers, the boys are planning a beer bust sometime this spring.

Bill Isaacs has had that bold look all year and definitely cannot be beat when it comes to natty bow ties. Little Jimmy Baker, six-pointer and only twenty-two years old, known to those in the know as "Gulable," has been currently entertaining, with a little difficulty, some out of town guests.

Engaged are Richard Perkins, Norphlet, to Martha Neal, Fayetteville, and Jimmy Sandor to Helen Gage. And Eugene Gibson is making full use of the U. S. mails to carry on his social activities at the tune of two letters sent and received every day.

Active in many of the campus's varied clubs and organizations, Baker House is represented in the student government by Wallace Wilson. Wallace ran on the Independent ticket and was elected to the student senate.

Officers of Baker House are: Floyd Dickerson, president; Roger Dew, vice-president; Wallace Wilson, secretary-treasurer; and Jimmy Baker, athletic manager.

Almost all of the members are veterans, some of whom resided here before entering the service. All branches of the service are represented and many of the bull sessions are devoted to discussing the war. After the war scare in March, the boys really went at it.

CARNALL HALL

Carnall Hall with its winding staircases and crystal chandeliers is reminiscent of the old tradition of southern hospitality. Mrs. Barnes, house-mother, is a gracious hostess and has fostered this spirit of friendliness for the past 16 years.

Coming all the way from Florida to lead Carnall through one of its most successful years is President Sue Baran. Sue, serving as a double-duty leader, is also president of Arkansas chapter of AWS. Aside from her executive duties, she has taken an active part in Mortar Board, Met Club, and is a charter member of Pi Epsilon Delta, national dramatics fraternity.

Assisting with executive duties are: Dolores Beard, who has been on her toes in directing social events; Arlene Cranford, who has patiently kept up with the bills; Charlotte Pickens, who has faithfully recorded the minutes and "call downs"; and Betty Horne, who has fulfilled the duties of house manager and served as president in the hall's decorations.

Carnall girls mark with pleasant memories the dates on the social calendar which were set aside for open house and those "evermore" sweater hops. The Christmas "come as you are" party was more rhyme than reason and the climax of the evening came when Misses Scudder and Stone arrived to display their gift to the residence halls, a silver service set. Starting right in to put the gift to use, the girls held a tea for the faculty late in February. A dessert party in the student union lounge marked the beginning of a gala evening when Carnall held its winter formal. The Valentine theme was carried throughout and everyone agreed that the dance was one of the highlights of the year.

Carnall has a more serious side, too, as is evidenced by her many outstanding students. Heading the list are the three girls who made six-points the first semester: Jean Alexander, Lorene Gibson, and Betty Ann Strauss. Lou Dewees was chosen for Phi Beta Kappa and five Carnall girls are on Sophomore Council.

An enthusiastic participator in athletics, the dormitory was champion of the volleyball tournament. At Homecoming Carnall received honorable mention for the giant football float. Betty MacDonald, candidate for Engineer Queen, reached the finals as did Ruth Waters, the hall's candidate for Agri Queen.

Romance claimed its quota this year and brought diamond rings to Bobba Cochran, Ann Gartside, Billie Holt, Libby Nick, Martha Robertson, and Betty Thompson.

Carnall is particularly proud of its game room and snack bar combination that was opened this year. The girls get a chance to show their skill in cooking at the help-yourself snack bar on Sunday evenings.

All that is said and done gets in Carnall Chatter, which is published weekly and written in such a way that when all issues are bound together at the end of the year, each girl has a complete diary of "my year at Carnall."

DAVIS HALL

Davis Hall opened its social activities in September with a "Come as you are" party at which time old members welcomed the new residents. October 18 was the date for the Harvest Moon Inter-Hall Dance. On December 18 the girls had their Christmas party. According to the girls, the biggest success of the year was the Leap Year Sweater Hop in February.

Davis had more than its share of campus honors this past year. Mary Cornelius was chaplain of Phi Upsilon

Omicron, winner of the Danforth Scholarship, and sports director of softball for WAA. Ernie Gipson was treasurer of AWS and a member of the Extra-Curricular Committee. Marie Browner was vice-president of the student body, librarian of Phi Upsilon Omicron, and social chairman of the Home Ec Club. Marie also made the Who's Who section of the 1948 RAZORBACK. Gail Stuart was president of Orchesis. Edith Holley was elected Senior Senator and chairman of the Judicial Board. Dorothy Williams was business manager of the Traveler. Dorothy Watson was vice-president of WAA. Maxine Yenawine was chosen as Miss Arkansas for the Texas game. Alta Bowlin was a Maid at Homecoming. Gena Ledbetter was co-chairman of music for the Varsity Show. Wanda Davis was social chairman of the Student Senate. Rootin' Rubes claimed Bonnie Smith.

HILL HALL

The girls who lived in Hill Hall started the year off right with an open house October 12, for all men on the campus. Following the overwhelming success of this open house, drop-ins were held regularly throughout the year.

The big event of the year for Hill Hall was the dinner-dance held at the Country Club on December 13. After 12:30 the girls traded their silks and satins for wool slacks, mittens, and candles, and started on the trek over the campus to serenade the various men's houses. The Hill Hall song made a big hit with the men, who responded heartily in spite of the late hour and falling thermometer.

Mid-semester found the girls planning a hayride, spring formal, and other social functions.

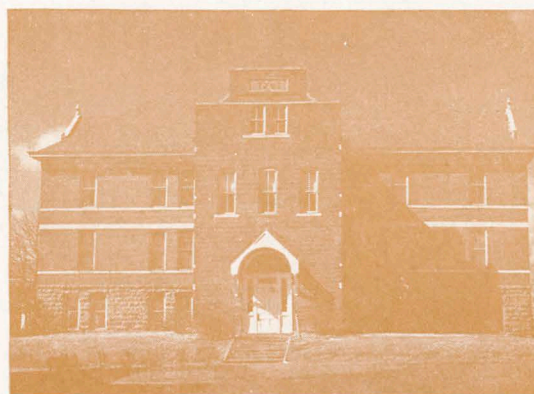

Mrs. LaFon Marshall proved to be both an able and lovable housemother, and her talent in the line of fudge-making was an asset to Hill Hall.

Hill Hall girls held their own in the scholastic field. Penelope Higginbottom received high honors for her work in business school.

Romance found its place at Hill, too. Several of the girls displayed that well-known third finger, left hand ornament, and more than a few had that glow about them which means "I'm going steady now!"

All in all, the Hill Hallers had a happy year.

GIRLS 4-H HOUSE

"To make the best better"—that is the motto of the 4-H Girls and they have certainly been living their motto: mentally, physically, socially, and spiritually.

Girls 4-H Cooperative House, the only co-op group on the campus, was organized in the fall of 1932 for former 4-H members who were planning to major in home economics. It was the first active girls' co-op in the United States. Last year the girls joined the Central League of Campus Co-ops, an organization comprised of such houses in six states.

Moving day was the rule not the exception around the 4-H House. Every year the girls return to find themselves living in different rooms. However, their troubles are almost at an end, with plans under way for the new house. The house opened with a bang at the beginning of the fall semester with half new girls and half former members. This has renewed the girls' pep and interest in campus activities.

The girls' social success began with their first informal dance given in September. This was followed by a skating party. When the Home Demonstration Agents met on the campus this fall the 4-H girls entertained them with a tea. The Christmas "Holly Day Ball" was the climax of the fall social season. The house was decorated throughout with blue and silver.

Weeks before Christmas were filled with sleepless nights when the gang "fell out" and "fired out" on the balcony to get a "bird's eye view" of the songsters.

The annual "Pollyanna" week just before the holidays was once again the happiest week of the year when the girls did a good deed daily for their

"Pollys". A gala party around the Christmas tree ended the week.

The house roll reveals several state and national 4-H champions and winners of scholarship awards: Mildred Bruce, national champion in home management; and Alice Ruth Gilliam, state all-round champion last year and second national 4-H leadership winner this year, holding a Danforth scholarship. Other state winners are Vera McKnight, Janece Turpin (being awarded a Gooch scholarship for two years), and Winona Coleman, who holds a Kroger scholarship.

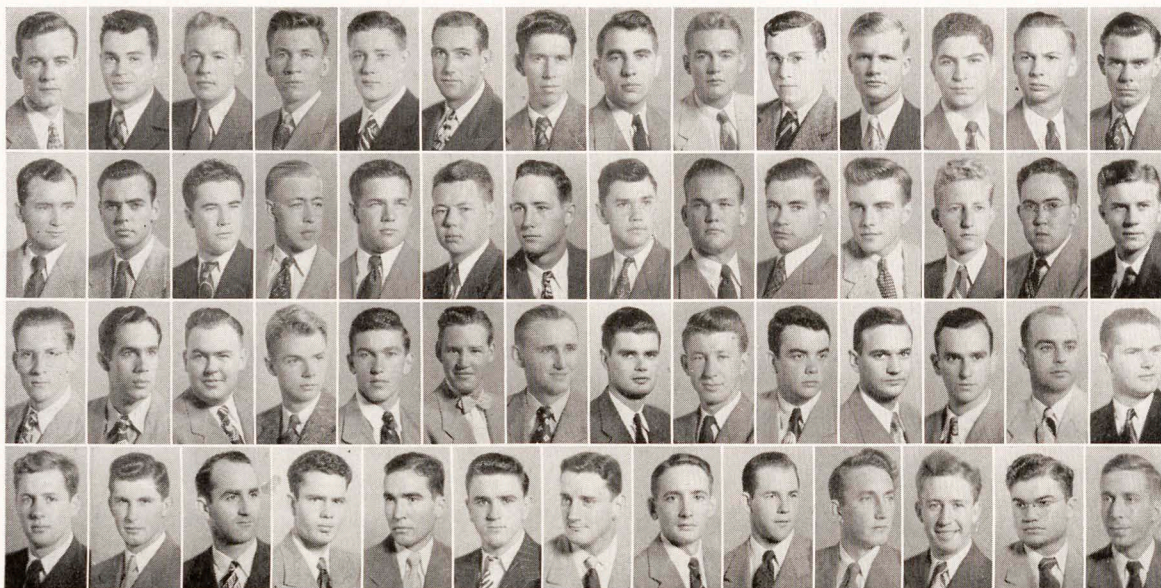

During study hours the girls study, but when ten o'clock rolls around the commotion starts with a rustling of feet and a parade of the halls. Just the same, everyone evades third hall unless she is wanting to engage in a hen party, midnight snack, or a style show. Dizzy's menu just isn't complete without that regular delivery from Wheeler's Drive-Inn at the hour that every girl should be asleep.

Alma Widemer has been the only girl to swing the matrimonial lasso but the future holds great promises for Ann Stone with that diamond on her left hand.

The girls are proud of their new housemother, Mother McKinnon, who came to the campus this fall. Mother McKinnon has the remarkable gift of knowing a cure-all for anything from home-sickness to love-sickness. She has served the girls in every way.

RAZORBACK HALL

Razorback Hall went to bat again this year with a full team of one-hundred and seventy-five men, making it two years in a row at three men per room. It's rough, but things could be worse, and are in many places.

Under the supervision of E. B. Huber, Director of University Housing, the Hall has been receiving some long needed attention. The walls have acquired a new coat of blue paint, new lamps have been secured for many of the rooms and the boys have high hopes of new study desks for each room in the near future.

Across Garland Avenue the new men's dorm is being erected. The boys managed somehow to weather the shower of stones which continually filled the air during the early days of construction, and they look forward to the day of its completion in hope that it will relieve the crowded condition.

The unorganized but powerful snow ball team claims total victory over SAE this year, having chased them almost out of the city limits. If the new dorm is completed by next winter, it should furnish enough extra power to completely annihilate them. Better bring in some reinforcements, men.

The football team, back again with us this year, has completely filled the West Wing, and is gradually taking in the Center Section. Most outstanding newcomers inhabit the third floor, West Section, and may rightly be classified as the roughest and the toughest, but best natured bunch of freshman football players ever to invade the campus. Dick Nealon, councilman from that floor, who rules the boys with an iron fist, reports bashful Bobby Logsdon as official story teller (he really knows 'em), Louie Schaufle, lover, and a quartet composed of "Meanie" Brown, Jack Bailey, Russ Bowman, and imported Frank Lambright. The boys really have talent, and wowed the girls' houses with their warbling during carol singing time.

Appetites are kept at a minimum, and the men continue to thrive on "Ma" Pierce's chow, which we contend is the best on the campus. Her meals are supplemented by sandwiches from Red Wheeler just before bed time. Red's a good salesman. He just won't leave till he sells something.

The officers are doing a grand job. Joe Eason, as President, is working hard toward the betterment of conditions in general, and "Willie" Duke, Intramural Manager, is devoting all he has, which is plenty, toward winning the Intramural Trophy. They're out after it, and fully intend to wind up with it.

Razorback is governed by elected officers and by a council of representatives. The officers are: Joe K. Eason, president; Franklin Presson, vice-president; Theron Harris, secretary and treasurer; Alvin C. Duke, athletic director. The council is composed of George Zimmerman, Johnnie Webb, Hubert Sneed, Harold Langston, J. D. Smith, Henry DeSalvo, Don Pennington, Charles Young, and Dick Nealon.

THETA TAU

Theta Tau, national professional engineering fraternity, was founded at the University of Minnesota on October 15, 1904. Theta Tau is not an honorary fraternity, although its scholastic standards are high. Theta Tau's members are selected from engineering students who have not only shown that they are of personal worthiness, but who also have shown promising engineering ability. It is for this reason that Theta Tau has become known as a "midnight-oil-burning" fraternity.

Upsilon chapter of Theta Tau was founded on the campus in 1928, and two of its charter members, Professors Stelzner and Spencer, present faculty advisors of the group, now serve in the capacity of head of the Electrical Engineering and Civil Engineering departments, respectively.

Theta Tau is still struggling to obtain a new chapter house somewhere in the vicinity of the University. Although the project is constantly being investigated, the boys are doing fairly well at their present location on Church Street.

Theta Tau again captured its share of honors this year. Nolan Allison, editor, and Ralph Stewart, business manager, of the Arkansas Engineer have produced something "new" in the magazine this year with the able assistance of many of their fraternity brothers and other engineering students.

Ten members of the seventeen on the Engineering Council, the student group that plans and directs the social functions of the Engineering School, are members of Theta Tau and three of these ten men serve ably as officers of the group.

The Theta Tau's find time for other activities than beer-busts, as can well be seen by their combined representation in Blue Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon, and Tau Beta Pi.

Having acquired a barbecue pit during the summer months, the Tau's found a good reason to use it in celebrating the TCU-Arkansas football game with a combination barbecue and beer-bust. Members, faculty, and guests consumed enormous quantities of beer and barbecued beef.

The annual Founders' Day Banquet was held October the fifteenth in the Blue Room of the Mountain Inn hotel, where Herb Allman addressed the group as master of ceremonies. The annual winter formal dance was held in February to give the boys a chance to forget desks, slide rules, and hand-books for an evening and show the campus that they, too, enjoy life whenever possible.

Theta Tau has played an average game as far as intramurals are concerned. It seems that Theta Tau always gets off to a slow start and ends with a photo-finish, as evidenced by the past football season. Theta Tau is looking forward to the day when it can take a greater part in campus intramurals. Mother Cate is still doing a wonderful job keeping her brood in the good graces of the Dean's office.

The present officers of the group are: Regent, Tom Lyle; Vice-Regent, Bill Russell; Scribe, Lester Redmond; Treasurer, J. O. Grizell; Inner Guard, Chester Haynes; Outer Guard, John Graves; Marshall, Roy Harrison; Corresponding Secretary, John Paul Saunders.

The organization was first known as "Hammer and Tongs." The Greek name, Theta Tau, was adopted in 1911. Their colors are dark red and old gold and the flower is Jaqueminot rose.

U-ARK GIRLS

This year U-Ark boasts girls from Texas, New Jersey, Illinois, Washington, D. C., and Arkansas.

Living just above the theater, U-Ark girls have the privilege of going to the movie, rain or shine, with no ill effects. With two cafes, a five-and-ten, a record shop, a book store, a bowling alley, and the U-Ark Bowl for dining and dancing, these girls never have to stray far from home. Hence they made very good use of those minutes before Vi wandered through cheerfully with "Dates are called!" Mrs. H. O. Rotherum, housemother, also found out that the girls know the meaning of the tune, "Five Minutes More."

The house president, Anna Ruth Brummett, really lived up to her "great expectations" by representing the hall in honorary societies. She was secretary of Kappa Delta Pi, and was initiated into Phi Sigma and Pi Mu Epsilon.

Suzannah Cubbage was another of U-Ark's celebrities. Girls forgave her for the many times they had to stumble over Sy Syna on the steps because Zannah made them proud by becoming president of the Russian Club, publicity manager of International Relations Club, and an active member of the band. She was always there, entertaining the girls with her sax solos. Paula Kost also entertained the girls with her accordion. Mary Louise Wise and her Bumble Boogie were an additional attraction.

Outstanding this year was the Homecoming float. U-Ark girls attired themselves in blue sweaters and skirts on a musical float accurately predicting that Texas would soon be singing the blues. They were awarded second place, and celebrated by having an informal party for the boys at the U-Ark annex, who had been very kind in helping with the float.

After hours' parties and listening parties were common occurrences at U-Ark. Willye Lowry turned in a very good performance at one of these parties as Wild Nell of the plains.

Louise Davenport served as president of YWA, association for Baptist girls on the campus, exemplifying the fact that the spiritual side of life was not neglected.

Betty Kearney, the gal of many talents, proved to be original in her decorating and U-Ark did not lag behind in this respect. Oh, those soft lights with mistletoe and holly and blue lights on the Christmas tree!

The girls were never able to find out definitely who among them was responsible for the short-sheeted beds which had all the slats missing except the middle one; but they wonder why Sarah Black kept her room locked at all times. Could it be that she realized the powers of the revenge motive?

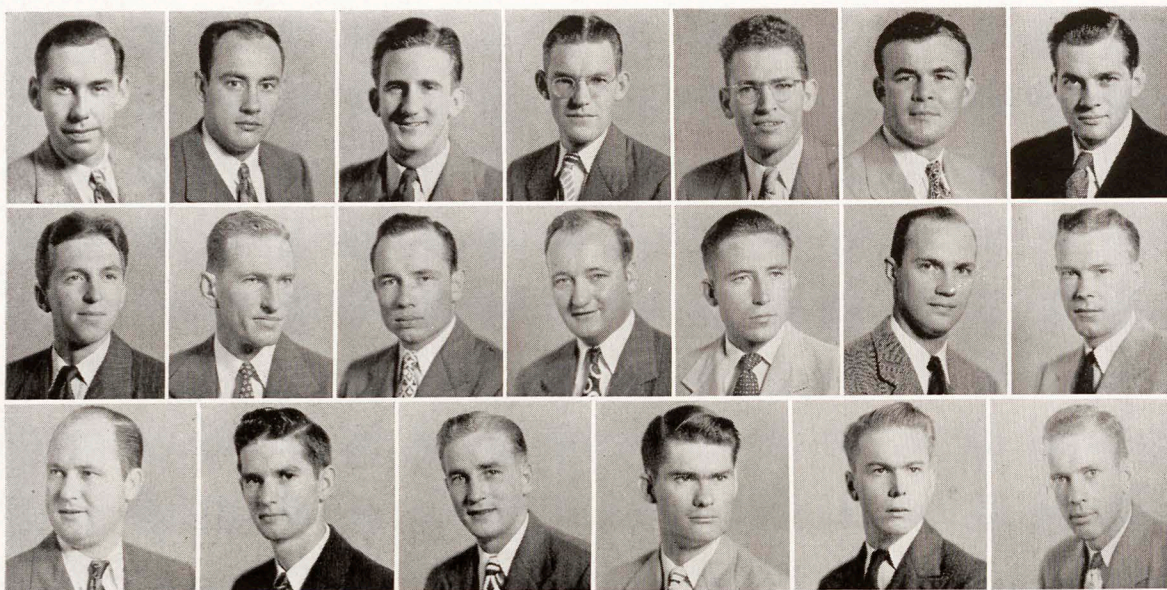

An item near all the girls' hearts was the sign in Alicia Chumpley's and Ginny Martin's room bearing the very candid epitaph, "Men Stink!", particularly because the photographs of no less than fifty men decorated their walls.

The girls in the third floor dorm enjoyed hearing all the movies, although some of them complained about mixing dialogue with economics when test time rolled around.

The U-Ark girls have worked out a fine college schedule. They say that weekdays are time for study and weekends for play.

U-ARK BOYS

The U-Ark Annex is one of those four imposing buildings that make up Sonnetown, that part of Fayetteville with which every student is so familiar. Twenty boys and Mom Peterson make up the official house roster, but in reality it is much larger, for there are always a few of the alumni around, those boys who lived in the Annex pre-matrimony.

The U-Ark Annex is indeed proud of its distinctive membership. In fact, when election time came around there were so many outstanding candidates who were so ably qualified for office that we acted accordingly; instead of following the archaic and antiquated system of selecting a few men as officers we selected an office for each man. This system has proved very effective; everyone has served admirably except the director of the date bureau, who has failed miserably.

Everyone at the Annex is outstanding scholastically. Don't be led astray by its grade point at mid-semester, however, for there are extenuating circumstances, mainly the bowling alley next door. Of course, it is sound-proofed but that means nothing; every time someone steps next door for a cup of java he wanders by the lanes, becomes engrossed in watching the style of the female bowlers, and seldom gets home in time to finish those assignments for the next day.

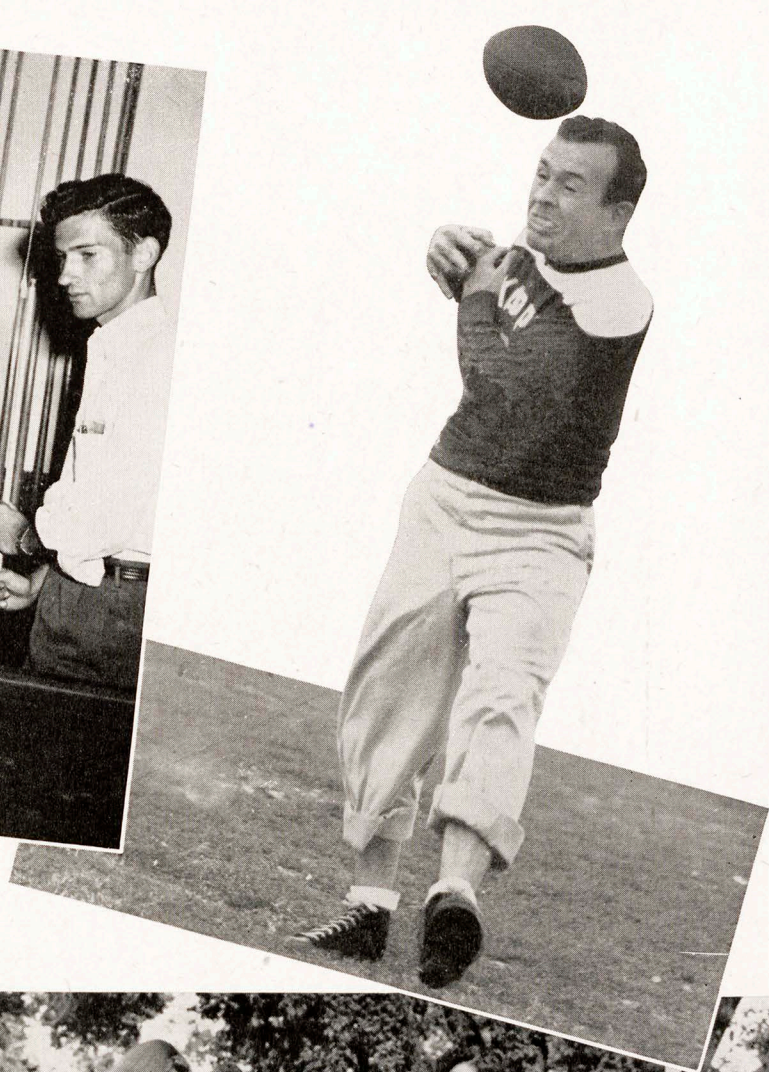

BOOK THREE

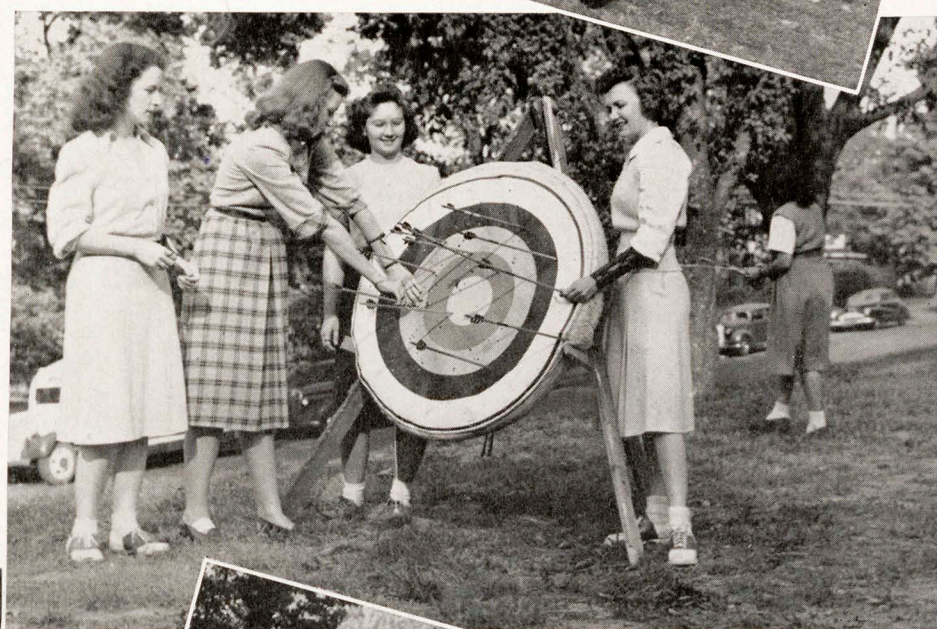

THE COMMUNITY AT PLAY

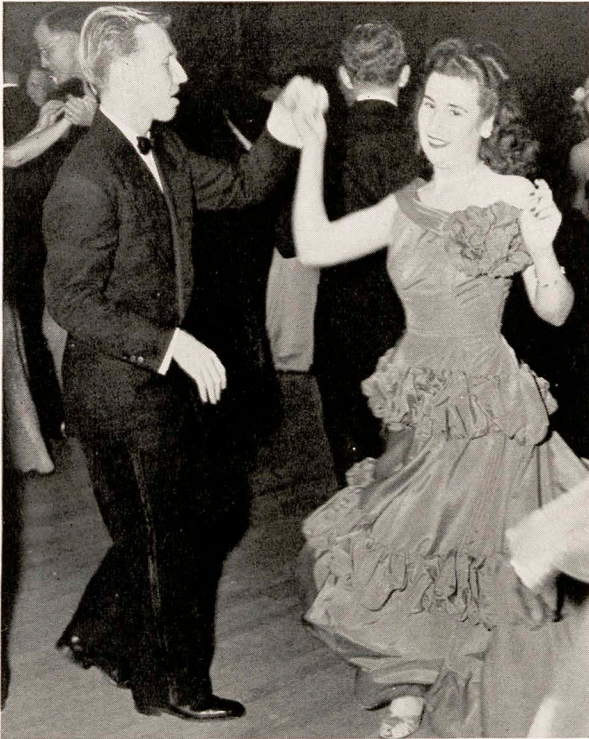

OUR community donned their red caps, their tuxes, their bobby socks, hired their baby sitters and flocked to the many and varied entertainments offered on the campus during the past year. The Auditorium and the Ball Room furnished the scene of operations for many top band and concert presentations as well as for student theatrical productions.

THE Razorback athletic teams displayed their wares at home and throughout the Southwest accompanied by a loyal group of supporters. Whether it was a junket to Weddington, a snooker and bridge session, or a stop at George's, we banded together in a solid exhibition of community interests. Intramural interest hit a new high. Dances were well attended as Joe and Jill College joined forces with Mommy and Daddy students at the various showings of the home-based and touring bands.

ATHLETICS

John Barnhill has completed his second season as head football coach and director of athletics at the University of Arkansas and like the first it has been a highly successful one. Barnhill, a graduate of the University of Tennessee, and a former All-Southern gridiron star for the Vols, is married and has a nine-year-old daughter. He was head coach at Tennessee from 1942 until moving to the University of Arkansas. Before his coaching stint at Tennessee, Barnhill coached three years in Bristol, Virginia, High School.

The COACHING STAFF

One of the three or four best football teams in University of Arkansas history could do no better than a tie for fifth in the toughest Southwest Conference field of all time. Such, in unhappy summary, was the story of the '47 Razorbacks.

The quality of '47 football was unusually high everywhere, but it was highest in the Southwest, where member teams won 22 of 28 intersectional games. Arkansas, unbeaten outside the loop, won over three conference champions in regular season play: Ole Miss (Southeastern), Tulsa (Missouri Valley) and North Texas State (Lone Star).

Herbert "Deke" Brackett, who is also an ex-Volunteer star, came with Barnhill from Tennessee. Born in Knoxville, Tennessee, he is married and has one child. He coached at Hampden Sydney and the Citadel before going to the University of Tennessee.

Hobart Hooser also came from Tennessee where he played guard in his student days. He is line coach under Barnhill and is head track coach. After graduation he coached at Lake City High School in Florida before going back to Tennessee. Hooser is married.

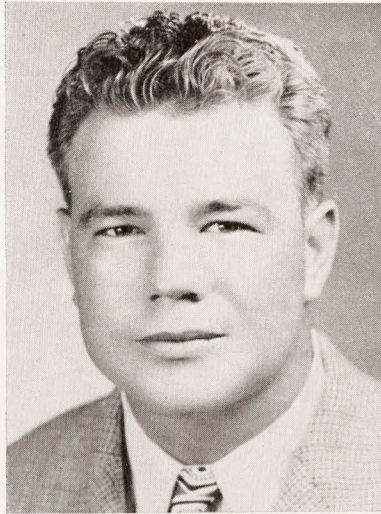

A 21-19 win over William and Mary in Birmingham's Dixie Bowl Game added the scalp of the Southern Conference titlists. Inside the conference the Porkers turned up with an unimpressive record of 1 win and 1 tie in 6 starts—a far cry from the championship record of 1946. This time the Southwest Conference forced John Barnhill to meet it on its own high-scoring terms and the Hogs just could not meet them. Their defense was still good, excepting the Rice game, but the Razorbacks were facing improved ball clubs which had been able to thoroughly analyze their style of play from the '46 season.

Baylor started the Razorbacks on their downfall when they gave the Red and White line a merciless pounding while beating them 17-9. The Baptists wrecked Arkansas' backfield, too, and the injuries came at a crucial stage of the conference campaign. This one game alone sent starters Aubrey Fowler and Leon George Cole, head scout, is one of the best in the business. A former Arkansas grid great, Cole is married and has one son and one daughter. He was head coach at Arkansas in 1942.

Bill Barnes, end coach, is also a Tennessee alumnus who came here with Barnhill. He spent 43 months overseas after graduating in 1941. He was married to an Arkansas girl last year.

Sam R. Lankford, trainer, also came with Barnhill. Sammy, who is a former pro boxer, is married and has two children. Sammy turned down a job with a professional team to stay with Barnhill.

Campbell to the hospital with injuries that lingered till late in the season.

Besides the loss of these two key men, Alvin Duke, Jim Minor, Billy Ray Thomas, Charles Lively, Leon Whittaker, Stacy Looney and Floyd Thomas all suffered hampering injuries. This long list of injuries to first string men was in vast contrast to last season's record of a superbly conditioned squad which suffered no severe injuries.

The Razorback offense picked up greatly during the '47 season. Arkansas' 64-0 mud-bath win over Northwest Louisiana State was the biggest score run up by a Porker eleven in many years. The accelerated offense stemmed from the transfer of Clyde Scott, all-conference back for the second consecutive year, from wingback to tailback. Scott was second in the conference in ground gaining, close behind SMU's All-American Doak Walker. He was third in the conference in total yards gained, with only Walker and Bobby Layne of Texas amassing more yardage.

Aubrey Fowler's punt returns, good enough to rank him among the top ten of the nation, also improved the Hog offense, and Kenny Holland's improved passing led to a half dozen touchdowns during the season.

Scott was the only Razorback named to the all-conference first team but other Porkers gained berths on conference honor elevens. Theron Roberts, guard, was named to the second team and Eugene (Bud) Canada, end, was listed on the third team. Aubrey Fowler, triple-threat back, was also a third team choice. Jim Minor, Billy Ray Thomas, Charles Lively, Ken Holland and Steed White all made honorable mention on various all-star teams.

Scott was named to Pepsi-Cola's '47 All-American first team and was awarded a trip to New York. He was also listed on the AP's All-American third team and was named the most valuable player in the Southwest Conference in the annual Chicago Tribune player poll. Aubrey Fowler received a bid to play for the South in the North-South game and Mel McGaha was also set for play in the Blue-Gray game until the Dixie Bowl bid. Floyd Thomas, a senior, was drafted by the professional Green Bay Packers.

Arkansas opened at Fayetteville, pounding Northwestern Louisiana State 64-0 in a heavy rain. Campbell and Holland led the impressive scoring parade with three touchdowns each. Clyde Scott scored twice, brother Tracy Scott added another tally, and Pritchard took a touchdown pass from Holland.

It was a different story at Little Rock the next Saturday, when the Razorbacks were hard pressed to down North Texas State, 12-0. Two goal-line stands finally ungeared the Eagles' free-wheeling "T" attack. Scott punched 11 yards into the coffin corner in the first period to open the scoring; Fowler later clinched it with a 75-yard scoring punt return.

The new conference season opened at Fayetteville with the Razorbacks shading TCU 6-0. Four pass interceptions and stubborn line resistance inside the 20 saved the day after a Scott to McGaha aerial clicked for 41 yards and a first-period score. The Horned Frogs bobbled their big chance in the fourth quarter when End Tom Bishop dropped a dead-pigeon pass in the end zone.

At Waco a week later, the roof fell in with a vengeance. Arkansas blew a 9-0 lead in the first period, losing by 17-9 to Baylor after having shut out four straight loop opponents over two seasons. Lyle Blackwood, Bruin sophomore, scampered 19 yards to register the first t.d. made through Arkansas' line since mid-season of 1946. Baylor went ahead 10-9 on a field goal, and rubbed it in by running back a Holland pass for another touchdown. Arkansas' points came in the second quarter when Guard Steed White's block of a Baylor punt was good for a safety, and a Holland to Pritchard pass added a touchdown.

On a muddy field at Memphis, Texas' Longhorns flattened the Razorbacks 21-6. Weather curtailed the passing antics of Bobby Layne, but a galaxy of hard-running Steer backs took over after Scott's 47-yard scoring jaunt gave Arkansas a short-lived lead. The Razorbacks, who always seemed to be facing something new, ran into Texas at a time when the Longhorn ground gainers—Ray Jones, Tom Landy, Jim Canady, et al—were at their best.

At Memphis again on the following Saturday, Arkansas reached its regular-season peak with a 19-14 win over Ole Miss, the nation's top offensive combination. Scott carried for the first touchdown, then returned a punt 61 yards to the Ole Miss 23, from where Holland tossed to Canada for the second score. When Mississippi went ahead 14-12, Scott passed to Canada for 40 yards and ran for 23 more, setting up Fullback Stacy Looney's game-winning plunge from the Rebel 2. Charles Conerly's great passing almost salvaged the game for the Southeastern Conference champions.

At Fayetteville for Homecoming, Arkansas had to come from behind to tie Texas A. and M. 21-21, after holding a 14-0 lead in the first five minutes. Scott's scoring pass to Pritchard, with Tackle Duval Thornton's conversion, gained the tie. Arkansas' early lead was fashioned on McGaha's 45-yard runback of a pass interception, and Scott's 53-yard scoring sprint from a pass formation.

Rice's slow-starting Owls were primed for the Razorbacks, coming up with a crushing 26-0 win in their own Homecoming at Houston. A first-period Owl fumble gave the Hogs a scoring chance that failed, but Rice cashed in on a similar break moments later. From the first score, it was all Rice, with Arkansas' deepest penetration reaching the Owl 3.

Action and Arkansas tempers ran high at Dallas as the Porkers threw a big scare into undefeated Southern Methodist before losing 14-6. With Scott spearheading the drive, Arkansas scored first—Campbell bulling over from the 17. Fullback Dick McKissack put SMU back in the ball game just before halftime, and Walker's fourth period tally iced the game for the Ponies, who went on to become Southwest champions. For the third time during the season, Referee Jack Sisco was the target of the coke bottles and oaths of irritated fans.

The RAZORBACK SEASON

Mangled by the Mustangs

Arkansas closed its regular season with a satisfying 27-13 triumph over Tulsa University in a Thanksgiving Day grudge battle at Tulsa. Fowler turned in scoring dashes of 43 and 19 yards, and Holland flipped touchdown passes to Canada and Jim Cox. Tailback J. R. Boone scored twice for the Golden Hurricane, piloting a "T" machine that looked particularly threatening in the early stages. Clyde Scott lost his chance for the Southwest's yards-from-scrimmage title when he suffered a painful face injury on his initial ball-carrying effort.

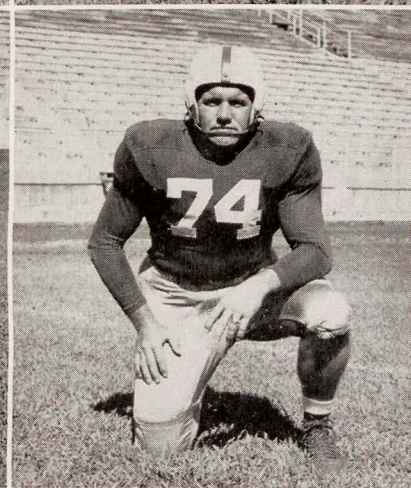

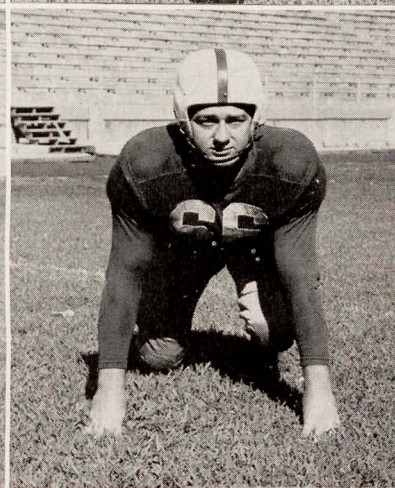

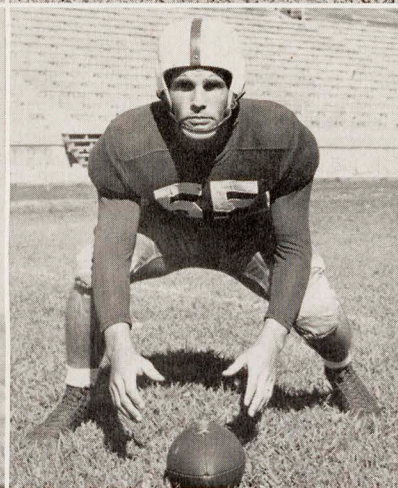

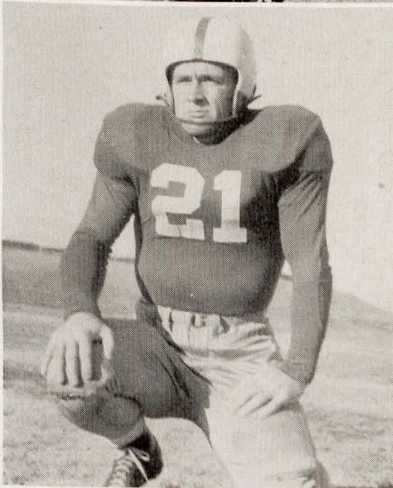

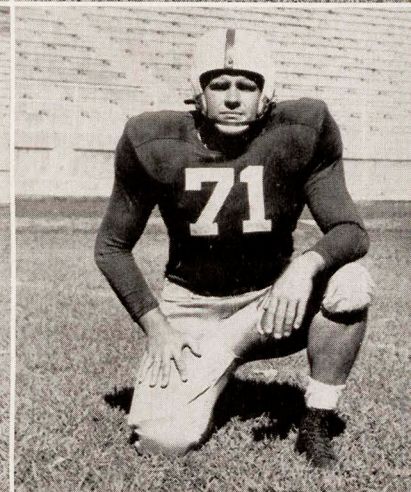

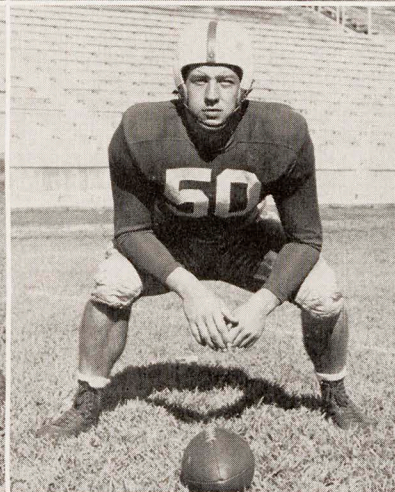

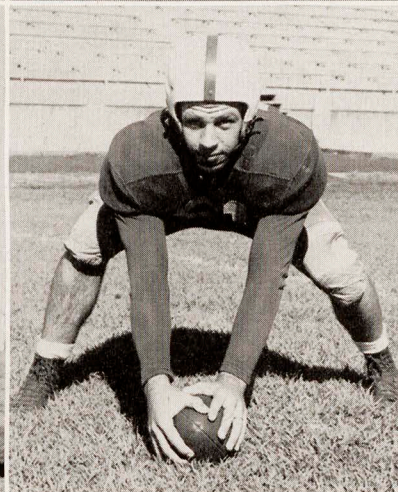

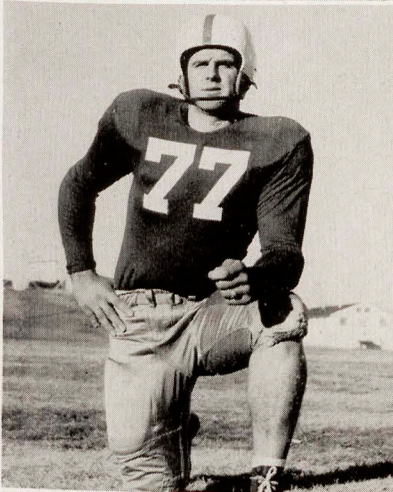

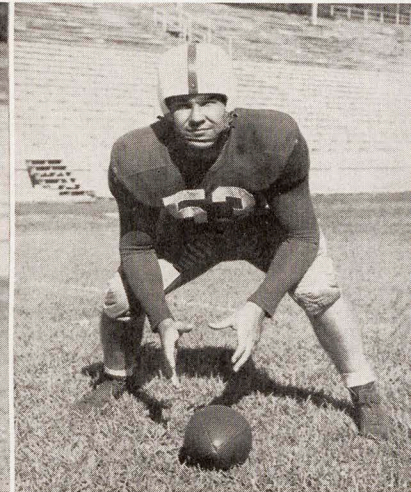

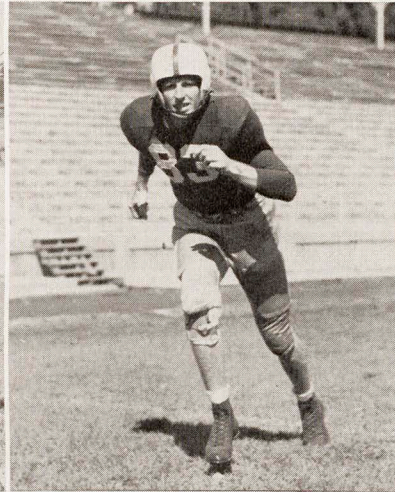

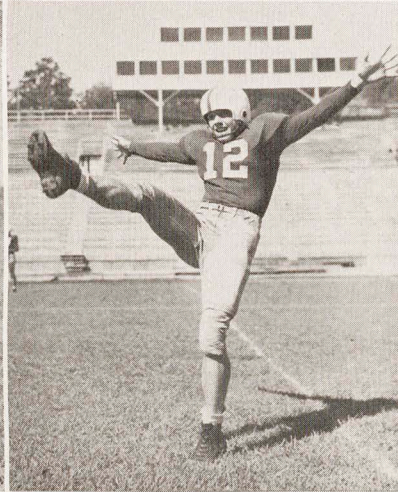

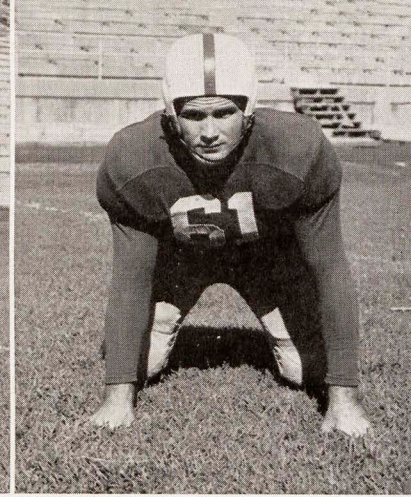

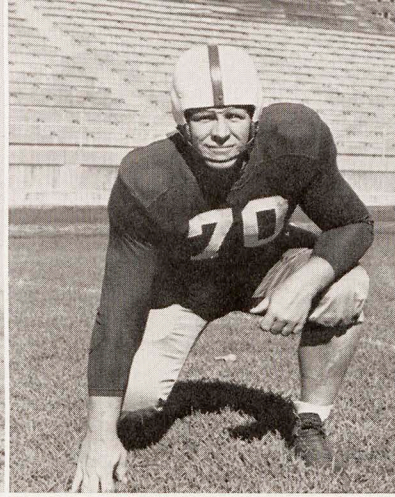

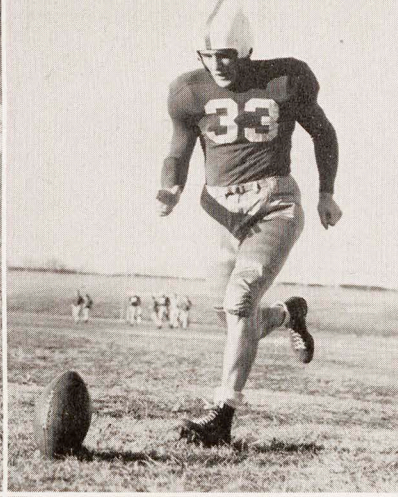

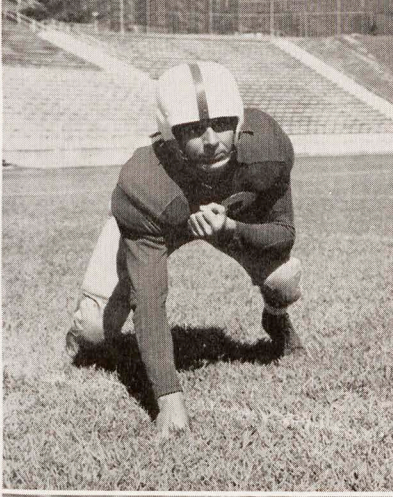

Eleven Arkansas seniors—Fowler, Holland, Minor, Lively, McGaha, White, Floyd Thomas, DeSalvo, Hughes, Richards and Pipkin—ended their regular-season college careers in the Skelly Stadium spectacle.

Arkansas' invitation to the post-season Dixie Bowl inaugural in Birmingham came as a surprise to most Razorback fans. Their opponents were the strong William and Mary Indians.

Reversing the scoring pattern of the Texas A. and M. game, W&M scored twice early in the game and held a commanding 13-0 lead with five minutes left in the half. Then Pritchard snagged a Holland aerial for one score and McGaha added another minutes later on a pass interception. Campbell piled over for a last period score to end Arkansas' scoring and cinch the game. Final score: Arkansas 21, William and Mary 19.

Thirty-three men were awarded 1947 varsity letters: Billy Bass, Leon Campbell, Dale Counce, Jim Cox, Jim Crafton, Alvin Duke, Ray Daugherty, Aubrey Fowler, Bill Franklin, Harold Henson, Frank Lambright, Charles Lively, Gordon Long and Henry DeSalvo.

Stacy Looney, Melvin McGaha, Jim Minor, Ray Peters, Joyce Pipkin, Ross Pritchard, Don Richards, Theron Roberts, Clyde Scott, Billy Ray Thomas, Floyd Thomas, Steed White, Duval Thornton, Leon Whittaker, Eugene Canada, Jim Reichert, Elmer Jackson, Ken Holland and John Lunney.

B TEAM

Great prospects for future Arkansas Razorback football teams were evidenced during the 1947 football campaign of the Arkansas "B" team, which is composed mainly of freshmen and regular "B" team members. The Shoats, coached by veteran Clyde Van Sickle, rolled to an unbeaten season, and in their six winning efforts compiled a total of 173 points as compared to 57 for their opposition. A fast backfield and a big, alert forward wall were the team's chief assets. The Bees' victims included Northeast State Teachers College of Tahlequah, Oklahoma; the University of Missouri Bees; Little Rock Junior College; the Oklahoma A. and M. Bees; and the Tulsa Bees.

Coach Van Sickle's crew opened their season with a hard-earned 20-19 victory over Northeast Oklahoma in Tahlequah. Ray Parks and Jack Shawgo sparked a fourth-quarter Arkansas drive that netted their three touchdowns after Oklahoma had held a one touchdown margin at the half.

In their second game, the Shoats ran into a powerhouse in Missouri, but again a late stage rally pulled them by. Parks and Tracy Scott did the damage for the Porkers, scoring all three touchdowns to overcome a 19-point deficit.

The Trojans of Little Rock Junior College proved easy sledding for the Baby Porkers as they started rolling after a first quarter lapse and piled up a 52 to 7 victory. Lindell Pearson, Jack Rushing and Louis Schaufele were the big guns in the winners' attack. The Jaycees were simply outclassed and outmanned by the bigger Shoats.

The following week, the Bees traveled to Fort Smith for a game with the Oklahoma Aggies' "B" squad, and had little trouble in disposing the big A. and M. eleven by a 28-6 count. The Porkers completely outplayed the Cowboys and never were in serious trouble. Nearly everyone got into the act as Buddy Rogers, Parks, Schaufele, Marvin Stendel and J. D. Smith broke into the scoring column. Brilliant blocking by the Arkansas forwards was a deciding factor in the game.

One point was again the story as the Porkers gained their second decision over the Missouri Tiger Bees, 7 to 6. The two teams battled in a see-saw fashion for the first three quarters before they could break into the scoring column, with Ray Parks finally breaking the ice with a t.d. from the one-yard line. Jake Baldwin booted the vital extra point, giving the Shoats a 7-0 lead. The Missourians fought back, however, and rolled over for a tally shortly before the final gun. Their try for the extra point was wide. Again Arkansas' line was outstanding, with J. D. Smith, Billy Hix and Mike Shumchyk starring.

The Bees played their final game of the season before a good crowd at Razorback stadium, and impressively mowed down a strong Tulsa "B" eleven, 47-12. Coach Van Sickle's crew turned on the power early in the contest and were never headed. The fact that the Tulsa gridders finished with a minus 34 yards rushing was proof of the brilliant game played by the Hog line. Arkansas showed who was boss in the first period when they marched 75 yards on a sustained drive to score. After that initial thrust, the Hogs settled down to administer the slashing defeat. Jack Rushing and Marvin Stendel were the top linemen for the day, while Parks, Schaufele, and Rogers were outstanding in the backfield.

The University of Arkansas' 1947-48 basketball team failed to live up to the high standards set by Porker fives of the past but were good enough to mark up a season record of 16 victories against 8 defeats.

Head Coach Gene Lambert sent the Razorbacks against Kansas State Teachers in the season's opener and Arkansas breezed in 75-42. Culver-Stockton furnished another breather a week later. The Razorbacks won 68-36.

EUGENE LAMBERT

Arkansas flew East for a pair of games and tasted defeat twice. Strong NYU smothered the Hogs 85-62 in Madison Square Garden and LaSalle College nipped them 69-58 at the Philadelphia Coliseum.

Back in Arkansas the Razorbacks traveled to Little Rock to meet North Texas State at Robinson Auditorium. Paced by Al Williams, the Hogs dumped the Eagles 62-49 in a game marked by roughness and high tempers.

During the Christmas holidays the traveling Porkers went West to play in a couple of California tournaments. Los Angeles and the National Collegiate Championships came first. Arkansas dropped a first-round 68-58 decision to Brigham Young but rallied to win consolation honors with victories over Loyola of Los Angeles 60-47 and George Pepperdine 70-44.

The Razorbacks, boasting a none too impressive 6-4 record, started their bid for the SW championship with a pair of games at College Station. The Aggies, always tough at home, fought hard before surrendering to the Hogs, 58-51 and 57-46.

Southern Methodist, twice victorious over the Hogs last season, fell despite the uncanny shooting of Guard Burt Rollings. The Ponies lost by 47-40 and 58-57.

Alabama at Memphis furnished the Hogs some inter-sectional competition. The slow moving Tide was troublesome but the Hogs scored a thorough 42-35 win. Arkansas State fell easy victim, 76-59.

Back in conference play, the Hogs traveled to Waco to take a couple of pastings from the to-be champs. The Bears won the first one 42-38, the second 55-47.

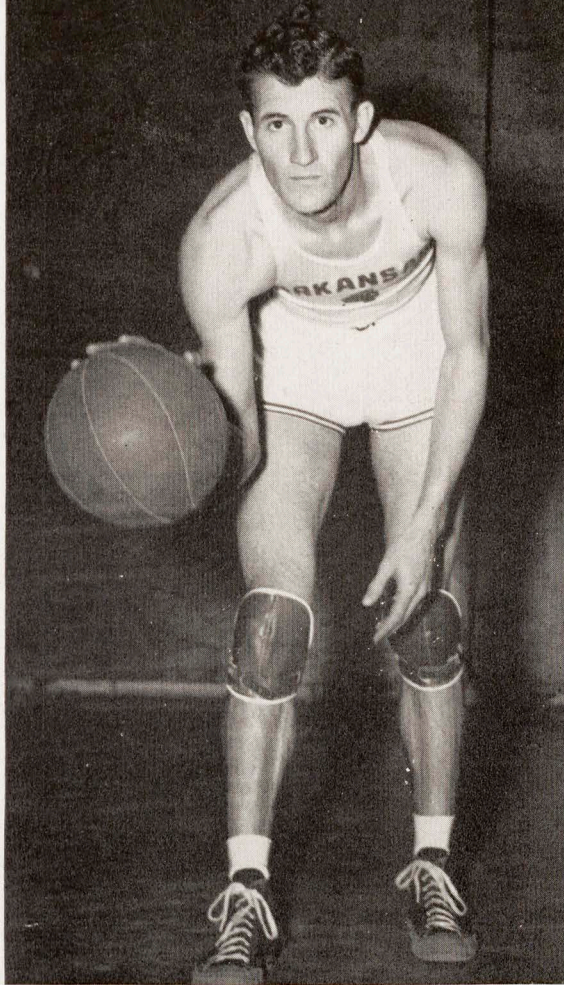

Oft-beaten but underrated Texas Christian came to Fayetteville and gave Arkansas fans tense moments while Kok and company were winning 37-30 and 47-38 victories.

The Texas U. series, bitterest in the SW, came next. In the opener the Porkers were right and pounded the Steers into pitiful defeat 54-40, their worst beating of the season. With Kok bottled, the Steers went to town and tripped Arkansas 54-43.

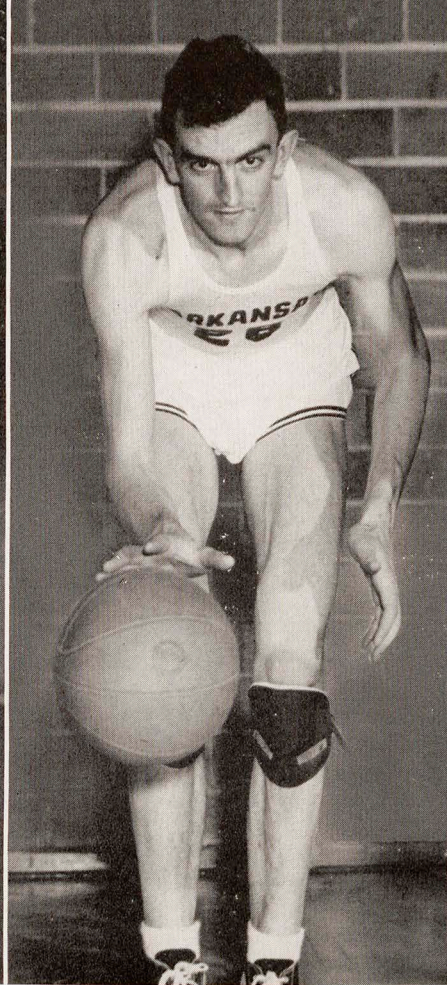

Still much in the running for second place, the Hogs went to Houston to meet Rice. The Owls surprised everyone in the opener by winning 61-49. The Porkers took the last game in a thriller, 66-63, with Kok scoring 33 points.

George Kok, six-foot ten-inch Porker center, brought further glory to himself and the University of Arkansas when he was chosen on the All-Southwest Conference team for the third time as he wound up his college career. Kok once again ran away with the conference scoring crown and tied for sixth place in the national individual scoring race. In addition to the conference honor, Kok was chosen on the district team in True magazine, and elected to the fourteen man All-American squad picked by Mutual Broadcasting System's nation-wide "Inside of Sports" program.

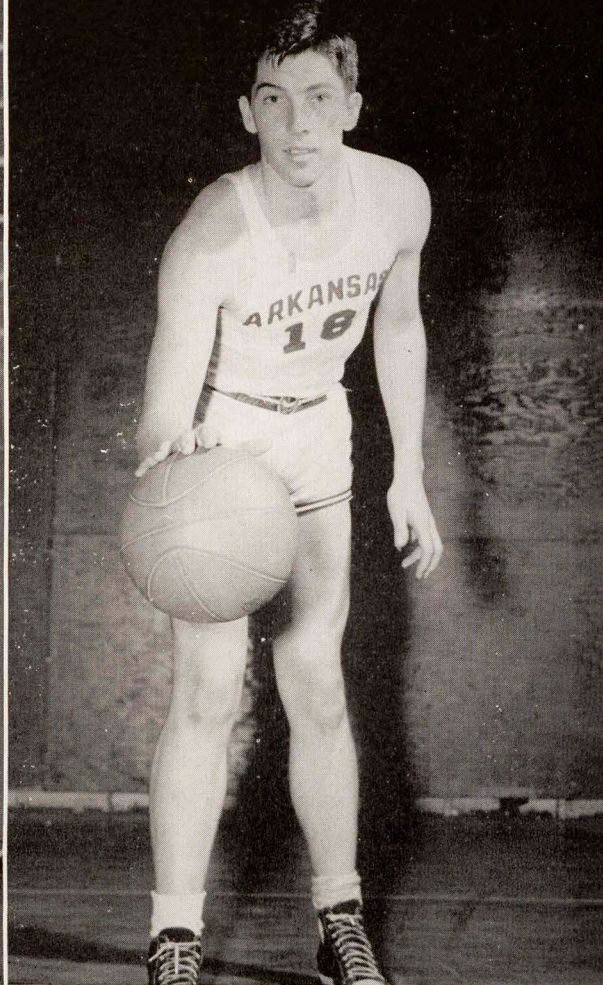

After the basketball season ended, George was invited to participate in the National AAU Basketball Tournament in Denver as a member of a Kokomo, Indiana, team.

TRACK TEAM

"A powerful aggregation of thinclads that set more all-time University of Arkansas track records than any other team in the history of the school" were the words with which last year's Arkansas Traveler summed up the activities of the 1947 Razorback track squad.

This was no overstatement. Coach "Hobe" Hooser's team romped to easy victories in dual meets with Tulsa, Southwest Missouri, and Arkansas State; set five records in placing second to an extraordinary Oklahoma Aggie team in a three-way meet that included Tulsa; gained places in four out of ten events in its initial appearance at the nation-wide Drake Relays; and fielded the best balanced squad in the conference in the Southwest meet which had Texas A&M, Texas, and Arkansas as its top three teams.

During the 1947 season, the Hogs—paced by Guy Baker, Clyde Scott, and Aubrey Fowler—set eight new school records. Scott broke marks in the 120 and 220-yard hurdles with 14.2 and 23.1 times in the Southwest Conference meet. Fowler clipped two records, also, by running the 100 in 9.5 seconds against Southwest Missouri and by beating Oklahoma Aggie sprinters with a 20.9 time in the 220. Baker threw the discus over 147 feet against the Cowboys, and along with Elmo Adams, high-jumped six feet four inches to chalk up another brace of records.

Ross Pritchard's 49.6 time for the 440 against Arkansas State broke a seventh mark, and a final record was set at the Drake Relays when Scott, Fowler, Pritchard, and Bud Canada ran the 440 relay in 41.8 seconds.

As the RAZORBACK went to press this spring, the 1948 squad, virtually the same as that of 1947, had already gotten off to a good start when early in the season, Guy Baker represented Arkansas in the Southwest Recreation Meet and netted 10½ points by placing high in four events.

BASEBALL TEAM

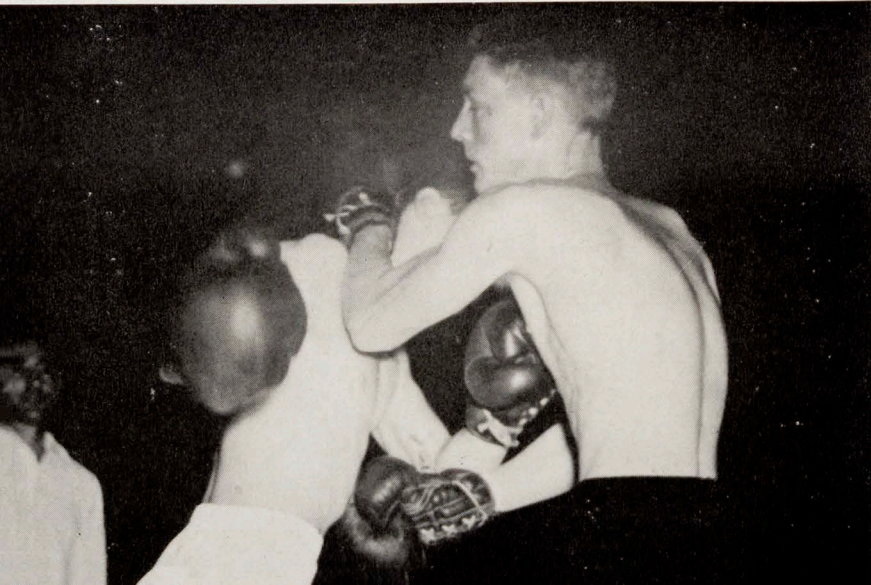

The 1948 edition of the Razorback baseball team began practice late in March determined to improve the 4-8 won-lost record of the 1947 nine, which was the first Porker baseball effort in 17 years. The '47 baseballers were plagued all season by bad weather and a bad local diamond, but from the start they displayed the hustle and spirit, which with more experience, was expected to bring about a better record this season.

About 75 candidates greeted Coach Deke Brackett's initial call in March, 1947. The weakest spot on the team which developed during those practice sessions was the infield. The pitching was good from the start.

The Porkers opened last season on April 12 in Fayetteville, splitting a double-header with Washington University of St. Louis, the Hogs taking the opener, 6-2, but losing the nightcap on bad fielding, 4-2. They next played Fort Smith of the Class C Western Association and were beaten, 10-2. Back in Fayetteville, the infield blew up in the ninth inning of an April 22nd game with the College of the Ozarks, allowing the Clarksville boys to score seven times and win, 10-7. After that, the Razorbacks beat Arkansas State, 7-5; walloped the College of the Ozarks, 11-5; lost three straight to Arkansas State Teachers, 5-4, 10-9, and 9-5; split another double-header with Washington University, winning the first, 6-3, and dropping the second, 4-3; and lost the final game of the season to Oklahoma A&M, 3-0.

This season the Porkers stepped out into stronger competition, playing such teams as Missouri, Kansas, Washington University at St. Louis, Oklahoma A&M, and one Southwest Conference team, Southern Methodist at Dallas, April 17.

INTRAMURALS

The intramural program was one of the most successful in the history of the University. More students either participated or "spectatored" than ever before.

The intramural managerial posts were handled by Dan Woods, Leon Werntz, and Wendell McKinney, while Mr. Troy Hendricks served as faculty advisor. This group was instrumental in the forming of three leagues to accommodate the many students who wished to form teams and get in the competition for the intramural crown. Twenty-four teams competed for the intramural championship.

With softball, golf, and tennis remaining to be played at press time, there are four teams leading the field for the intramural championship. Sigma Chi has a good lead with 540 points by virtue of their first place basketball and football teams, and second place volleyball, boxing and wrestling teams.

In second place with 463 points is Kappa Sigma. Though winning first place in only boxing and wrestling, the Kappa Sigs were second in track and third in volleyball and basketball.

In third place, 422 points, is SAE, winner of the volleyball championship, third in touch football, third in track, and fourth in boxing and wrestling. Close behind is Razorback Hall with 414 points. The Razorback Hall boys won the track meet, were third in boxing and wrestling, and came in fourth in intramural football. Rounding out the top six, there is Pi Kappa Alpha with 255 points, runner-up in basketball and fourth place in track; and Lloyd Halls with 221 points, runner-up in touch football.

This year for the first time bowling was added to the intramural program, although due to the cost of entering a team, bowling results do not count on the point system for the intramural trophy. At press time, Sigma Chi, strong in all sports, was leading the league with 23 wins and 7 losses.

Dear Mr. Linton:

It was indeed an honor and a pleasure to be selected as the judges of the Razorback beauties for 1948. It brought back memories to us of now beautiful the girls at Arkansas really are. It was difficult to choose only four because all of the girls were beautiful, but we finally settled on the four we have marked as first, second, third and fourth.

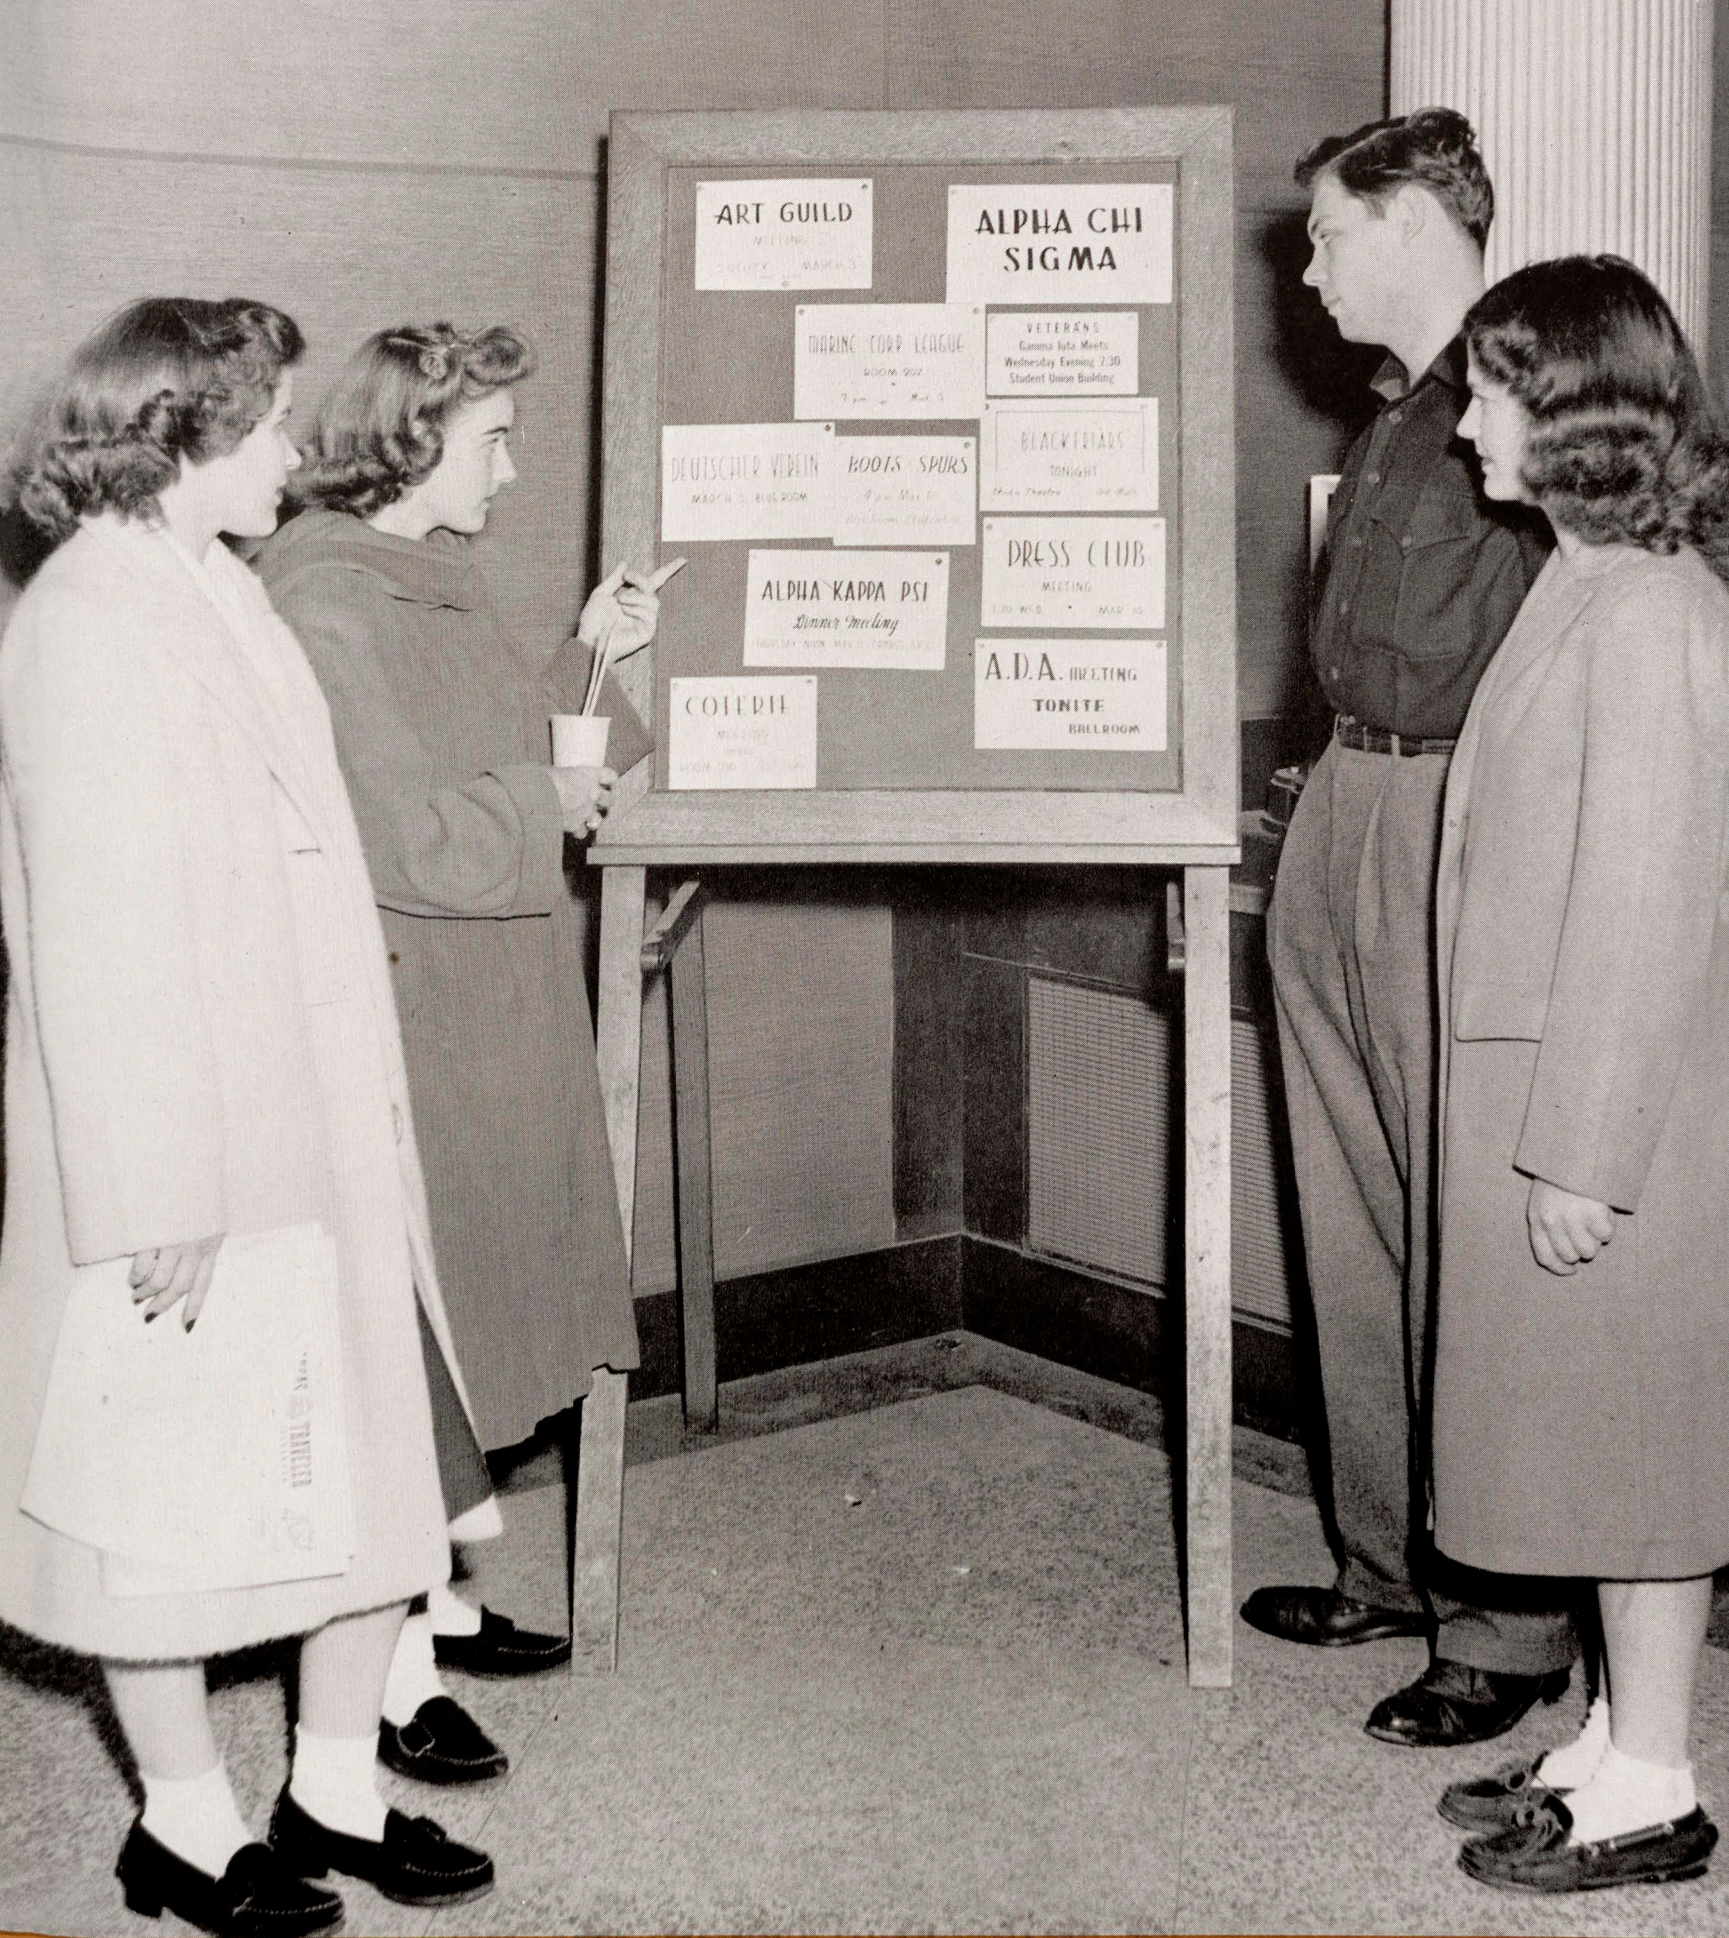

We sincerely hope that our selection meets with the approval of the entire student body.

Thank you again for this privilege.

The A Club is an organization whose membership is made up of the cream of the athletic crop at the University of Arkansas. To be a member of the A Club, an athlete must win a varsity letter in any major sport whether it is football, basketball, track, tennis, or baseball. The varsity "A" is the highest athletic award that can be given by the University.

The A Club was founded in 1922 by men who firmly believed that athletics are a necessary part of college life and that they help to weld the student body more firmly together.

The expressed aim of the A Club is to promote loyalty to the University and to encourage a spirit of good sportsmanship on the various teams and among the student body.

AGRI DAY ASSOCIATION

BEN ISGRIG

Well-known to every one enrolled in the College of Agriculture are the letters ADA which are used to refer to Agri Day Association, a cooperative organization in which all students and teachers of the College are members.

The ultimate aim of the Association is to publicize Agri College on the campus and throughout the state, and in so doing develop initiative, leadership, and a more friendly attitude among the students. The motto, "Let's make this a bigger and better Agri Day," has served to inspire many Agris during the life of the organization.

Agri Day, an annual spring activity sponsored by ADA, has been a prominent affair on the UA campus for thirty-three years. Back in the early days it was known as a "Harvest Festival" and later as the "Agri Homecoming". Traditional events were added to the celebration throughout the years. In 1930 there is the first record of the Queen and ADA Manager passing through an arch of four dozen pitchforks to lead the grand march at the Agri Day dance. Now all the campus knows when the farmers have their day by the white feet that line the sidewalks all over the campus. This custom is said to have started in 1926 when "The Big Agri" left his huge footprints leading from all the organized houses over to the Agri exhibits.

The convocation for Agri Day this year was held in the Student Union Ballroom at 9:30, April 23. Mr. Romeo Short, vice-president of the Farm Bureau, delivered the address. Dean Lippert S. Ellis crowned the queen and presented ADA keys to the following: Sue Hawley, Francis Hubbard, Smith Greig, Denver Hutson, and Ben Isgrig. Following the convocation the students and visitors viewed the departmental exhibits on the campus. Each department portrayed its field of work in interesting exhibits. "Sureburger," a meat substitute invented by Dr. Barnett Sure, proved to be a very interesting attraction to students and visitors alike.

The next big event of the day was the picnic dinner held at the University Farm. The menu featured barbecued pig and, fortunately for those who ate too much of that delicacy, it was only a short distance from the picnic grounds to the main arena where the livestock show was held. Otherwise many would have missed one of the feature attractions. At the show groups of students showed dairy and beef cattle, hogs, and sheep. Breeding stock used in the artificial insemination program were also on exhibit. The winners of the livestock contests were awarded prizes.

High-lighting the events of the day was the rodeo in which both riders and animals were indoctrinated into the vigors of that western sport. The festivities of the day were brought to a close with the annual "gingham and overalls" dance held in the ballroom of the Student Union.

Queen of Agri Day this year was Sue Hawley, a senior from McGehee and a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. Sue was

The Arkansas Agriculturist is the monthly publication of ADA and its editor, associate editor, and business manager are chosen during the Spring elections. This year's staff was headed by Denver Hutson, who served as editor-in-chief, Troy Cox was associate editor, and Smith Grieg was business manager. The magazine publicizes activities of the Agri school, not only on the campus, but throughout the state as well. Agri Day edition in April is traditional with The Agriculturist.

ADA meets regularly throughout the year to take care of business affairs and social functions for its approximately 600 members. The year started with the annual "ADA Mixer" held on October 1 in the ballroom, giving all Agris a chance to meet the ADA officers and to have a gala good time taking part in group games and singing. In November, Agris sought out their dates for the fall dance held in the decorated ballroom with music by the A Club.

Aiding the ADA's program and work projects were Dean Lippert S. Ellis of the College of Agriculture and Assistant Dean Hudson, who is in charge of the resident teaching program. This was Dean Ellis's second year here while Dr. Hudson was new to the University of Arkansas campus this fall. Since one of Dr. Hudson's primary concerns is student activities, ADA found him a valuable advisor and assistant in the year's activities.

The affairs of ADA are directed by the ADA manager and other officers who are elected at the end of each spring term for the coming year. Ben Isgrig from Little Rock was ADA manager for the last half of the year, succeeding Lehman Fowler who was graduated in February. At the U of A Ben was active in Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Zeta, and Phi Sigma, honorary biology fraternity.

Lehman Fowler, who comes from Ash Flat, Arkansas, was manager during the first semester of this year. While in Agri school, he was a member of the Animal Industry Club, Sears Club, and Alpha Zeta. After graduation he went to Brinkley to take a job in agriculture.

A. I. E. E.

The unprecedented enrollment in Electrical Engineering this year has permitted a record year in both membership and activity. This growth is paralleled by that of the profession which has seen the opening of many new vistas by war research and developments. The University of Arkansas chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers performs a dual function in that it provides a link between the profession and also serves as a means of training students in the preparation and presentation of formal technical papers.

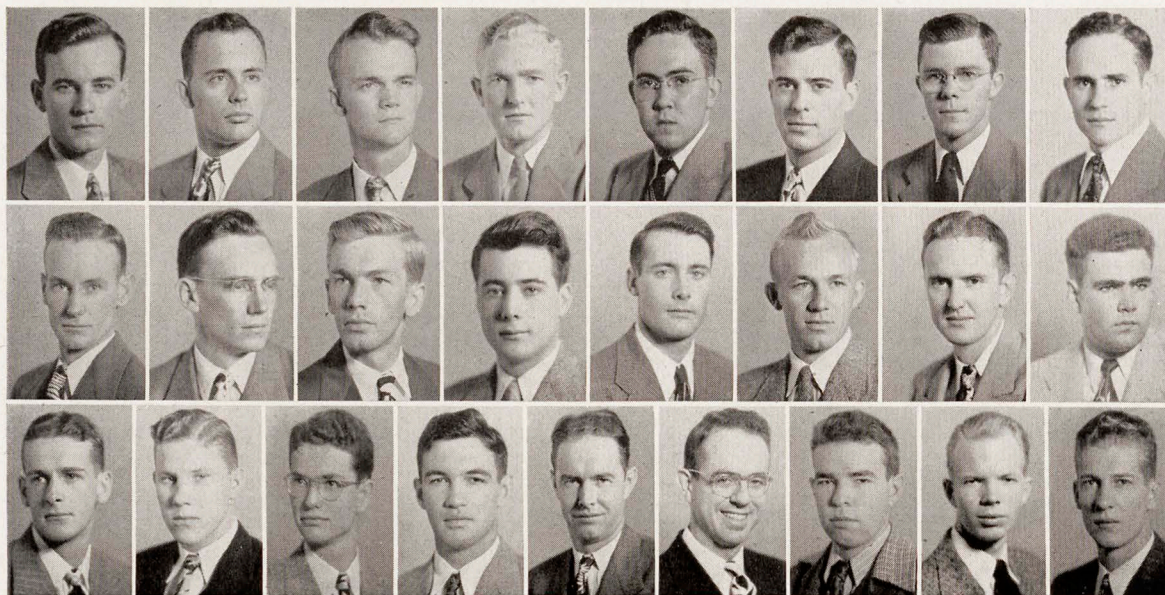

Membership in the student branch is open to any undergraduate electrical engineer after his freshman year but the seminar work is restricted to seniors. Each student member is given the opportunity of becoming a full member of the Institute upon graduation.

Meetings are held semi-monthly and an active committee has presented many interesting programs. Several technical movies were shown and were attended by a large number of students and faculty members. Guest speakers have provided a direct contact with practicing fields and presented lectures on a variety of subjects including "REA Policy and Equipment", "Law and the Engineer," and "British Radar Equipment". Student seminar papers have covered such ambitious subjects as "Cathode Ray Oscilloscopes," "Transmission Lines," "Lightning Arrestors," and "Magnetic Sound Tracks for Film".

Occasionally the electrical engineers have torn themselves from their slide rules and books to seek a little recreation in the form of banquets and smokers. Some of the boys even claim that this year's annual banquet and party was the best that any of the local engineering societies had ever given.

The proudest achievement of the year was getting the interest and support of the freshmen and sophomores.

Alpha Chi Sigma is a national professional chemistry fraternity founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1902. The fraternity is divided into two parts: the collegiate members, and the professional members.

Aims of Alpha Chi Sigma are to bind its members with a tie of true and lasting friendship; to strive for the advancement of chemistry both as a science and as a profession; and to aid its members in the attainment of their ambitions as chemists.

Among the high points in the year's activities are the annual lab banquet and annual Founders Day banquet. At the Founders Day banquet the local chapter presents a year's membership in the American Chemical Society to the outstanding senior in chemistry.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity. Its members are college and university men who are, or have been previously affiliated with the Boy Scouts. Alpha Phi Omega renders service to the student body and faculty; to youth and community; to members of the fraternity; and to the nation as participating citizens.

At the present time Alpha Phi Omega has 105 active chapters in 31 states. The Beta Rho chapter was organized at the University of Arkansas in 1938.

"Come on, fellas, open your eyes," pleaded President Warren Bass at 6 a. m. the cold, dreary morning of November 12. The occasion—Alpha Kappa Psi's industrial tour of Tulsa. This tour was one of the many activities of the Beta Zeta chapter this year. On the agenda was the inspection of industrial concerns, retail establishments, and accounting offices.

Other activities for this year included lectures by various faculty members of the University and guest speakers at smokers and luncheons. Banquets were given in honor of Dr. Bowen, speaker on Commerce Day, and in honor of Geoffrey Crowther, noted editor of the London Economist, who spoke before the group in January.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

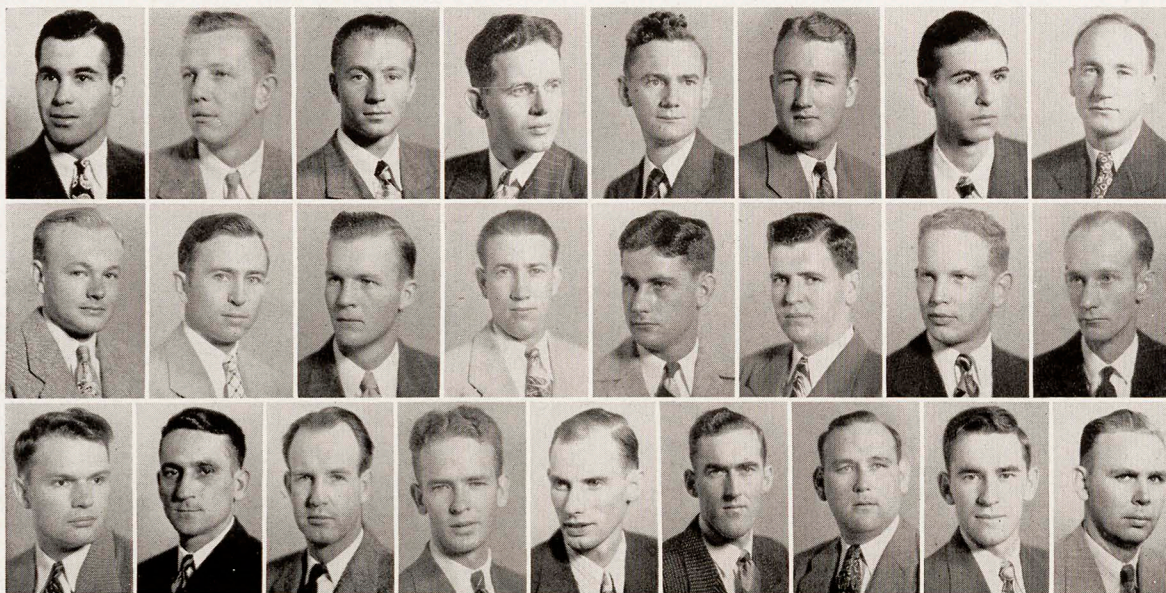

Programs of self-training and self-education, such as those listed above, were carried on by Alpha Kappa Psi to help its members in developing qualities of judgment and initiative necessary in the field of business.

Beta Zeta chapter is one of the forty-six Alpha Kappa Psi chapters spread across the United States. The Arkansas chapter was installed in 1928 by Dr. C. C. Fitchner. Although it is fundamentally a business and professional fraternity, it also places emphasis upon study and performing service to the College of Business Administration. It is the intention of the College of Business Administration to participate more fully in the industrial and business life of the state through increased cooperation with established public and private agencies not only in the training of university attendants, but also in expanding research and public relations activities in order that all interests concerned with the economic development of the state may be more adequately served. Alpha Kappa Psi aids in this program through scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounting, and finance which is used by many business concerns throughout the state and nation.

Beta Zeta chapter revived and surpassed its pre-war position under the leadership of its able president, Warren Bass, who with the aid of treasurer, Howard Hembree, spurred the chapter's interest to such an extent that this chapter rose in the national efficiency rating from thirtieth the previous year to among the top-ranking in the nation this year.

The fellowship and social functions for the fraternity were capably handled this year by Jesse Walt, Social Chairman for the group. After a very formal initiation of new members last November, a very informal beer bust was held in Sig. Alph valley. Another social activity was held in May at the U-Ark Bowl when the annual Kappa Psi Banquet was given.

Alpha Zeta was founded in 1897 at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, for the purpose of encouraging and developing leadership in the field of agriculture. It is an honorary professional fraternity whose members are chosen on the basis of high scholarship, fine fellowship, and sound character because these are considered to be the vital qualities of a real leader.

Alpha Zeta has over 16,000 alumni and a student membership of more than 1,200 in forty-five chapters in forty-three states.

The Arkansas chapter was organized in 1917 and has approximately three hundred alumni members.

The history of the founding of the American Society of Civil Engineers probably can't be found in many historical masterpieces, but it was toward the end of the year 1817, when the Civils gathered together to form themselves into a society. This information may be found in London filed under the title, "The Institution of Civil Engineers." It wasn't until 1920, however, that a chapter was founded at the University of Arkansas.

The purpose of student chapters of ASCE is to develop a feeling of professionalism as engineers, to provide a first step to the student in becoming a member of the national professional organization of ASCE, and to provide an opportunity for each student to give a technical paper on some civil engineering subject.

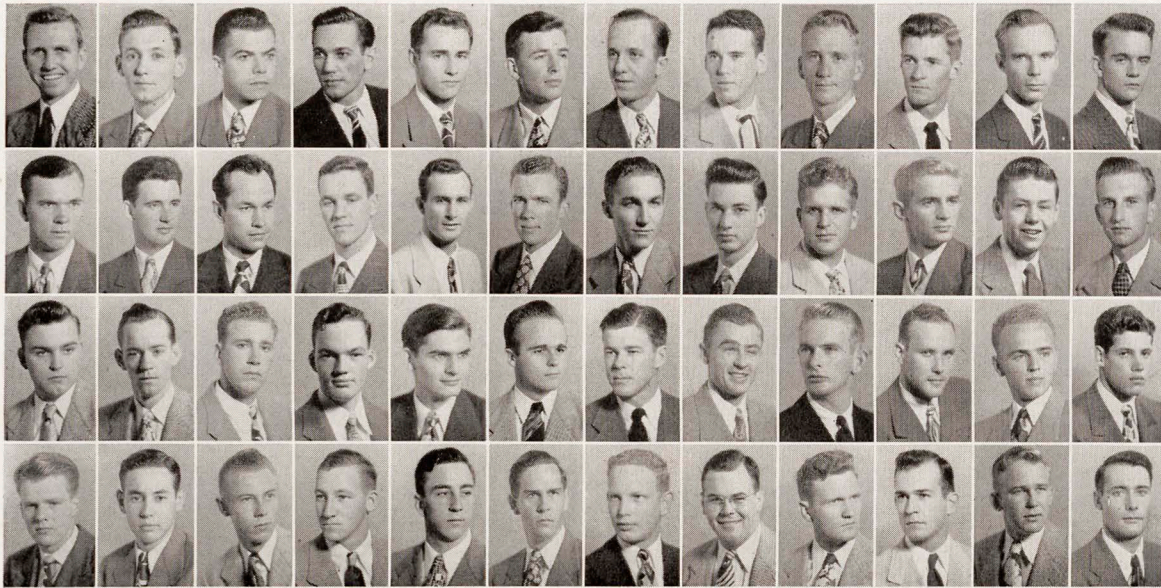

The local chapter of ASCE has been very active this past season, and as one of its first acts, the chapter elected Bill Deaver as junior representative from ASCE to the Engineering Council. The membership of the chapter has reached a new high of sixty members.

Members of the local chapter have been entertained by several guest speakers, who made the presentation of some very interesting papers. A. D. Allen, engineer for the Linebarger Construction company, made a speech on engineering in general, and he was followed by L. M. McGoodwin, a Fayetteville consulting engineer, who presented a survey of engineering employment possibilities, particularly in the field of civil engineering.

Later in the semester speeches were presented by R. A. Stranger, field engineer for the Portland Cement Association, who spoke on the work of the association and on the classification of cements, and by Mr. Mace H. Bell, representative of the American Institute of Steel Construction, who spoke on the application of welding in structural design.

The members of the local chapter of ASCE aren't lacking in speech finesse either, as may be seen from the fact that John Nelson Strange, a member of the local chapter, presented a paper before the mid-South Section of ASCE at Memphis in October, for which he received a letter of recommendation. Mr. R. C. Wray, faculty advisor for the local chapter, presented a paper before the mid-South meeting at Jackson, Mississippi, the following month.

"A Greater University and a Greater State." That's the motto and the aim of the Arkansas Boosters Club. ABC was organized in 1919 for the express purpose of promoting school spirit on the Arkansas campus. Through the years the club has done just that.

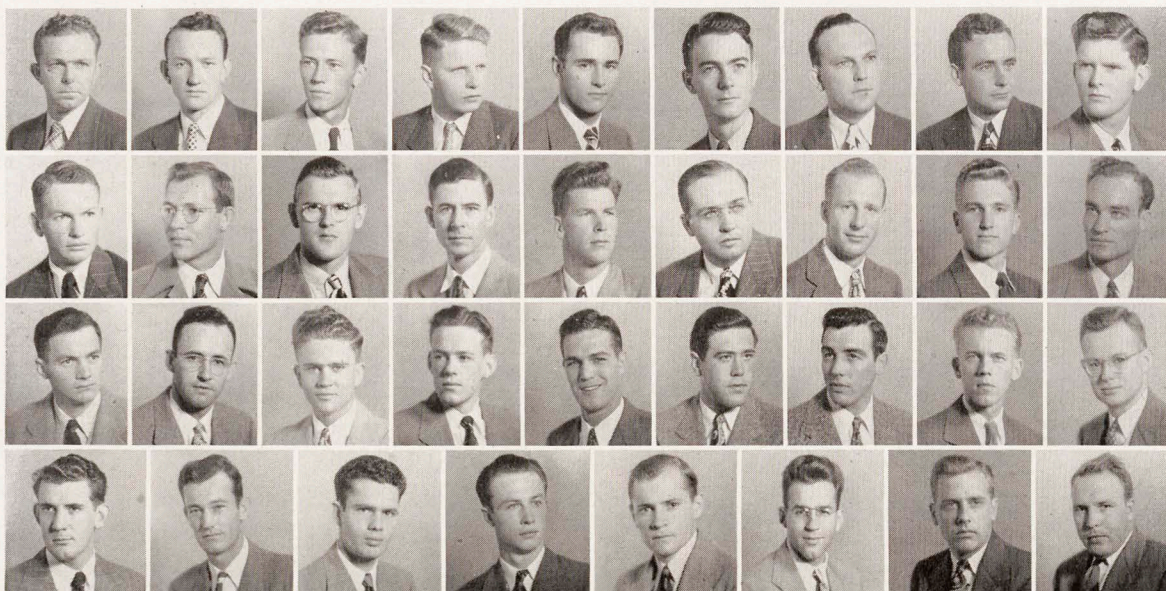

This past year Vim X. Rye served as president of the organization. He led ABC through one of its most successful years. Don Jones, who served as vice-president this year, will lead the club next year.

During the football season ABC sponsored dances, both here in Fayetteville and at the out-of-town games. The cheerleaders, sponsored by the Arkansas Boosters Club, were sent to all out-of-town games to see that the old Arkansas spirit never lagged.

Homecoming was, as traditional, under the direction of the Boosters. The big pep rally on the night before the game, float plans and prizes, the parade—all these details and many others were expertly handled by ABC. They continued to provide halftime entertainment for the fans.

ABC is composed of men from every organized house on the campus. It is not a fraternity but a group of men who are deeply interested in school spirit.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, founded in 1880, is a national organization of professional mechanical engineers. Like the parent organization, the goal of the student branch at the University of Arkansas is to foster the exchange of ideas and the maintenance of professional standards. Membership serves as an introduction to real life engineering, to engineering literature, and to professional engineers themselves. Here the student fits himself for membership in the national organization upon graduation.

The objectives of the organization are to broaden the students' acquaintance with the practical side of mechanical engineering, to give each student the journal of the society and thereby keep him informed about engineering progress and to make available the library depositories of the society, to develop the student's initiative and ability to speak in public and familiarize him with the parliamentary procedure and organization of learned societies, to enable the student to establish fraternal contact with his fellow students in engineering, both at his Alma Mater and at other colleges, and to meet graduate engineers engaged in the active practice of mechanical engineering.

Meetings, which are held twice each month, provide opportunity for the presentation of student technical papers, for talks by outstanding practicing engineers, and for informal discussions with faculty members of the department. Opportunity is also provided for students to attend meetings of other student branches as well as the sectional and professional division meetings.

The plans for a trip through industrial areas will help students now in school to realize the responsibilities which they will take upon themselves when they graduate and take their places in the engineering profession.

The University Band is pictured above after a concert in the Field House. Mr. Zahrt directed.

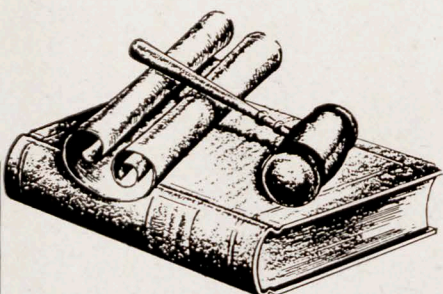

BAND

The University band is open to all qualified students, and the enrollment has grown steadily since the end of World War II. This year for the first time three bands have formed, a football band, a concert band, and an R.O.T.C. band. The football band held regular rehearsals from four to six hours each week during September, October, and November; they made trips to Fort Smith and to Memphis for the Texas game. They also performed for all the home games and led the homecoming parade. The drum major was J. P. Crumpler, and the twirling corps consisted of Mona Lee Morris, Patsy Poland, and Lawrence Kelley. The football band also entertained the T.C.U. band with a party after the game with Texas Christian Christian University.

The R.O.T.C. band meets each Wednesday at 4:30 p. m., and members receive credit for R.O.T.C. drill. This organization plays for all R.O.T.C. ceremonies and for one or two parades a year. The R.O.T.C. band also took part in the homecoming parade. All R.O.T.C. cadets who play band instruments are eligible for membership in the organization.

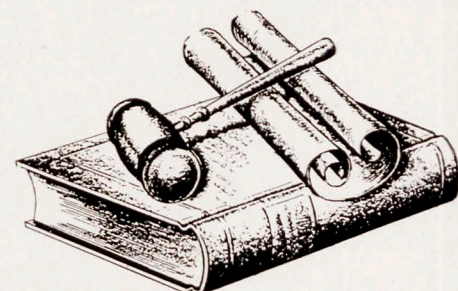

Immediately after the close of the football season the concert band was organized. This group played for commencement ceremonies in February and in June. They presented several public concerts and also went on a short concert tour. This group sponsored a student dance on Valentine Day, using cupids and hearts to decorate the mirror in the ballroom along with other Valentine decorations. The concert band assisted with the Arkansas High School Band Clinic during the latter part of February. Mark H.

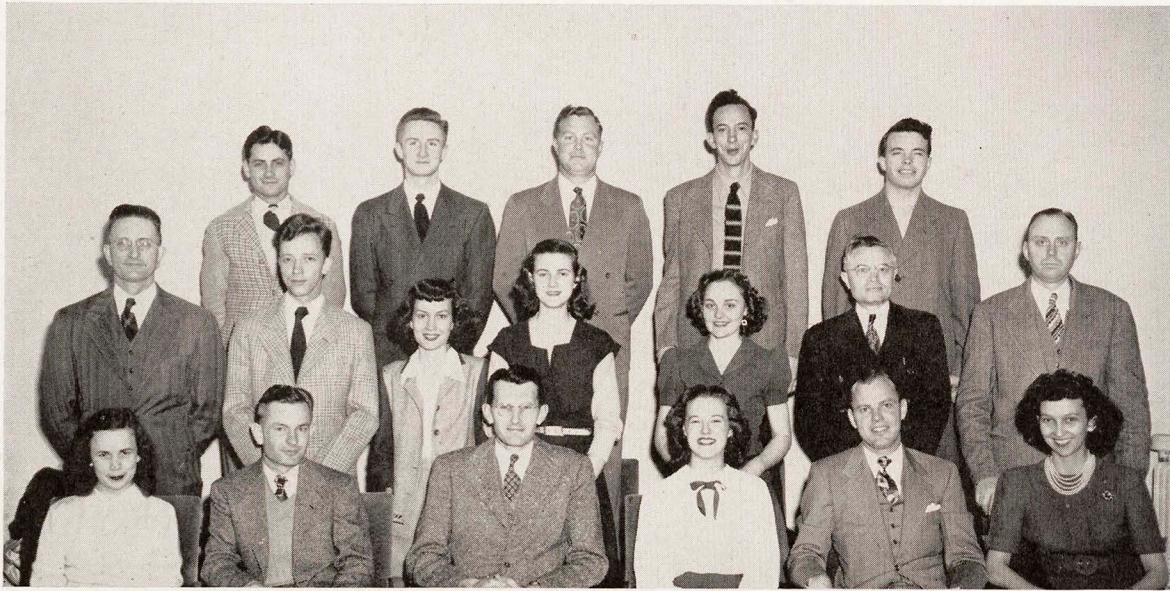

Hindsley of the University of Illinois was guest conductor for the clinic, and band members from all over the state attended. At the end of the clinic a concert was presented featuring two clinic bands of 115 players each, and a group of selections by the University concert band. The concert band meets three hours each week and members receive one hour credit each semester.

Merton S. Zahrt is director of bands, in addition to his duties as assistant professor of music education. The student director of the 1947-48 band was John D. Henley III. Other officers included: president, John Henley; vice-president, J. W. Stedman; secretary, Francis F. Barton; and treasurer, Vera McKnight. Elections were held during the first semester.

Lambda chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, national honorary band fraternity, was reorganized in May, 1947, with Neil Wilbanks, president; John Henley, vice-president; Claude Chambers, secretary; and J. W. Stedman, treasurer. In September, 1947, John Henley became president to replace the former president who transferred to another school. Jack Hall was then elected vice-president; and Tommy Watson was pledgemaster. Director M. S. Zahrt is an honorary member of the fraternity and is also sponsor of the organization. The purpose of the fraternity is to foster brotherhood among outstanding band members, and to assist in the activities of the University bands.

The band acquired new red and white West Point type uniforms this year, which added greatly to the appearance of the marching unit as well as the concert band.

The Baptist Student Union presents a challenge to the student to forget neither God nor man in his preparation to serve society. This organization affords participating encouragement for the student away from home. It links him with the church in the college center so that spiritual development occurs simultaneously with intellectual development.

Its work is not limited to the local campus alone for it is a unit of the state and southwide Baptist Student Union. In its affiliation with the Baptist World Youth Congress, the BSU extends its efforts beyond the limits of the United States. It seeks to co-operate with all groups that accept and support the teaching of Christ in building character.

The BSU is directed in its planning and promotional activities by a sixteen-member executive council and a student secretary. This council is assisted by the Greater Council which is composed of officers of the unit organizations. A student becomes a member when he joins any unit organization of the local church.

The primary purpose of Boots and Spurs, which was established in 1938, is to promote a genuine interest in horsemanship among Arkansas students, to improve their riding ability, and to provide them with outdoor recreation and exercise.

Rush parties are held each semester for potential members, and the horse-lovers who pledge are required to ride 16 hours a semester, and may take rides any time during the week.

Regular meetings are held twice a week, and pledges may gain additional knowledge of how to stay in the saddle from private instructors or by consulting club text books.

The club colors are sky-blue and scarlet which typify the ideals of the club and the various club standards as set forth by the organization's constitution.

Founded on the University of Arkansas campus in 1912, Blackfriars brings together students who are interested in all phases of dramatic production and gives them an opportunity to develop their dramatic possibilities by the production of meritorious plays.

This year Blackfriars produced three well-known plays, "Antigone," "State of the Union," and "The Idiot". The Varsity Show, which was presented in connection with the Gaebale, was written and produced by members of Blackfriars.

Members of Blackfriars get experience not only in acting but also in crew work such as stage management, scenery construction, make-up, and all the things necessary for the production of plays. Blair Hart is faculty sponsor.

The Branner Geology Club, which was reorganized in 1946 after having been disbanded during the war, had a successful year and an increase in membership.

Although meetings of the Branner Geology Club were held as early as 1912, it was not officially organized until 1925. The club was named in honor of John C. Branner, who was a former outstanding state geologist of Arkansas and later became president of Stanford University.

Branner Geology Club was formed as a social and educational club for students majoring and minoring in geology; however, meetings, which are held monthly, are always open to visitors. Attendance at meetings this year has averaged over forty.

At the regular meetings the programs are either talks by students, faculty, or geologists, or moving pictures on geological and related subjects.

The Association of Canterbury Clubs is a national organization of Episcopal students located on college and university campuses throughout the country. The member groups are committed to a definite program of worship, study, service, giving, evangelism, and unity. The U. of A. Canterbury Club is, in effect, the student section of the Church Society for College Work of the Episcopal Church.

The activities of the local Canterbury Club this year have been: The development of interesting and informative programs, the sponsoring of a clothing drive in all the organized men's houses, and the mailing of the clothes to needy persons in Europe. Meetings of the club are held bi-monthly.

The University Men's Bible Class poses with their sponsors outside their meeting place at the Central Presbyterian Church.

During its thirty years under the same leadership, the University Men's Class of the Central Presbyterian Church has steadily emphasized the importance of Jesus Christ in the life of a student, and loyalty to Him as a basis of enduring friendships and helpful associations. Stress has been laid upon regular consecutive attendance and days of special importance in the life of a university man have been celebrated.

Following a custom of nearly a quarter century, members of the football team are guests of honor on a day in the fall and the basketball team on a similar day in the winter. Homecoming, Thanksgiving, and Christmas Sundays, as well as Mother's Day, are given special attention.

December 14, 1947, set an all-time record in total attendance of 303, with a Single Sunday Attendance for a group of 143 by the Kappa Sigmas. The members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon had the best consecutive group record in the first semester.

Other student activities in the Church include participation in Christian Council and Christian Associations on the campus, as well as in the activities of Westminster Fellowship in Presbytery and Synod and in the national program of Westminster Foundation. An informal group meets each Sunday evening for discussion and fellowship at dinner under the leadership of the Rev. John P. McConnell.

Davis Bates Richardson succeeded Pendleton Woods in the fall as vice-president, and Dalton Jennings succeeded Carroll Barge as treasurer during the second semester.

Chant! Yell! Chant some more and yell some more! Yea red, yea white! Where's that old Arkansas spirit? These lusty pleadings were hurled at Razor-back fans throughout all the major sports events of the year by the cheerleaders who "called the hogs" until they were hoarse.

The Cheerleaders, who are selected twice a year by the Arkansas Boosters Club, serve for one term of the school year. The Fall cheerleaders serve during the football season and the Spring cheerleaders serve through the basketball season and for the remaining sports events of the year.

This year the Cheerleaders who served during the football season were headed by Bud Baldwin. His tonsil strained helpers included Fuzzy Cox, Geraldine Camby, Louise Bourgeois, Betty Gibson, Tiger Hurt, and Mickey McSwain. This group attended all out-of-town football games including those in Little Rock, Memphis, and Tulsa. This year, as has been the custom in the past, the Cheerleaders led the traditional Homecoming parade which was held before the game with Texas A. and M.

The Cheerleaders for the Spring term were headed by Bill Sonneman. Members of his squad were Copeland Landes, Maisey Lackey, Jeanine Campbell, Ruth Ann Daniels, Dave Collins, and Jay Jones.

"The 'Arkansas System' is one that I hope to see expanded to many universities, and the close cooperation between the student body and the faculty of the Business School is an outstanding example of the mixture of business and pleasure," said Dr. Howard R. Bowen, Dean of the College of Business Administration of the University of Illinois, at his appearance as guest speaker at the annual Winter Commerce Day Convocation, on January 9. Dean Bowen was brought to the campus by the Executive Council of the Commerce Guild, and spoke at the convocation to a capacity crowd.

The "Arkansas System" is the result of the work of the student body, past and present, and the faculty. It has resulted in the formation of the Commerce Guild, which is composed of all the students of the College of Business Administration.

COMMERCE GUILD

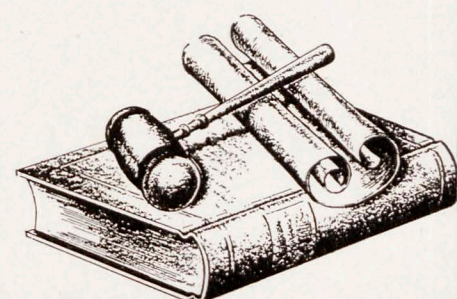

The Winter Convocation, an annual affair of the Commerce Guild, was termed the "Stockholders Meeting of the Commerce Guild" in order to give it the proper business atmosphere. All business students who attended the meeting were given tickets good for one of the many valuable prizes that were given away in a drawing held at the Commerce Day dance.

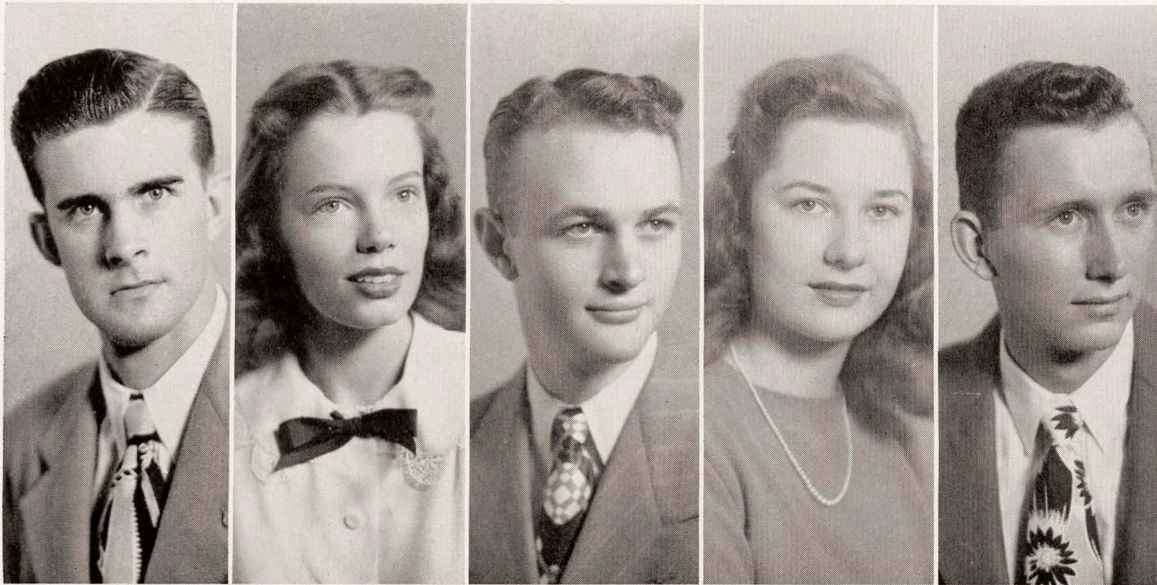

The Commerce Guild exists to express and provide for the needs of the students, to foster cooperation between faculty and students, and to promote the interests of the college and the university. It is the largest student organization at the University of Arkansas and its officers are elected by its members, the business students.

All the activities of the Commerce Guild and the expenditures of its funds are planned by the Executive Council. Composed of thirty-six members, the Executive Council consists of four officers and four representatives elected from each class, and four officers and four representatives elected at large. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff has been responsible for much of the success of the Council this year. His leadership has resulted in a program of outstanding service to the organization.

Among the many accomplishments of the Guild this year were the issuance of orientation information to freshmen and new students, order of a pay telephone to be installed for student use, and the reservation of two rooms in the Commerce Building for student use. One of these two rooms was completely redecorated and outfitted to serve as a business seminar classroom and placement room. The other is an informal study room with current periodicals for reference work. This study room was launched with great success during the second term.

The Commerce Day held January 9 was the second winter day to be celebrated. In addition to the convention, the annual Council banquet was held. The senior class was honored at this banquet.

The Christian Youth Fellowship of the First Christian Church is composed of students attending the university and those of university age who have finished school or are employed. Its purpose is to encourage worship, study, fellowship, church attendance and service on the campus and in the community.

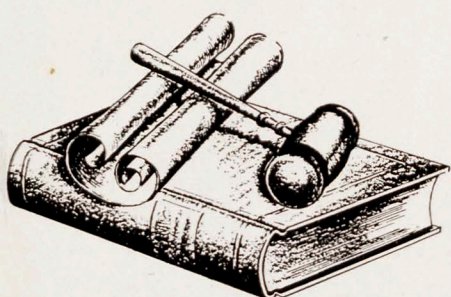

As well as providing fellowship for university students, the CYF has also contributed financially to such movements as the World Student Service Fund, the Disciple Student Fellowship and many other local and national movements.

The meetings, held on Sunday evenings, offer a wonderful opportunity for worship, discussion of current topics and fellowship with other students. The meetings each Sunday are followed by a supper.

At the first of the second semester the CYF was completely reorganized as to operation of the group. A well-rounded program was set up to induce more students to attend. This worked marvels, and the organization has grown in numbers as well as purpose. Many interesting and enriching worship programs, under the guidance of Betty Morrow, were presented.

In November, the CYF brought to the campus Russell Fuller, who attended the World Student Christian Federation in Oslo, Norway, during the summer of 1947. He spoke on conditions of students in Europe.

The CYF has been sponsored by the Rev. J. Robert Moffett, and was represented on the Campus Christian Council by Vance Cook and Betty Morrow.

For the last nine years Coterie has been a social organization for independent women students on the campus. Coterie members are chosen by the five points of the Coterie star: leadership, social ability, loyalty, sincerity, and fellowship.

Coterie had many social events which included three rush parties, an initiation banquet at Tontitown, and a Christmas dance. The annual formal Christmas party was also held during the holiday season at the home of the sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Belvin.

Coterie girls won many honors this year. Nell Curry, Jean Hilton, and Retha Thompson were all appointed to Sophomore Council, Wilma Spiller was a football maid at the Ole Miss game and Dot LaVoice was a maid for the Homecoming game.

Delta Theta Phi was organized on the campus in 1941 by fifteen students who felt a need for a law fraternity whose membership was based on professional aptitude, scholarship and congeniality. The local senate was installed as a reactivation of the old senate formerly located in the Arkansas Law School in Little Rock, and was named for the late Joseph T. Robinson, eminent jurist and U. S. Senator from Arkansas.

Deutscher Verein was first organized in 1904 to promote the study of German life and literature, and was primarily designed to give practice in the spoken language. In 1917, before the First World War, the club was one of the largest groups on the campus, but it was forced to drop its activities during the war, because of anti-German sentiment. Dr. A. E. Lussky reorganized the Deutscher Verein in 1929, only to have it become inactive again with the outbreak of World War II.

Reorganized once again in October of 1946, the club now meets every first and third Thursdays of each month under the sponsorship of Prof. John Wesley Thomas of the foreign language department. The monthly meetings of Deutscher Verein feature speakers, songs, movies, and plays. An annual beer bust will close this year's activities. Harold Keller, this year's president, leads most of the discussions in German on the current national affairs. Deutscher Verein has had a very successful year this year.

The Engineering Council is composed of seventeen engineering students who plan and direct the social functions of the Engineering School. The membership consists of two members of each affiliate student branch of AIChE, ASME, AIEE, and ASCE, and are elected by three respective branches to represent them: the engineering students serving as members on the Student Senate; the editor and business manager of the Arkansas Engineer; and four members which are elected at large, one for each class, that is freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior. The present officers are: Ray Hedgecock, president; Bob Maddox, vice-president; Lester Redmond, secretary; and Tom Lyle, treasurer.

The meetings of the Engineering Council are held on the second and fourth Mondays of the month whenever such meetings are necessary to conduct business. This business usually consists of talks, and problems concerning the coming Engineer's Day.

Engineer's Day is celebrated as near St. Patrick's Day as convenient and although St. Patrick is recognized and honored as a patron saint of the engineers, few students realize the true meaning of St. Patrick's Day or why engineers select his birthday as a day of celebration.

First, they have a legal excuse for cutting classes; second, somehow it proves to them that a number of years back there was a stone (the Blarney stone) found in the foothills of Missouri which had the words "Erin Go Braugh" chiseled upon it. A neighboring school, the University of Missouri, lay claim to the founding of St. Patrick's Engineer's Day. It seems that back before the days of the mechanical ditch-digger someone had dug the holes and found the stone with its strange markings. The discussion that followed resulted in the conclusion that "Erin Go Braugh" meant "St. Patrick was an engineer". With such a great personage sharing the griefs of the four to seven year push through the engine school, there was but one resolution to make. This was for all the Missouri senior engineering students to meet in the library, dedicate themselves to St. Patrick, parade down the streets singing Irish songs and drinking Irish liquor. With the prospect of getting out of classes the following St. Patrick's Day, plans for other Engineer's Days were formulated.

In the year 1907 the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla began a similar celebration, and March 17, 1909, marked the beginning of this celebration at the University of Arkansas. The practice of celebrating Engineer's Day has continued at Arkansas up to the present time. Attractions have been added to the celebration from time to time including such things as painting shamrocks wherever possible, election of St. Pat and St. Patricia, the knighting of the senior engineers, fireworks, a banquet, breakfast, and engineers' dance. Betty Sullivan, freshman from Harrisburg, and J. O. Grizzell, Jr., from Memphis, Tennessee, were selected to reign as St. Patricia and St. Pat over the annual celebration this year.

In order to separate the men from the boys, a contest is held during the St. Patrick's celebration to determine who can grow the longest beard.

The Future Farmers of America is the national organization for students of vocational agriculture. Organized in November, 1928, by Henry C. Groseclose, it has served to motivate and visualize the systemic instruction offered to students of agriculture and to provide further training in farm citizenship. It exists today because of a cooperative spirit and a desire on the part of farm boys to have a national organization.

The University of Arkansas Collegiate Chapter of F.F.A. was granted a charter in 1939 and is now the only collegiate chapter in the state. The local chapter is designed primarily for training prospective teachers of vocational agriculture in their duties as advisors in F.F.A. The aim of the chapter is to encourage boys who show promise in high school and are agriculturally interested to attend the University of Arkansas. Faculty advisors are Dr. Roy W. Roberts and Dr. La Van N. Shoptaw, both of the agricultural education department.

Gamma Delta is the international association of Lutheran college and university students. It is sponsored by the Student Service Commission of the Missouri Synod and is governed by the Lutheran students of the Synodical Conference.

In 1928 the Lutheran students affiliated with the Synodical Conference organized the Student District of the International Walther League. This enterprise was conceived by the Walther League as a temporary expedient until the Church would be able to offer something of a more permanent character to her college students. In 1934 the accredited delegates from twelve colleges and universities unanimously effected the dissolution of the Student District of the Walther League and organized Gamma Delta.

Gamma Delta chapter activities are spiritual, cultural, social, and athletic in nature. Gamma Delta publishes the Spectator, an informative and stimulating bi-monthly magazine. Regional seminars and annual conventions are arranged.

Gamma Iota, which secured its national charter here at the University in August, 1944, has carried on an active program this year to mark its fourth year of service to ex-G. I.'s.

Under the direction of its president, Doyce Hester, it waged a fight for increased subsistence for G. I. trainees as its major project for the year. In December it sent a representative to Washington, D. C., to aid in a national lobby of student veterans in an effort to get Congress to pass the increased veteran's subsistence bill. Gamma Iota members feel sure that their efforts had a great deal to do with the passing of a bill that gave the veterans a sizeable increase in their subsistence checks.

Although the main purpose of the Home Ec Club is to discuss and study the most effective methods of household management, it is not entirely a "problem study" club. The members, in the expectation that later on they will be called upon to apply this knowledge to problems in their own homes, strive for perfect cooperation with the Home Economics department by taking an active part in all activities of the department. It is in this way that the club is able to develop leadership and social qualities in its members.

The Home Ec club opened the year with its annual Fall weiner roast at Harmon playfield in honor of the freshmen. In December the club held its annual Christmas tea, and the following month it sponsored a rummage sale. Representatives of the club were sent to the State Home Ec Club meeting in Little Rock and the province meeting in Memphis.

The International Relations Club is a discussion group which considers matters of world importance, and attempts to foster among its members an insight into the complex international situations existing today. Training of future world citizens is the main object of the club, and for this reason membership is open to all students who are interested in world affairs. On this campus the International Relations Club, which is affiliated with the national organization, is connected with the political science department, and has Dr. Henry Alexander as faculty sponsor.

Highlighting this year's activities were two speakers, Mr. Ragnar Austad, of the English department, who spoke of his wartime experiences in Europe; and the Rev. John P. McConnell, of the Central Presbyterian Church, who spoke on the Near-Eastern situation in Palestine. Faculty members and other authorities on world affairs conduct the discussions at regular meetings. The club meets twice each month for such discussions.

The University of Arkansas Student Branch of the Institute of Radio Engineers was organized in September and has steadily grown in membership since. Its purpose is to promote a professional consciousness in the electronics industry, and it is particularly concerned with electrical communications and electronic devices. The requirement for membership is an interest in electronics. I.R.E. provides an opportunity for those who are interested to get together and discuss problems on electronics and articles in current periodicals.

Two inspection trips were made in the fall: to KGRH in Fayetteville, and to KUOA at Siloam Springs which operates a FM station.

I.R.E. meetings are held weekly under the supervision of their faculty advisor, Mr. George N. Scott. Members can conduct experiments of their own choice in the Communications laboratory. The organization is characterized by good fellowship and a common interest in an active science.

Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity, was established on the University of Arkansas campus on May 24, 1941, as a successor to Brush and Palette Club.

The purpose of Kappa Pi is to promote art appreciation and participation in colleges and universities. The organization also endeavors to encourage high cultural standards among art students, and to teach them to recognize outstanding contributions to art.

Membership in the fraternity is earned by those who have shown special ability in art and general scholarship. Scholastic requirements are a four point grade average in art and a three point accumulative grade average.

In addition to assisting with exhibits which came to the campus this year, the group sponsored a drive at Christmas to collect art materials to be included in Goodfellow baskets for children. They also opened a gift booth in the Student Union where they sold hand-painted ties and head scarves, and linoleum-block printed greeting cards.

Miss Tommie Ray Sadler is sponsor for the chapter.

The women's division of the Major-Minor Club was organized on the Arkansas campus in 1945. It is composed of women students majoring and minoring in physical education. The club is designed to promote group spirit among students in the field of physical education and to foster professional growth. All members of the club are members of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

This organization cooperates with the Women's Athletic Association in officiating at all intramural games. The club members also assist in teaching and demonstrating in physical education classes.

The organization meets twice a month for business meetings. Many parties, dances, and picnics are held throughout the year. After a full year's program, the annual spring camping trip at Lake Wedington is the big event for the girls. At this time the girls get together for a big time camping, cooking, and all phases of the outdoor life.

The Major-Minor Physical Education Club for Men was recognized as a campus organization in December, 1947. The primary purpose of this organization is to stimulate a wide and intelligent interest in physical education. All members of the club are also members of the American Association for Health, and Physical Education and Recreation, which has the largest membership of any other branch of the National Education Association. The club was organized under the leadership of Troy Hendricks.

The Razorback detachment of the Marine Corps League was formed on the campus in November, 1946, by a group of former Marines and chartered in April, 1947, by the national organization of the Marine Corps League whose headquarters is in New York.

The purpose of the League is to preserve the traditions and to promote the interests of the United States Marine corps. It also strives to bring together in fellowship those who are now serving in the United States Marine Corps and those who have been honorably discharged from that service.

Only persons who are serving or who have served honorably in the United States Marine Corps are eligible for membership in the Marine Corps League. The Razorback detachment has 30 active members at this time. Their regular meetings are held the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

The Razorback detachment of the Marine Corps League has this year sponsored certain war department movies, contributed to the March of Dimes enlistment fund, and sent cigarettes to the various veterans hospitals in the United States.

The University of Arkansas chapter of National Collegiate Players was organized on December 7, 1947. The organization is a national honorary dramatic fraternity, and members are selected on the basis of leadership in the theater. Election of members is limited to juniors and seniors who have completed class-work in the theater and have demonstrated outstanding ability in scholastic work and in acting or technical performance. The purpose of the organization is primarily to recognize and encourage interest and participation in all phases of educational dramatics.

The first chapter of National Collegiate Players was established on June 8, 1919, at the University of Wisconsin. The name for the organization was formerly Pi Epsilon Delta, and was later changed to National Collegiate Players because it was felt that the Greek name might indicate a secret or social group. Pi Epsilon Delta remains as a sub-head of the fraternity, however, and appears on the pins and official seal.

Among the plays produced at the University, in which the new members have taken part, are "Blythe Spirit", "I Remember Mama," "High Tor," "State of the Union," and "The Idiot".

The Organized Independent Womens group was activated in the spring of 1946 because of the number of girls who live in adjoining towns and in homes in Fayetteville other than organized houses and dormitories. This gave the girls an opportunity to meet other girls facing similar problems in living off the campus, and to adjust themselves to campus life.

In addition to uniting unaffiliated women on the campus, the organization provides social events for members and insures participation in student government and activities.

Orchesis is an organization interested in modern dance, established on this campus in 1937. Its purpose is to develop modern dance technique and to give its members an opportunity to compose dances as well as to receive instructions on the dances of others.

Each of the monthly meetings consists of a study of techniques, which is followed by a period in which the members work on the creation of individual dances. The group also makes a study of music in relation to the modern dance.

Tryouts are no longer required because of the theory that some persons develop more slowly than others. Any young women who is a member of a modern dance class may become a member. Active participation is required of all the members.

One of the main objectives of the organization is to work toward exhibition, and each year a performance is planned. The students design and make their own costumes for each demonstration.

Pan-American League was organized for the purpose of getting college students in the United States better acquainted with Latin-American affairs and for promoting a better speaking knowledge of the Spanish language. The requirements for becoming a member of the Pan-American League are that you be either a student in one of the Spanish classes or have a particular interest in Pan-American relations. This summer the League is planning to sponsor a trip to Mexico for all members who wish to go.

The primary purpose of Phi Sigma, national society for workers in the field of biology, is to encourage better work and better research in the biological sciences. In order to be eligible for membership in the society, a candidate must have completed a minimum of two years of college work and must have an accumulative grade average of 3.5. At least one-fourth of his college hours must be in biological science, in which he must have a grade average of 4.0. Both men and women are eligible.

Alpha Rho chapter of Phi Sigma was brought to this campus in May of 1945 through the efforts of a local biological society known as Probe and Scope. Local faculty members aided greatly in securing the charter.

Monthly meetings are held, at which students present papers for group discussion. National meetings are held every two years in conjunction with the meetings of the American Society for the Advancement of Science.

Phi Upsilon Omicron is a national professional organization for women in the field of home economics. Membership is based upon leadership ability as well as scholarship.

The first chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1909, and on the University of Arkansas campus in 1943. There are now thirty-three chapters in the United States.

Every year Phi Upsilon Omicron sponsors a professional project. This year the project was an open meeting each month at which time an outstanding person in the field of home economics was presented.

The University of Arkansas Pre-Law Society is a free membership, non-secret organization dedicated by its constitution to the promotion of information and knowledge of pre-legal education and the many phases of legal practice.

Although it has been organized only since last fall, it has risen to an active campus organization. The society has sponsored a program featuring talks by prominent state legal authorities to inform its members of the duties of legal practice and democratic citizenship.

A press for the University of Arkansas was the pet project of the Press Club under their first semester president, Pendleton Woods. Second semester brought the club closer to its goal when a press for the University became no longer a dream but a definite possibility for the future.

The annual Journalism Day celebration sponsored by the Press Club was highlighted this year by the appearance of the celebrated columnist, Marquis Childs, who spoke before the group and was then presented with a gold Press Club key at a dinner given in his honor by the organization.

Reserve Officers Naval Service is a national organization of reserve officers of the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard. Its purpose is to encourage interest in naval affairs and National Defense. The individual chapters voicing their opinions through the National Headquarters have been very influential in the passage of several bills beneficial to the Naval Reserve. The University chapter, besides its more serious activities, has recalled memories of the old Navy days by its parties and dinner dances at the Country Club. In peace as in war, when Navy men get together there is bound to be a party.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a national professional music fraternity for women, taking for membership only those students outstanding in musical ability. Sigma Omicron Chapter was established on the University of Arkansas campus in 1926, and since then approximately 175 members have been added.

Among interesting activities during the 1947-48 school year was the "national visit" at which time the chapter was honored to have two national officers as guests for two days. The outstanding event during their visit was the annual Founders Day Banquet which brought together all the members, pledges, alumnae, and patronesses to salute the founders of the fraternity.

Carrying out the objectives of Sigma Omicron, the chapter sponsored receptions following the concerts of artists and recitals of the music faculty of the University. The members also served at the Musical Coffee Hour, which is sponsored by the University. The year was closed with the annual American Composers Program. A recital which was given during National Music Week was devoted entirely to American compositions.

Lending color and pep to university sports events are members of the Rootin' Rubes, sister organization to ABC, men's booster club. Traditional on the Arkansas campus since 1925, the feminine pepsters in their red-and-white uniforms are present at all football and basketball games.

Membership in Rootin' Rubes is by a quota system, with each organized women's house selecting ten girls to pledge. New members are pledged in the fall of each year and must fulfill certain requirements, such as knowing the Alma Mater and all school yells, before becoming full-fledged members.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon Club was organized in the fall of 1947 at a banquet given by Sigma Phi Epsilon alumni. The club was organized for the purpose of re-establishing the Arkansas Alpha Chapter of the national social fraternity, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was originally founded at Richmond College in Virginia in the year 1901. Since its birth the fraternity has grown into one of the largest in the nation. It now has over 27,000 members.

Activities in which the local Sig Ep club has engaged are many. They made visits to active Sigma Phi Epsilon Chapters, and were active in the usual socials which were held preparatory to their formal initiation and installation as an active social fraternity.

In its neophyte stage the club aims at the furthering of scholarship and fellowship among its members. It also looks forward to the abolition of the "new look" and to the curbing of James Caesar Petrillo. At almost any time members of Sig Ep. may be found in the cafeteria of the Student Union discussing how these aims may be brought about.

Sophomore Council is an honorary organization for Sophomore women whose members are chosen on a leadership and scholarship basis by Mortar Board, a sister organization. This year, thirty girls made up the largest membership since the council was organized on the Arkansas campus in 1942.

One of the projects undertaken by the Council this year was the sponsoring of the remodeling of the lounge in Old Main. New women on the campus were entertained by the counselors with listening parties to all out-of-town football games.

The Square and Compass Club was first established on the University of Arkansas campus in 1921. After several years of very successful operation the organization ceased activities until the fall of 1945. In May, 1946, the club was dissolved to form the University U. D. Lodge. Then in September, 1947, the present Square and Compass Club was organized.

The purpose of the Square and Compass Club is to furnish a program of social activities for worthy Master Masons. Membership in the club is limited to Master Masons who are students, faculty members, or staff members of the University.

The activities of the club have been characterized by interesting and informative discussions on things of Masonic interest.

During the Spring term new officers were elected to serve the organization. The new officers were: president, John Haney; vice-president, William Hensley; secretary-treasurer, Major Lilly.

Now in its third year, the Student Christian Council endeavors to bring about a closer fellowship between the churches of Fayetteville and the students on the University campus.

The Council is composed of two student representatives from each of the city churches and two representatives from both the YMCA and the YWCA. Pastors of the city churches are advisors to the Council, which meets bi-monthly on Thursday afternoons in the Student Union.

The main program of the Council is the sponsorship of Religious Emphasis Week which is held each spring. Noted Christian leaders are brought to the campus to lead discussions and hold personal conferences with the object of emphasizing Christian living by the individual.

The Council functions through three standing committees which plan the activities for the year, publicize the work of the Council, and plan Religious Emphasis Week.

During the fall the Council endorsed the World Student Service Fund, and some of the Council members were active in the drive.

The Student Union Board, made up of eleven members, six student members and five faculty members, serves as a general policy-making organization for the enlargement of the Student Union Program. It is hoped that the success of the Board in broadening the scope of activities and achieving maximum utilization of Student Union facilities will be manifest in a program of future years that will embrace full participation of all groups on the Arkansas campus.

The initial project this year was the reorganization of the Student Union Committees to implement the program of student activities. Over a hundred students were interviewed by the Student Union Board for chairmanship of the Art, Music, Poster, Special Projects, Publicity, Dance, and Radio Committees.

A major project of the Board has been the recommendation that the food service facilities of the Student Union be enlarged in order to accommodate more luncheons and banquets for student organizations and entertainment of guests of the University.

Among the activities which are sponsored by the union committees have been a Christmas party for children of University students, musical coffee hour, and a weekly radio program.

The University Religions Club grew out of a group of students who saw the need for such an organization of students interested in religion. A meeting of eight students was held in Mr. Gregson's office October 9, 1947. From this meeting grew the idea that all religions of the campus should be included to facilitate better understanding and wider knowledge of the actual part that religion plays in the lives of the students on the University of Arkansas campus.

Four days later, with the number interested doubled, the second meeting was held, officers elected, and the name "University Religions Club" chosen. Dick Whitwam, who conceived the idea for the organization, acted as temporary chairman. Soon afterwards, the constitution was accepted and organization completed.

The purpose of the University Religions Club is to further education in religions, by sponsoring public speakers on religious topics, holding informal discussions of religions, and cooperation with all other religious organizations on the campus to promote religious activities. The club promotes a better understanding and tolerance of the different religions represented on the campus.

The University Religions Club has grown to include members of all races and religions on the campus. It has accomplished this by stimulating interest in religions and religious activities.

The Varsity Club, a student dance band which plays for many of the student dances, began the year under the direction of Bitsy Mullins, but changed leaders during the course of the second semester and was then fronted by Joe Emerson. Leo Benson and R. S. Martin were in charge of all the business affairs for the orchestra.

The 1947-48 school year was a very good year for the band, and many thought this Varsity Club was the best orchestra ever to play on the University of Arkansas campus. The Club featured Bitsy's trumpet and Leo Benson's trombone, along with several good solid arrangements featuring different sections within the band. Two of the numbers which the band put forth in truly inimitable style were "How High the Moon" and "Moton Swing." The band held its rehearsals each Thursday in the Student Union Ballroom, and the spectators thoroughly enjoyed the provided entertainment.

The Varsity Club's slogan, "A Tradition in Fine Music," dates back to around 1935 when the band was formed. Since then the band has been functioning every year, with the exception of the war years when student musicians were in the service of their country. The actual disbanding of the orchestra came in 1943, and wasn't again re-formed until 1945.

The Women's Athletic Association is a club organized to promote interest and to provide opportunity for participation in recreational sports for all undergraduate women students. Recreational activities sponsored by WAA include both team and individual sports such as volleyball, basketball, rifle marksmanship, orchesis, badminton, table tennis, softball, archery, tennis, and this year for the first time, bowling.

Awards are made to members of WAA on the basis of points earned by participation in the various activities. The first letter, a four-inch "A", is awarded to a girl after she has earned four points; the second letter, a five-inch "A", is awarded for eight points; a sweater is awarded for twelve points; and stars for fourteen, fifteen, and sixteen points.

Teams are made up by each house and independent unit, and competitive play of the different sports continues throughout the year. WAA is governed by an Executive Board which meets twice each month.

Wesley Foundation is a part of the University life of a great many Methodist students. Stressing balanced living, it gives opportunity for mental, physical, and spiritual growth. Mental development is facilitated by discussions, lectures, and study. Recreation of all kinds provides physical exercise as well as fun and group interaction. By participation and leadership in worship programs and by further understanding of the meaning of the spiritual, religion grows in importance to the group.

General plans this year included adjusting the program to the needs of students in a changing and growing university. For example, changes to adjust to an older group, returning veterans, were made while keeping in mind the new freshmen and other students who would be a part of the group. The Social Action Committee was formed to direct a solution of social and economic problems which arise on our campus.

To promote interest for the advancement of religious drama is the purpose of the National Society of Wesley Players. The Kappa chapter was organized here on the University campus in 1931, the national chapter having been organized at the University of Illinois in 1924.

Membership is open to all university students who are interested in producing, acting, or studying religious drama. Productions this year included: "The Amazing Cosmopolites," "Why the Chimes Rang," "His First Date," and "Conversion". Meetings are held bi-monthly.

Begun many years as a service to the Southern Presbyterian students on the University campus, the Westminster Fellowship has grown to be the third largest church affiliated group on the campus. Remaining true to its purpose of inspiration, education, fellowship, and service, the Fellowship group has proven itself to be of significant spiritual service to all who have engaged in its activities.

The work of the Westminster Fellowship is not limited to the campus and the community, however. By their interest, by their delegates, and by their generous contributions, the students endeavor to further the cause of the Church Universal the world over. In so doing they have grown, having discovered that only in giving does one receive.

During the week there are activities in which the students engage. At their Student Center, across from the Student Union, there is a lounge devoted entirely to their use. Under the leadership of full-time student workers they have organized their own choir, published their own newspaper, and conducted the organizational and executive work of the Westminster Fellowship program. The Rev. Lewis O. Waterstreet serves as minister to students.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS CLUB

OFFICERS

President BOB RILEY
 Vice-President . . . LAWRENCE DAWSON
 Secretary-Treasurer . DAVID A. WIEN

One of the newest organizations on the University of Arkansas campus this year is the Young Democrats Club. The club was formed late in September by the young voters on the campus who wished to emphasize democratic ideals, encourage greater participation in state and national government, and to recruit young and vigorous leaders within the Democratic party.

With these ideals in mind, the Young Democratic Clubs of Arkansas granted a charter to the University of Arkansas Chapter. The state organization has seventy-five clubs, one in each county of the state, and is affiliated with the Young Democratic Clubs of America. This gives the local chapter not only the opportunity of taking part in a state-wide movement, but national as well, thus assuring it of an active participation in an integrated political group. Since it was the first Young Democratic Club formed on a college campus in the state, it was granted two delegates to the state convention and sent one member to the national convention. Because of its large membership, which exceeds four hundred persons, the local group was allowed one member on the state Young Democrats Executive Committee. These provisions were made for the University chapter because it was believed that there should be greater political activity among young people, and that the nucleus of this should be greater political activity among college level.

One of the chief aims of the Young Democrats this year has been to instruct and inform students on the campus on mechanics and functions of Arkansas state government and to orient them to a greater realization of the responsibilities that they have in our government.

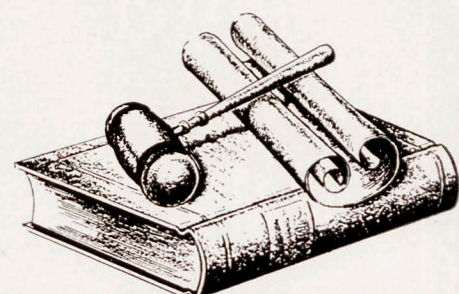

This was accomplished by the appearance of leaders in the state government who spoke at the club meetings on subjects pertaining to their respective offices. Among the speakers addressing the club were Governor Ben Laney and State Comptroller John J. Truemper who spoke concerning the legislative and administrative functions of state government. The policies and workings of our national government were dealt with by Senator J. William Fulbright. These talks served to inform the membership of what is being done in our state and federal government. There are, at present, plans to bring more speakers to the campus to address the club and the student body.

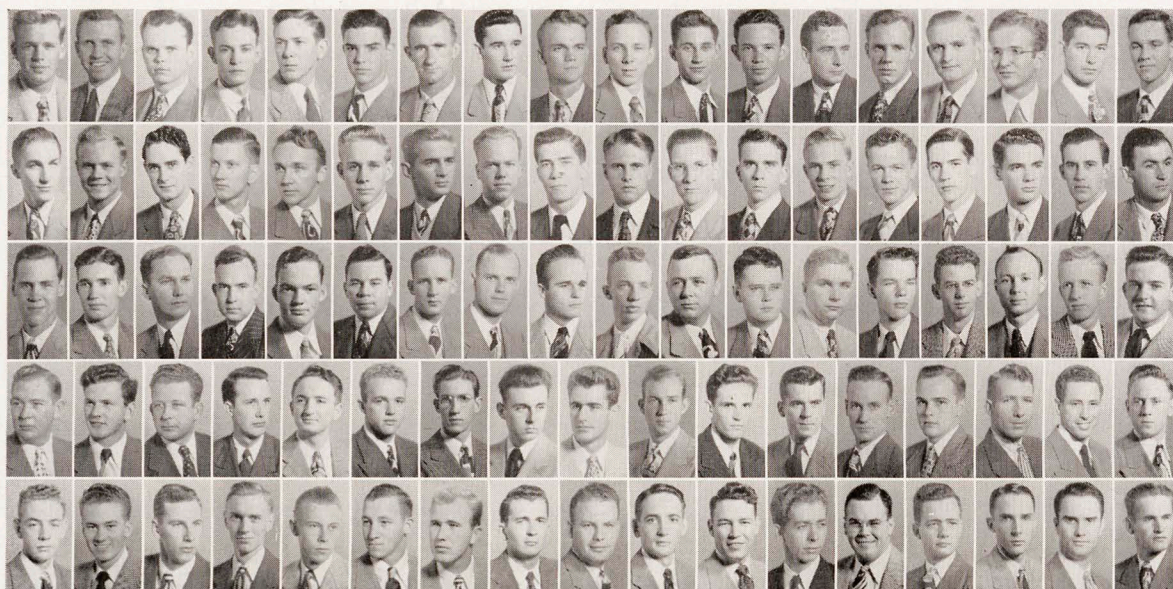

This spring the club, for the first time, actively participated in state politics. In March a booth was set up in the Student Union for the purpose of soliciting names of qualified voters to petition for a state constitutional amendment to lower the voting age in Arkansas to 18 years.

The group was ably led through the past year by Bob C. Riley, president, who is also on the Executive Committee of the state organization; Lawrence E. Dawson, vice-president, and David Wren, secretary-treasurer. Newbern Chambers and Frank Snellgrove represented the group at the state convention at Little Rock, while Wallace Wilks was delegate to the national convention at Cleveland, Ohio.

The YWCA topped previous membership drives this year with a total of almost 500 women students joining.

As a functional service group the "Y" strives to make campus life more pleasant and worthwhile. Through the time and interest rendered by its membership, the YWCA has become an integral part in the University of Arkansas campus activities.

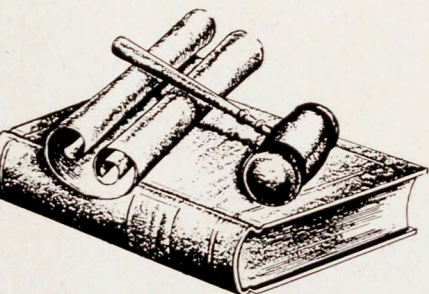

Once a year the World Student Service Fund, under the "Y" sponsorship, has a campus-wide drive to raise funds for fellow students. The contributions are distributed on a world-wide basis, thus giving assistance to students at home and abroad. This year almost $2,000 was raised by the local YWCA organization.

During the registration week of the first semester, YWCA, along with YMCA, sponsored a party for all students.

An All-Campus Caroling at Christmas was given by the two "Y" clubs at Christmas with students singing by a lighted tree in front of the Engineering building and then going to the Union for coffee and do-nuts which were furnished by the University president and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Webster Jones.

The "Y" sent several delegates to conferences in Little Rock and Kansas City.

The YWCA supplies magazines, newspapers, and other reading materials for the Student Union.
